For reprints, pays 50-60% of amount paid for an original article. Prefers complete ms. Reports in 2 months. Sample copy for $5 postpaid. Writer's guidelines for #10 SASE.
Nonfiction: Book excerpts (on writing/publishing); how-to (write and publish, market your writing); interview/profile (editors, agents, writers and publishers with how-to or marketing slant); new product occasionally (books, videotapes, software etc., on writing and publishing); writing for business and technical fields. "All types of writing from technical to romance novels and article writing are treated." No personal experience without a strong how-to slant. Buys 25-32 mss/year. Length: 800-1,800 words. Pays $25-75 on publication, or in certificates, on acceptance, for $50 to $150 toward WC membership and/or conferences.
Columns/Departments: Markets, contests, events, etc., are staff-written. Send information or announcements 6 weeks in advance of issue date for free listings in our newsletter; space available basis.
Tips: "We are currently seeking how-to articles that will benefit writers working for business and high-tech companies. The focus for these articles should appeal to the working professional writer. Also, find and report on new markets where freelancers can break in. Provide new techniques, ideas or perspectives for writing fiction or nonfiction; present your ideas in a lively, but practical style. No parodies or sarcasm, please. And no why-I-have-to-write or how-I-faced-writer's-block essays. We see (and return) far too many of these."

WRITER'S DIGEST, 1507 Dana Ave., Cincinnati OH 45207. (513)531-2222. Submissions Editor: Angela Terez. 90% freelance written. Monthly magazine about writing and publishing. "Our readers write fiction, poetry, nonfiction, plays and all kinds of creative writing. They're interested in improving their writing skills, improving their sales ability, and finding new outlets for their talents." Estab. 1921. Circ. 225,000. Pays on acceptance. Publishes ms an average of 1 year after acceptance. "We're able to use electronic submissions only for accepted pieces and will discuss details if we buy your work. We'll accept computer printout submissions, of course—but they must be readable. We strongly recommend letter-quality. If you don't want your manuscript returned, indicate that on the first page of the manuscript or in a cover letter." Reports in 3-6 weeks. Sample copy for $3. Writer's guidelines for #10 SASE.
• Writer's Digest was ranked as one of the best freelance markets in Writer's Digest magazine's annual "Top 100 Markets," January 1994.
Nonfiction: "Our mainstay is the how-to article—that is, an article telling how to write and sell more of what you write. For instance, how to write compelling leads and conclusions, how to improve your character descriptions, how to become more efficient and productive. We like plenty of examples, anecdotes and $$$ in our articles—so other writers can actually see what's been done successfully by the author of a particular piece. We like our articles to speak directly to the reader through the use of the first-person voice. Don't submit an article on what five book editors say about writing mysteries. Instead, submit an article on how you cracked the mystery market and how our readers can do the same. But don't limit the article to your experiences; include the opinions of those five editors to give your article increased depth and authority." General interest (about writing); how-to (writing and marketing techniques that work); humor (short pieces); inspirational; interview and profile (query first); new product; personal experience (marketing and freelancing experiences). "We can always use articles on fiction and nonfiction technique, and solid articles on poetry or scriptwriting are always welcome. No articles titled 'So You Want to Be a Writer,' and no first-person pieces that ramble without giving a lesson or something readers can learn from in the sharing of the story." Buys 90-100 mss/year. Queries are preferred, but complete mss OK. Length: 500-3,000 words. Pays 10¢/word minimum. Sometimes pays expenses of writers on assignment.

Photos: Used only with interviews and profiles. State availability of photos or send contact sheet with ms. Captions required.
Columns/Departments: Chronicle (first-person narratives about the writing life; length: 1,200-1,500 words); The Writing Life (length: 50-800 words); and Tip Sheet (short items that offer solutions to writing and freelance business-related problems that writers commonly face). Buys approximately 200 articles/year for Writing Life and Tip Sheet sections. Send complete ms.
Poetry: Light verse about "the writing life"—joys and frustrations of writing. "We are also considering poetry other than short light verse—but related to writing, publishing, other poets and authors, etc." Buys an average of 1 an issue. Submit poems in batches of 1-8. Length: 2-20 lines. Pays $10-50/poem.
Fillers: Anecdotes and short humor, primarily for use in The Writing Life column. Uses up to 4/issue. Length: 50-250 words.

WRITER'S FORUM, Writer's Digest School, 1507 Dana Ave., Cincinnati OH 45207. (513)531-2222. Editor: Tom Clark. 100% freelance written. Quarterly newsletter covering writing techniques, marketing and inspiration for students enrolled in fiction and nonfiction writing courses offered by Writer's Digest School. Estab. 1970. Circ. 13,000. Pays on acceptance. Publishes ms an average of 6 months after acceptance. Byline given. Buys first serial or second serial (reprint) rights. Submit seasonal/holiday material 4 months in advance. Accepts simultaneous and previously published submissions. Query for electronic submissions. Reports in 4-6 weeks. Free sample copy.
Nonfiction: How-to (write or market short stories, or articles, novels and nonfiction books) and inspirational articles that will motivate beginning writers. Buys 12 mss/year. Prefers complete mss to queries. "If you prefer to query, please do so by mail, not phone." Length: 500-1,000 words. Pays $10-25.

WRITER'S GUIDELINES: A Roundtable for Writers and Editors, Box 608, Pittsburg MO 65724. Fax: (417)993-5544. Editor: Susan Salaki. 97% freelance written. Bimonthly roundtable forum and market news reports for writers and editors. "We are interested in what writers on both sides of the desk have to say about the craft of writing." Estab. 1988. Circ. 1,000. Pays on publication. Byline given. Rights to the original work revert to contributors after publication. Reports in 1 week. Sample copy for $4. Writer's guidelines for #10 SASE.
Nonfiction: General interest, historical articles on writers/writing, psychological aspects of being a writer, how-to, interview/profile, personal experience, humor, fillers. Buys 20 mss/year. Prefer disposable photocopy submissions complete with SASE. May use both sides of each sheet of paper to save postage costs. Include SASE with all correspondence. Length: 800-1,000 words. Pay varies from copies to up to $25.
Fillers: Facts about writing or writers, short humor and cartoons, "wide-open to any facts of interest to writers or editors." No payment for fillers.
Tips: "If you believe what you have to say about writing or editing has needed to be said for some time now, then I'm interested. If you say it well, I'll buy it. This is a unique publication in that we offer original guidelines for over 300 magazine and book publishers and because of this service, writers and editors are linked in a new and exciting way—as correspondents. Articles that help to bridge the gap which has existed between these two professions have the best chance of being accepted. Publishing background does not matter. Include a short biography and cover letter with your submissions."

WRITER'S JOURNAL, Minnesota Ink, Inc., Suite 328, 3585 N. Lexington Ave., Arden Hills MN 55126. (612)486-7818. Publisher/Managing Editor: Valerie Hockert. Poetry Editor: Esther M. Writer's guidelines for #10 SASE.
Nonfiction: How-to (on the business and approach to writing), motivational, interview/profile, opinion. "Writer's Journal publishes articles on style, technique, editing methods, copy writing, research, writing of news releases, writing news stories and features, creative writing, grammar reviews, marketing, the business aspects of writing, copyright law and legal advice for writers/editors, independent book publishing, interview techniques, and more." Also articles on the use of computers by writers and a book review section. Buys 30-40 mss/year. Send complete ms. Length: 700-1,000 words. Pays to $50.
Poetry: Avant-garde, free verse, haiku, light verse, traditional. "The Writer's Journal runs two poetry contests each year in the spring and fall: Winner, 2nd, 3rd place and 10 honorable mentions." Buys 20-30 poems/year. Submit maximum 5 poems. Length: 25 lines maximum. Pays 25¢ line.
Tips: "Articles must be well written and slanted toward the business (or commitment) of writing and/or being a writer. Interviews with established writers should be in-depth, particularly reporting interviewee's philosophy on writing, how he or she got started, etc." The Writer's Journal now incorporates Minnesota Ink. Minnesota Ink is 100% freelance written and contains fiction and poetry.

‡THE WRITER'S NOOK NEWS, #181, 38114 3rd St., Willoughby OH 44094-6140. (216)953-9292. Fax: (216)354-6403. E-mail submissions: comprophet@delphi.com. Editor/Publisher: Eugene Ortiz. 100% freelance written. quarterly newsletter for professional writers. "We don't print fluff, anecdotes or platitudes. Articles must be specific, terse, pithy and contain information readers can put to immediate, practical use. Every article should be the kind you want to cut out and tape to your desk somewhere." Estab. 1985. Circ. 2,000. Pays on acceptance. Publishes ms an average of 5 months after acceptance. Byline given. Publication is not copyrighted. Buys first North American serial rights. Reports within 6 months. Sample copy for $5. Writer's guidelines for 9×12 SAE with 2 first-class stamps.
Nonfiction: How-to and interview/profile (writing and marketing). "No essays, poetry, fiction, ruminations or anecdotes. Will accept an occasional positive, thoughtful essay." Buys 80 mss/year. Send complete ms with credits and short bio. Length: 100-400 words. Pays 6¢/word.
Columns/Departments: Book Bench (short reviews of books related to writing), 400 words; Conferences & Klatches (listings of conferences and gatherings), 400-1,200 words; Contests & Awards (listings of contests and awards), 400 words; Writer's Rights (latest information on what's happening on Capitol Hill), 400 words; Markets (listings of information on markets for writers), 400 words. Buys 80 mss/year. Length: 400 words. Pays 6¢/word.
Fillers: Facts and newsbreaks. Buys 20/year. Length: 20-100 words. Pays 6¢/word.
Tips: "Take the writer's guidelines very seriously. 90% of the best submissions are still about 25% fluff. Don't tell me how hard or impossible it is to write anything of worth in only 400 words. This is not a market for beginners. Particularly looking for genre tips. Any genre. I need more helpful information for established writers, on alternative ways of earning money as a writer, songwriter, playwriter and screenwriter. Also looking for articles on functional illiteracy, first amendment rights, use of process theory and Internet. Nook News costs $5 for a sample copy and $18 for a one-year subscription. Now is the time to wisely invest in your career. Unfortunately, writers increasingly try to sell me articles even though they are unqualified. It would be better to subscribe and learn how to make sales elsewhere. Don't be penny wise and pound foolish."

WRITERS OPEN FORUM, Bristol Publishing, P.O. Box 516, Tracyton WA 98393-0516. Editorial Director: Sandra E. Haven. Fiction Editor: Paul Keck. 90% freelance written. Bimonthly publication designed to publish aspiring writers' stories, and to forward resulting responses from readers. Estab. 1990. Buys first rights. Byline and brief bio given. No poetry. Also offers a column of tips from readers, a markets listing, and a lesson on writing in each issue. Submit mss with SASE, cover letter, clear copies (not originals as notations may be made prior to return). No multiple or simultaneous submissions. Reports in 6 weeks. Guidelines and contest information available for SASE and details on upcoming themes or special Junior and Senior editions. Sample copy for $3; subscription $14.
- Ranked as one of the best markets for fiction writers in Writer's Digest magazine's biannual "Fiction 50," June 1994.

Columns/Departments: Writer to Writer: tips on writing sent in by writers (max. 300 words), pays 1 copy; Perspectives: 1 essay published per issue that offers a writer's personal, philosophic and/or humorous perspective (maximum 500 words), pays $5 and 3 contributor copies. Send complete ms; mark for intended column.
Fiction: Any genre (no slice-of-life, violence, graphic sex or experimental formats). "We also publish 2 special editions. Stories written for, about, and/or by those aged 6-18 can be submitted for our Juniors edition (mark manuscript accordingly). Stories that concern the lives of seniors as well as manuscripts written by seniors can be submitted for our Seniors edition (mark manuscript accordingly). Stories published will be open to responses by readers. Send complete ms. Book excerpts considered if they are so marked and within our fiction limits (include brief overview of book). Length: 2,000 words maximum, 600-1,200 preferred. Pays on acceptance, $5, plus 3 copies.
Tips: "Shorter manuscripts have greater chance of acceptance. In stories we like definite plots and resolutions resulting from the main character's action and/or decision. Always include a cover letter telling us a bit about yourself and your manuscript's intended audience (children's story, mystery, whatever). All sincere submissions (clean copy, guidelines followed, cover letter included) receive a personal reply; all subscriber submissions receive a brief critique."

‡WRITERS' REPORT, A Monthly Review of Products & Services for Writers, Juhl Communications, P.O. Box 27614, Lansing MI 48909. (517)394-1364. Editor: Karel Juhl. 90% freelance written. Monthly trade newsletter for writers. "We publish reviews of books, workshops, videos, software and other writing tools currently on the market to aid writers in making informed purchase decisions." Estab. 1994. Pays on acceptance. Publishes ms an average of 3 months after acceptance. Byline given. Buys first north American serial or second serial (reprint) rights. Editorial lead time 3 months. Submit seasonal material 5 months in advance. Accepts simultaneous and previously published submissions. Query for electronic submissions. Reports in 2 months. Sample copy for $1. Writer's guidelines for #10 SASE.
Nonfiction: Interview/profile, new product, (product reviews on books, workshops, videos, schools, services, etc. marketed to staff and freelance writers.) "Nothing on how to get published; how to write novels/stories/articles/poems/screenplays. No reviews of one-time only workshops or seminars that readers will have no further opportunity of attending." Buys 18 mss/year. Query with published clips. Length: 500-2,500 words. Pays $10.

Photos: State availability of photos with submission. Reviews prints. Negotiates payment individually.
Columns/Departments: In A Word (short reviews on products with a narrower audience), 100-500 words. Buys 15-30 mss/year. Send complete ms. Pays $5-10.
Fillers: Anecdotes, facts, gags to be illustrated by cartoonist, newsbreaks, short humor, poems (max. 10 lines). Length: 100 words. Byline only; no payment for fillers used in our Readers' Corner.
Tips: "Our style is relaxed. We need reviews with broad and limited appeal that will help readers decide which books/equipment/software to buy; which workshops/schools/conferences to attend, etc. Workshop reviewers shouldn't tell what we missed by not attending this year's event, but what we can expect if we go next year. Reviewers must sign a statement of non-bias in a product's success/failure, and readers are encouraged to tell, through the letters column, why they agree or disagree with a review. 'In A Word' is most open to freelancers. Feel free to write first person and put feeling into why, specifically, you liked/disliked the product or service. SASE a must!"

WRITER'S YEARBOOK, 1507 Dana Ave., Cincinnati OH 45207. Submissions Editor: Angela Terez. 90% freelance written. Newsstand annual for freelance writers, journalists and teachers of creative writing. "Please note that the Yearbook is currently using a 'best of' format. That is, we are reprinting the best writing about writing published in the last year: articles, fiction and book excerpts. The Yearbook now uses little original material, so do not submit queries or original manuscripts. We will, however, consider already-published material for possible inclusion." Estab. 1929. Buys reprint rights. Accepts previously published submissions. Send tearsheet or photocopy of article, noting rights for sale and when and where the article previously appeared. Pays 20% kill fee. Byline given. Pays on acceptance. Publishes ms an average of 6 months after acceptance. "If you don't want your manuscript returned, indicate that on the first page of the manuscript or in a cover letter."
Nonfiction: "In reprints, we want articles that reflect the current state of writing in America: trends, inside information, and money-saving and money-making ideas for the freelance writer. We try to touch on the various facets of writing in each issue of the Yearbook—from fiction to poetry to playwriting, and any other endeavor a writer can pursue. How-to articles—that is, articles that explain in detail how to do something—are very important to us. For example, you could explain how to establish mood in fiction, how to improve interviewing techniques, how to write for and sell to specialty magazines, or how to construct and market a good poem. We are also interested in the writer's spare time—what she/he does to retreat occasionally from the writing wars, where and how to refuel and replenish the writing spirit. 'How Beats the Heart of a Writer' features interest us, if written warmly, in the first person, by a writer who has had considerable success. We also want interviews or profiles of well-known bestselling authors, always with good pictures. Articles on writing techniques that are effective today are always welcome. We provide how-to features and information to help our readers become more skilled at writing and successful at selling their writing." Buys 15-20 mss (reprints only)/year. Length: 750-4,500 words. Pays 2½¢/word minimum.
Photos: Interviews and profiles must be accompanied by high-quality photos. Reviews b&w photos only, depending on use. Captions required.

WRITING CONCEPTS, The Business Communications Report, Suite 720, 7481 Huntsman Blvd., Springfield VA 22153-1648. Editor/Publisher: John De Lellis. Monthly business newsletter on writing, editing, publication management and production, communications and publications technology, public relations and marketing. "Our readers are experienced staff professionals responsible for communications and publications in businesses, corporations and nonprofit organizations. They need specific, practical advice on how to do their job better." Estab. 1983. Pays within 45 days of acceptance. Publishes ms an average of 2 months after acceptance. Byline sometimes given. Buys all rights. Editorial lead time 2 months. Need submissions on 3.5" disk in both ASCII and word processing format. Reports in 6 weeks on queries. Two sample copies and writer's guidelines for $3.00 and #10 SASE with .75¢ postage.
• Writing Concepts does not use material on how to get published or on the business side of freelance writing/editing.
Nonfiction: "Practical, short, well-researched, how-to articles geared to organizational staff communications/publications managers. We need source and ordering information for each article. See sample issues for style. No humor, opinion, inspirational items. All articles must be interviews of leading experts in the communications field. No long articles, except special reports. We are open to ideas for 3,000 word special reports in the communications and publication production field." Buys 20 mss/year. Length: 100-600 words. Pays 15¢/word.
Column/Departments: Publications Management, Quick Takes (useful sources, tips on publications, communications, writing and editing, PR and marketing, and communications/publications technology), Writing Techniques (business writing for organization staffers), Style Matters (business editing for organization staffers), PR and Marketing, and Technology Watch (technology trends/issues relating to communications and publications work in organizations).

Tips: "Read sample issues and editorial guidelines before you query. The Publications Management, Technology Watch, Quick Takes and PR and Marketing departments are most open to freelancers."

‡WRITING FOR MONEY, P.O. Box 1144, Hendersonville NC 28793. (704)696-9708. Editor: John Clausen. 25% freelance written. Trade newsletter published every 3 weeks covering freelance writing opportunities. "Our newsletter covers writing opportunities for freelance magazine writers and copywriters, authors, script writers, screenplay writers, playwrights, catalog copywriters, greeting card writers, and just about every kind of writer looking to make a buck." Estab. 1993. Circ. 3,500. Pays on acceptance. Publishes ms an average of 2 months after acceptance. Byline given. Buys first North American serial and non-exclusive reprint rights. Editorial lead time 2 months (sometimes shorter). Submit seasonal material 3 months in advance. Query for electronic submissions. Reports in 6 weeks on queries; 6 months on mss. Sample copy for $5. Writer's guidelines for #10 SASE.
Columns/Departments: 1st Person (personal success stories from freelancers), 500-900 words; Business Tactics (ways for freelancers to handle the "business side" of writing), 500-900 words; Other Markets (new, innovative ways for freelancers to make money writing), 500-900 words. Buys 50 mss/year. Query with published clips. Pays $50.
Tips: "Study the back issues to see what we are buying."

Law

While all of these publications deal with topics of interest to attorneys, each has a particular slant. Be sure that your subject is geared to a specific market—lawyers in a single region, law students, paralegals, etc. Publications for law enforcement personnel are listed under Government and Public Service.

ABA JOURNAL, American Bar Association, Dept. WM, 6th Floor, 750 N. Lake Shore Dr., Chicago IL 60611. (312)988-5000. Fax: (312)988-6014. Editor: Gary A. Hengstler. Managing Editor: Kerry Klumpe. 35% freelance written. Prefers to work with published/established writers. Monthly magazine covering law and lawyers. "The content of the Journal is designed to appeal to the association's diverse membership with emphasis on the general practitioner." Circ. 400,000. Pays on acceptance. Publishes ms an average of 2 months after acceptance. Byline given. "Editor works with writer until article is in acceptable form." Buys all rights. Submit seasonal material 3 months in advance. Accepts simultaneous submissions. Query for electronic submissions. Reports in 1 month. Free sample copy and writer's guidelines.
Nonfiction: Book excerpts, general interest (legal), how-to (law practice techniques), interview/profile (law firms and prominent individuals), technical (legal trends). "The emphasis of the Journal is on the practical problems faced by lawyers in general practice and how those problems can be overcome. Articles should emphasize the practical rather than the theoretical or esoteric. Writers should avoid the style of law reviews, academic journals or legal briefs and should write in an informal, journalistic style. Short quotations from people and specific examples of your point will improve an article." Special issues have featured women and minorities in the legal profession. Buys 30 mss/year. Send complete ms. Length: 3,000 words. Pays $350-2,000. Pays expenses of writers on assignment.
Tips: "We require more sophisticated treatment of complex topics in a narrative style. Writers must provide sidebars and breakouts. Write to us with a specific idea in mind and spell out how the subject would be covered. Full-length profiles and feature articles are always needed. We look for practical information. If The New York Times or Wall Street Journal would like your style, so will we."

THE ALTMAN WEIL PENSA REPORT TO LEGAL MANAGEMENT, Altman Weil Pensa Publications, 1100 Commerce Dr., Racine WI 53406. (414)886-1304. Fax: (414)886-1139. Editor: James Wilber. 15-20% freelance written. Works with a small number of new/unpublished writers each year. Monthly newsletter covering law office management purchases (equipment, insurance services, space, etc.) and technology. Estab. 1974. Circ. 2,200. Pays on publication. Publishes ms an average of 3-6 months after acceptance. Byline given. Buys all rights; sometimes second serial (reprint) rights. Accepts previously published material. Send photocopy of article or short story, typed ms with rights for sale noted plus diskette, and information about when and where the article previously appeared. For reprints, pays 50% of the amount paid for an original article. Query for electronic submissions. Reports in 1 month on queries; 2-3 months on mss. Sample copy for #10 SASE.
Nonfiction: How-to (buy, use, repair), interview/profile, new product. "Looking especially for practical, "how-to" articles on law office management and technology." Buys 12 mss/year. Query. Submit a sample of previous writing. Length: 500-2,500 words. Pays $125/published page.

BARRISTER, American Bar Association Press, 750 N. Lake Shore Dr., Chicago IL 60611-4403. (312)988-6068. Fax: (312)988-6281. Editor: Cie Brown-Armstead. 60% freelance written. Prefers to work with published/established writers. Quarterly magazine for young lawyers who are members of the American Bar Association concerned about practice of law, career trends, public service, social issues, personalities. Estab. 1971. Circ.

175,000. Pays on acceptance. Publishes ms an average of 3-6 months after acceptance. Buys first serial rights. Query for electronic submissions. Reports in 2 months. Sample copy for $5.
Nonfiction: "All areas of law are fair game, but stories should have a young lawyer tie-in. Readers interested in career stories (such as what to do when you lose your job), social issues (such as free speech and hate crimes), and personality profiles of innovative or prominent young lawyers. Rarely use humor. No political opinion pieces." Length: 2,500-3,000 words. Pays $600-750 and reasonable expenses. Must query with outline. Buys 12 mss/year. Special issue: "20 Young Lawyers Whose Work Makes a Difference" (summer), 700-1,000 words; $250 payment. Buys 15 mss/year. Query.
Tips: "The biggest mistake writers make is to think of us as a law review journal. We are a general interest magazine with a focus on young lawyers. We want cutting-edge topics written in a crisp journalistic style."

‡BENCH & BAR OF MINNESOTA, Minnesota State Bar Association, Suite 300, 514 Nicollet Ave., Minneapolis MN 55402-1021. (612)333-1183. Fax: (612)333-4927. Editor: Judson Haverkamp. 10% freelance written. Magazine published 11 times/year covering the law/legal profession. "Audience is mostly Minnesota lawyers. Bench & Bar seeks reportage, analysis, and commentary on trends and issues in the law and the legal profession, especially in Minnesota. Preference to items of practical/human interest to professionals in law." Estab. 1931. Circ. 14,000. Pays on acceptance. Publishes ms an average of 3 months after acceptence. Byline given. Buys first North American serial rights and makes work-for-hire assignments. Reports in 1 month. Sample copy for 9×12 SAE and 4 first-class stamps. Writer's guidelines free.

Monthly tabloid covering corporate general counsel and inhouse attorneys. "Corporate Legal Times is a monthly national magazine that gives general counsel and inhouse attorneys information on legal and business issues to help them better manage corporate law departments. It routinely addresses changes and trends in law departments, litigation management, legal technology, corporate governance and inhouse careers. Law areas covered monthly include: environmental, intellectual property, international, and labor and employment. All stories need to be geared toward the inhouse attorney's perspective." Estab. 1991. Circ. 45,000. Pays on publication. Publishes ms an average of 3 months after acceptance. Byline given. Buys all rights. Editorial lead time 3 months. Submit seasonal material 6 months in advance. Query for electronic submissions. Reports in 3 weeks on queries. Sample copy for 9×12 SAE with 8 first-class stamps. Writer's guidelines for #10 SASE.
Nonfiction: Interview/profile, technical, news about legal aspects of business issues and events. Buys 12-25 mss/year. Query with published clips. Length: 500-2,000 words. Pays $300-1,000. Freelancers should state availability of photos with submission.
Tips: "Our publication targets general counsel and inhouse lawyers. All stories need to speak to them—not to the general attorney population. Query with clips and a list of potential inhouse sources. Non-paid, contributed articles from law firm attorneys are accepted only if there is an inhouse attorney co-author."

THE DOCKET, National Association of Legal Secretaries, Suite 550, 2250 E. 73rd St., Tulsa OK 74103-4503. (918)493-3540. Editor: Steven Wood. 10% freelance written. Bimonthly magazine that covers continuing legal education for legal support staff. "The Docket is written and edited for legal secretaries, legal assistants and other non-attorney personnel. Feature articles address general trends and emerging issues in the legal field, provide practical information to achieve proficiency in the delivery of legal services, and offer techniques for career growth and fulfillment." Circ. 20,000. Pays on publication. Publishes ms an average of 3-6 months after acceptance. Byline given. Offers 25-35% kill fee. Buys first North American serial rights. Accepts simultaneous and previously published submissions. Reports in 4 months. Sample copy for 9×12 SAE with 2 first-class stamps.

Nonfiction: How-to (enhance the delivery of legal services or any aspect thereof), new product (must be a service or equipment used in a legal office), personal experience (legal related), technical (legal services and equipment). Buys 10-15 mss/year. Query about specific subjects/articles or send complete ms. Length: 500-2,500 words. Pays $50-250.

- Articles are shorter and material must be timely and news-oriented.

Photos: State availability of photos with submission. Reviews contact sheets, negatives, transparencies and prints. Buys one-time rights.

‡ILLINOIS LEGAL TIMES, The Independent Monthly on the Business of Law, Giant Steps Publishing, Suite 1513, 222 Merchandise Mart Plaza, Chicago IL 60654. (312)644-4378. Editor-in-Chief: Charles H. Carman. Managing Editor: Kelly A. Fox. 20% freelance written. Monthly trade tabloid covering the legal industry. "Illinois Legal Times is on the business of law. Monthly articles and columns deal with how to manage a law firm. Its audience includes private practice lawyers, inhouse counsel and government lawyers." Estab. 1986. Circ. 13,500. Pays on publication. Publishes ms an average of 1½ months after acceptance. Offers 25% kill fee. Buys all rights. Editorial lead time 1½ months. Submit seasonal material 2 months in advance. Query for electronic submissions. Reports in weeks on queries. Sample copy and writer's guidelines free on request.

Nonfiction: Exposé, how-to, interview/profile, photo feature. Buys 6 mss/year. Query with published clips. Length: 2,500 words. "We pay per page; we don't have a minimum." Sometimes pays expenses of writers on assignment.

Photos: State availability of photos with submission. Reviews 5×7 prints. Offers no additional payment for photos accepted with ms. Identification of subjects required. Rights purchased varies.

Tips: "A writer must have business writing experience. Clips of past articles are a must. A writer should familiarize themselves with the publication and the issues we cover, well before making initial contact. If a writer has business writing experience and an understanding of the paper, that's his or her foot in the door. Front page feature articles are most open to freelancers. A writer would have to develop a relationship with our organization before being assigned a cover story."

LAW PRACTICE MANAGEMENT—the Magazine of the Section of Law Practice Management of the American Bar Association, P.O. Box 11418, Columbia SC 29211-1418. Managing Editor/Art Director: Delmar L. Returns rejected material in 3 months, if requested.

Nonfiction: "We assist the practicing lawyer in operating and managing his or her office by providing relevant articles and departments written in a readable and informative style. Editorial content is intended to aid the lawyer by conveying management methods that will allow him or her to provide legal services to clients in a prompt and efficient manner at reasonable cost. Typical topics of articles include fees and billing; client/lawyer relations; computer hardware/software; mergers; retirement/disability; marketing; compensation of partners and associates; legal data base research; and use of paralegals." No elementary articles on a whole field of technology, such as, "why you need computers in the law office." Pays $100-400.

Photos: Pays $50-60 for b&w photos purchased with mss; $50-100 for color; $200-300 for cover transparencies.

Tips: "We have a theme for each issue with two to three articles relating to the theme. We also publish thematic issues occasionally in which an entire issue is devoted to a single topic. The March and November/December issues each year are devoted to law practice technology."

THE LAWYER'S PC, A Newsletter for Lawyers Using Personal Computers, Shepard's/McGraw-Hill, Inc., P.O. Box 1108, Lexington SC 29071-1108. (803)359-9941. Editor: Robert P. Wilkins. Managing Editor: Daniel E. Harmon. 50% freelance written. Biweekly newsletter covering computerized law firms. "Our readers are lawyers who want to be told how a particular microcomputer program or type of program is being applied to a legal office task, such as timekeeping, litigation support, etc." Estab. 1983. Circ. 4,500. Pays end of the month of publication. Publishes ms an average of 1-2 months after acceptance. Byline given. Buys first North American serial rights and the right to reprint. Submit seasonal material 5 months in advance. Query for electronic submissions. Reports in 1 month on queries; 4 months on mss. Sample copy for 9×12 SAE with 3 first-class stamps. Free writer's guidelines.

Nonfiction: How-to (applications articles on law office computerization) and software reviews written by lawyers who have no compromising interests. No general articles on why lawyers need computers or reviews of products written by public relations representatives or vending consultants. Buys 30-35 mss/year. Query. Length: 500-2,500 words. Pays $50-300. Sometimes pays the expenses of writers on assignment.
Tips: "Most of our writers are lawyers. If you're not a lawyer, you need to at least understand why general business software may not work well in a law firm. If you understand lawyers' specific computer problems, write an article describing how to solve one of those problems, and we'd like to see it."

Nonfiction: Exposé, general interest (law), how-to (professional), humor, interview/profile (Canadian lawyers and judges), opinion, technical, news, case comments. "We try to wrap up the week's legal events and issues in a snappy informal package. We especially like news stories with photos or illustrations. We are always interested in feature or newsfeature articles involving current legal issues, but contributors should keep in mind our audience is trained in English/Canadian common law—not US law. That means most US-focused stories will generally not be accepted. No routine court reporting or fake news stories about commercial products. Buys 200-300 mss/year. Query or send complete ms. Length: 700-1,500 words. Payment negotiable. Payment in Canadian dollars. Sometimes pays the expenses of writers on assignment.
Photos: State availability of photos with query letter or ms. Reviews b&w and color contact sheets, negatives and 5×7 prints. Identification of subjects required. Buys one-time rights.
Fillers: Clippings and newsbreaks. Length: 50-200 words. Pays $10 minimum.
Tips: "Freelancers can best break into our publication by submitting news, features, and accounts of unusual or bizarre legal events. A frequent mistake made by writers is forgetting that our audience is intelligent and learned in law. They don't need the word 'plaintiff' explained to them." No unsolicited mss returned without SASE (or IRC to US or non-Canadian destinations). "No US postage on SASEs, please!"

LAWYERS WEEKLY USA, Lawyers Weekly Publications, 41 West St., Boston MA 02111. (617)451-7300. Editor: Michelle Bates Deakin. Biweekly newspaper covering the legal profession for small-firm lawyers. Estab. 1993. Pays on acceptance. Publishes ms an average of 1 month after acceptance. Byline given. Buys all rights. Accepts simultaneous submissions. Query for electronic submissions. Pays at end of the month after publication. Publishes ms an average of 2-3 months after acceptance. Byline given. Buys first North American serial rights, electronic rights and the right to reprint. Submit seasonal material 5 months in advance. Query for electronic submissions. Reports in 4 months. Sample copy for 9×12 SAE with 4 first-class stamps. Free writer's guidelines.

Nonfiction: How-to computer articles, must be law office-specific. Occasional reviews of WordPerfect-related products for law firms. Buys 25-35 mss/year. Query. Length: 500-2,500 words. Pays $25-200. Sometimes pays expenses of writers on assignment.
Tips: "Writers should understand the specific computer needs of law firms. Our readers are interested in how to solve office automation problems with computers and WordPerfect or related software products."

SHEPARD'S ELDER CARE/LAW NEWSLETTER, Shepard's/McGraw-Hill, Inc., P.O. Box 1108, Lexington SC 29071-1108. (803)359-9941. Fax: (803)857-8226. Editor: Robert P. Wilkins. Managing Editor: Daniel E. Harmon. Associate Editor: Aida Rogers. 40% freelance written. Monthly newsletter for lawyers and other professionals who work with older clients, focusing on legal and related issues of concern to the aging community. Estab. 1991. Pays end of the month of publication. Publishes ms an average of 2 months after acceptance. Byline given. Buys first North American serial rights, electronic rights and reprint rights. Accepts previously published submissions. Submit seasonal material 5 months in advance. Query for electronic submissions. Reports in 1 month on queries; 2 months on mss. Pay negotiable. Sample copy for 9×12 SAE with 3 first-class stamps. Free writer's guidelines.
Nonfiction: Informational articles about legal issues, pending and new legislation, organizations and other resources of interest to lawyers who work with aging clients and their families. Query. Pays $25-200. Does not pay phone expenses.

STUDENT LAWYER, American Bar Association, 750 N. Lake Shore Dr., Chicago IL 60611. (312)988-6048. Editor: Sarah Hoban. Managing Editor: Miriam R. Krasno. 95% freelance written. Works with a small number of new/unpublished writers each year. Monthly (September-May) magazine. Estab. 1972. Circ. 30,000. Pays on publication. Buys first serial and second serial (reprint) rights. Publishes reprints of previously published articles. Send tearsheet of article, typed ms with rights for sale noted and information about when and where the article previously appeared. For reprints, pays 25-50% of the amount paid for an original article. Pays negotiable kill fee. Byline given. Submit seasonal material 4 months in advance. Reports in 6 weeks. Publishes ms an average of 3 months after acceptance. Sample copy for $4. Free writer's guidelines.
Nonfiction: Features cover legal education and careers and social/legal subjects. The magazine also publishes profiles (prominent persons in law-related fields); opinion (on matters of current legal interest); essays (on legal affairs); interviews; and photo features. Query. Length: 3,000-5,000 words. Pays $300-900 for main features. Covers some writer's expenses.
Columns/Departments: Briefly (short stories on unusual and interesting developments in the law); Legal Aids (unusual approaches and programs connected to teaching law students and lawyers); Esq. (brief profiles of people in the law); End Note (short pieces on a variety of topics; can be humorous, educational, outrageous); Pro Se (opinion slot for authors to wax eloquent on legal issues, civil rights conflicts, the state of the union); and Et Al. (column for short features that fit none of the above categories). Buys 4-8 mss/issue. Length: 250-1,000 words. Pays $100-350.
Fiction: "We buy fiction only when it is very good and deals with issues of law in the contemporary world or offers insights into the inner workings of lawyers. No mystery, poetry or science fiction accepted."
Tips: "Student Lawyer actively seeks good new writers. Legal training definitely not essential; writing talent is. The writer should not think we are a law review; we are a feature magazine with the law (in the broadest sense) as the common denominator. Past articles concerned gay rights, prison reform, the media, pornography, capital punishment and drug education. Find issues of national scope and interest to write about; be aware of subjects the magazine—and other media—have already covered and propose something new. Write clearly and well."

Leather Goods

Submit seasonal material 3 months in advance. Accepts simultaneous and previously published submissions. Reports in 6 weeks. Sample copy for $2 and 9×12 SAE.
Nonfiction: How-to (run a profitable shop); interview/profile (of an outstanding or unusual person on shoe repair); business articles (particularly about small business practices in a service/retail shop). Buys 12-24 mss/year. Query with published clips or send complete ms. Length: 500-2,000 words. Pays 5¢/word.
Photos: "Quality photos will help sell an article." State availability of photos. Pays $10-30 for 8×10 b&w prints. Uses some color photos, but mostly uses b&w glossies. Captions, model release and identification of subjects required.
Tips: "Visit some shoe repair shops to get an idea of the kind of person who reads Shoe Service. Profiles are the easiest to sell to us if you can find a repairer we think is unusual."

Library Science

Librarians read these journals for advice on promotion and management of libraries, library and book trade issues and information access and transfer. Be aware of current issues such as censorship, declines in funding and government information policies. For journals on the book trade see Book and Bookstore.

AMERICAN LIBRARIES, 50 E. Huron St., Chicago IL 60611. (312)280-4216. Fax: (312)440-0901. Editor: Thomas Gaughan. Senior Editor: Gordon Flagg. 10-20% freelance written. Works with a small number of new/unpublished writers each year. Magazine published 11 times/year for librarians. "A highly literate audience. They are for the most part practicing professionals with a down-to-earth interest in people and current professional trends." Estab. 1907. Circ. 56,000. Buys first North American serial rights. Publishes ms an average of 4 months after acceptance. Pays negotiable kill fee. Byline given. Submit seasonal material 6 months in advance. Reports in 10 weeks.
Nonfiction: "Material reflecting the special and current interests of the library profession. Nonlibrarians should browse recent journals in the field, available on request in medium-sized and large libraries everywhere. Topic and/or approach must be fresh, vital or highly entertaining. Library memoirs and stereotyped stories about old maids, overdue books, fines, etc., are unacceptable. Our first concern is with the American Library Association's activities and how they relate to the 55,000 reader/members. Tough for an outsider to write on this topic, but not to supplement it with short, offbeat or significant library stories and features." No fillers. Buys 2-6 freelance mss/year. Pays $15 for news tips used, and $25-300 for briefs and articles.
Photos: "Will look at color transparencies and bright color prints for inside and cover use." Pays $50-200 for photos.
Tips: "You can break in with a sparkling, 300-word report on a true, offbeat library event, use of new technology, or with an exciting color photo and caption. Though stories on public libraries are always of interest, we especially need arresting material on academic and school libraries."

CHURCH MEDIA LIBRARY MAGAZINE, 127 Ninth Ave. N., Nashville TN 37234. (615)251-2752. Editor: Floyd B. Simpson. Quarterly magazine for adult leaders in church organizations and people interested in library work (especially church library work). Estab. 1891. Circ. 30,000. Pays on publication. Buys all, first serial and second serial (reprint) rights. Byline given. Phone queries OK. Submit seasonal material 14 months in advance. Accepts previously published submissions. Reports in 1 month. Free sample copy and writer's guidelines.
Nonfiction: "We are primarily interested in articles that relate to the development of church libraries in providing media and services to support the total program of a church and in meeting individual needs. We publish how-to accounts of services provided, promotional ideas, exciting things that have happened as a result of implementing an idea or service; human interest stories that are library-related; and media training (teaching and learning with a media mix). Articles should be practical for church library staffs and for teachers and other leaders of the church." Buys 10-15 mss/issue. Query. Pays 5½¢/word.

‡EMERGENCY LIBRARIAN, Dyad Services, Box C34069, Dept. 284, Seattle WA 98124-1069. (604)925-0266. Fax: (604)925-0566. Editor: Ken Haycock. Publishes 5 issues/year. Estab. 1979. Circ. 7,500. Pays on publication. No multiple submissions. Reports in 6 weeks. Free writer's guidelines.
Nonfiction: Emphasis is on improvement of library service for children and young adults in school and public libraries. Also annotated bibliographies. Buys 3 mss/issue. Query. Length: 1,000-3,500 words. Pays $50.
Columns/Departments: Five regular columnists. Also Book Reviews (of professional materials in education, librarianship). Query. Length: 100-300 words. Payment consists of book reviewed.

THE LIBRARY IMAGINATION PAPER, Carol Bryan Imagines, 1000 Byus Dr., Charleston WV 25311-1310. (304)345-2378. 30% freelance written. Quarterly newspaper covering public relations education for librarians. Clip art included in each issue. Estab. 1978. Circ. 3,000. Pays on publication. Publishes ms an average of 6 months after acceptance. Byline given. Buys one-time rights. Submit seasonal material 3 months in advance. Accepts simultaneous and previously published submissions. Send tearsheet or photocopy of article and information about when and where the article previously appeared. Reports in 2 months. Sample copy for $5. Writer's guidelines for SASE.

Nonfiction: How-to (on "all aspects of good library public relations—both mental tips and hands-on methods. We need how-to and tips pieces on all aspects of PR, for library subscribers—both school and public libraries. In the past we've featured pieces on taking good photos, promoting an anniversary celebration, working with printers, and producing a slide show.") No articles on "what the library means to me." Buys 4-6 mss/year. Query with or without published clips, or send complete ms. Length: 600 or 2,200 words. Pays $25 or $50.

Photos: Send photos with submission. Reviews 3×5, 5×7 or 8×10 prints. Offers $5/photo. Captions required. Buys one-time rights.

Tips: "Someone who has worked in the library field and has first-hand knowledge of library PR needs, methods and processes will do far better with us. Our readers are people who cannot be written down to—but their library training has not always incorporated enough preparation for handling promotion, publicity and the public."

LIBRARY JOURNAL, Dept. WM, 249 W. 17th St., New York NY 10011. (212)463-6819. Editor-in-Chief: John N. Berry III. 60% freelance written by librarians. Eager to work with new/unpublished writers. Magazine published 20 times/year for librarians (academic, public, special). Circ. 30,000. Buys all rights. Pays on publication. Publishes ms an average of 12-18 months after acceptance. "Our response time is slow, but improving."

Nonfiction: "Library Journal is a professional magazine for librarians. We need material of greater sophistication, government information, dealing with issues related to the transfer of information, access to it, or related phenomena." Professional articles on criticism, censorship, professional concerns, library activities, historical articles, information technology, automation and management, internet and spot news. Outlook should be from librarian's point of view. Buys 50-65 unsolicited mss/year. Submit complete ms. Length: 1,500-2,000 words. Pays $50-350. Sometimes pays the expenses of writers on assignment.

Photos: Payment for b&w or color glossy photos purchased without accompanying mss is $35. Must be at least 5×7. Captions required.

Tips: "We're increasingly interested in material on library management, public sector fundraising, and information policy."

WILSON LIBRARY BULLETIN, Dept. WM, 950 University Ave., Bronx NY 10452-4221. (718)588-8400 ext. 2245. Fax: (718)681-1511. E-mail: graceann@wlb.hwwilson.com. Editor: GraceAnne A. DeCandido. 75% freelance written. Monthly (September-June) for professional librarians and those interested in the book and library worlds. Estab. 1914. Circ. 13,000. Pays on publication. Publishes ms an average of 3 months after acceptance. Buys first North American serial rights, electronic rights. Sample copies may be seen on request in most libraries. "Manuscript must be original copy, double-spaced." Deadlines are a minimum 2 months before publication. Reports in 3 months. Free sample copy and writer's guidelines.

Nonfiction: Uses articles "of interest to librarians and information professionals throughout the nation and around the world. Style must be lively, readable and sophisticated, with appeal to modern professionals; facts must be thoroughly researched. Subjects range from the political to the comic in the world of media and libraries, with an emphasis on the human as well as the technical aspects of any story. No condescension: no library stereotypes." Prefers material from practicing librarians; "we rarely accept submissions from freelancers who are not librarians." Buys 20-30 mss/year. Send complete ms. Length: 1,000-3,500 words. Pays about $100-400. Sometimes pays the expenses of writers on assignment.

Tips: "Libraries have changed. You'd better first discover how."

Lumber

Photos: Send photos with submission. Reviews 5×7 prints. Negotiates payment individually. Identification of subjects required. Buys all rights.
Tips: "Contact Peter Kelton, or Christopher Munford, managing editor, directly with story ideas. Primarily we are interested in purchasing breaking news items. Clear all stories with news desk (Kelton or Munford) in advance. Unsolicited articles submitted at writer's risk. Contact Bob Manas, Senior Editor, special issues, to discuss upcoming topics."

AUTOMATIC MACHINING, 100 Seneca Ave., Rochester NY 14621. (716)338-1522. Editor: Donald E. Wood. For metalworking technical management. Buys all rights. Byline given.
Nonfiction: "This is not a market for the average freelancer. A personal knowledge of the trade is essential. Articles deal in depth with specific job operations on automatic screw machines, chucking machines, high production metal turning lathes and cold heading machines. Part prints, tooling layouts always required, plus written agreement of source to publish the material. Without personal background in operation of this type of equipment, freelancers are wasting time. No material researched from library sources." Query. Length: 4 double-spaced pages."

Quarterly magazine covering technical and management information relating to cleaning and self-employment. "We cater to those who are self-employed in any facet of the cleaning and maintenance industry and seek to be top professionals in their field. Cleaning Business is published for self-employed cleaning professionals, specifically carpet, upholstery and drapery cleaners; janitorial and maid services; window washers; odor, water and fire damage restoration contractors. Our readership is small but select. We seek concise, factual articles, realistic but definitely upbeat." Circ. 6,000. Pays 1 month after publication. Publishes ms an average of 3 months after acceptance. Byline given. Buys first serial, second serial (reprint) and all rights or makes work-for-hire assignments. Submit seasonal material 6 months in advance. Reports in 3 months. Sample copy for $3 and 8×10 SAE with 3 first-class stamps. Writer's guidelines for #10 SASE.

Nonfiction: Exposé (safety/health business practices); how-to (on cleaning, maintenance, small business management); humor (clean jokes, cartoons); interview/profile; new product (must be unusual to rate full article—mostly obtained from manufacturers); opinion; personal experience; technical. Special issues: "What's New?" (February). No "wordy articles written off the top of the head, obviously without research, and needing more editing time than was spent on writing." Buys 40 mss/year. Query with or without published clips. Length: 500-3,000 words. Pays $5-80. ("Pay depends on amount of work, research and polishing put into article much more than on length.") Pays expenses of writers on assignment with prior approval only.
Photos: State availability of photos or send photos with ms. Pays $5-25 for "smallish" b&w prints. Captions, model release and identification of subjects required. Buys one-time rights and reprint rights. "Magazine size is 8½×11—photos need to be proportionate. Also seeks full-color photos of relevant subjects for cover."
Columns/Departments: "Ten regular columnists now sell four columns per year to us. We are interested in adding Safety & Health and Fire Restoration columns (related to cleaning and maintenance industry). We are also open to other suggestions—send query." Buys 36 columns/year; department information obtained at no cost. Query with or without published clips. Length: 500-1,500 words. Pays $15-85.
Fillers: Jokes, gags, anecdotes, short humor, newsbreaks, cartoons. Buys 40/year. Length: 3-200 words. Pays $1-20.
Tips: "We are constantly seeking quality freelancers from all parts of the country. A freelancer can best break in to our publication with fairly technical articles on how to do specific cleaning/maintenance jobs; interviews with top professionals covering this and how they manage their business; and personal experience. Our readers demand concise, accurate information. Don't ramble. Write only about what you know and/or have researched. Editors don't have time to rewrite your rough draft. Organize and polish before submitting."

Buys North American magazine rights with reprint privileges; book rights remain with the author. Reports in 3 months. Sample copy and writer's guidelines for 9×12 SAE with 3 first-class stamps.
Nonfiction: "All material published by Manage is in some way management oriented. Most articles concern one or more of the following categories: communications, executive abilities, human relations, job status, leadership, motivation and productivity and professionalism. Articles should be specific and tell the manager how to apply the information to his job immediately. Be sure to include pertinent examples, and back up statements with facts. Manage does not want essays or academic reports, but interesting, well-written and practical articles for and about management." Buys 6 mss/issue. Phone queries OK. Submit complete ms. Length: 600-1,200 words. Pays 5¢/word.
Tips: "Keep current on management subjects; submit timely work. Include word count on first page of ms."

‡MANAGEMENT REVIEW, The American Management Association Magazine, American Management Association, 135 W. 50th St., New York NY 10020-1201. Editor: Martha H. Peak. Monthly magazine covering "Hands On" management issues for top/middle managers. "Management Review is the global membership magazine of the American Management Association, dedicated to broadening managers' know-how through insightful reporting of management trends and tips on how to manage more effectively." Estab. 1923. Circ. 75,000. Pays on publication. Publishes ms an average of 5 months after acceptance. Byline given. Buys first worldwide rights. Editorial lead time 3-4 months. Submit seasonal material 3-4 months in advance. Reports in 4-5 weeks on queries. Sample copy for $5. Writer's guidelines free on request.
Nonfiction: Business stories only. Buys 24 mss/year. Query. Length: 1,200-2,000 words.
Photos: State availability of photos with submission. Captions and identification of subjects required.
Tips: "Submissions in writing ONLY. No fax. No cold calls."

SALES MANAGER'S BULLETIN, The Bureau of Business Practice, 24 Rope Ferry Rd., Waterford CT 06386-0001. Fax: (203)434-3078. Editor: Paulette S. Kitchens. 33% freelance written. Prefers to work with published/established writers. Semimonthly newsletter for sales managers and salespeople interested in getting into sales management. Estab. 1917. Pays on acceptance. Publishes ms an average of 3-6 months after acceptance. Written queries only except from regulars. Submit seasonal material 6 months in advance. Original interview-based material only. Buys all rights. Reports in 1 month. Sample copy and writer's guidelines only when request is accompanied by SAE with 2 first-class stamps.
Nonfiction: How-to (motivate salespeople, cut costs, create territories, etc.); interview (with working sales managers who use innovative techniques); technical (marketing stories based on interviews with experts). No articles on territory management, saving fuel in the field, or public speaking skills. Break into this publication by reading the guidelines and sample issue. Follow the directions closely and chances for acceptance go up dramatically. One easy way to start is with an interview article ("Here's what sales executives have to say about . . ."). Query is vital to acceptance: "Send a simple note explaining briefly the subject matter, the interviewees, slant, length, and date of expected completion, accompanied by a SASE. Does not accept unqueried mss. Length: 800-1,200 words. Pays 10-15¢/word.
Tips: "Freelancers should always request samples and writer's guidelines, accompanied by SASE. Requests without SASE are discarded immediately. Examine the sample, and don't try to improve on our style. Write as we write. Don't 'jump around' from point to point and don't submit articles that are too chatty and with not enough real information. The more time a writer can save the editors, the greater his or her chance of a sale and repeated sales, when queries may no longer be necessary. We will focus more on selling more product, meeting intense competition, customer relations/partnerships, and sales forecasting."

SECURITY MANAGEMENT BULLETIN: Protecting Property, People & Assets, Bureau of Business Practice, 24 Rope Ferry Rd., Waterford CT 06386. Editor: Alex Vaughn. 75% freelance written. Eager to work with new/unpublished writers. Semimonthly newsletter emphasizing security for industry. "All material should be slanted toward security directors, primarily industrial, retail and service businesses, but others as well." Circ. 3,000. Pays on acceptance. Buys all rights. Phone queries OK. Reports in 2 weeks. Free sample copy and writer's guidelines.

Nonfiction: Interview (with security professionals only). "Articles should be tight and specific. They should deal with new security techniques or new twists on old ones." Buys 2-5 mss/issue. Query. Length: 750-1,000 words. Pays 15¢/word.

SUPERVISION, P.O. Box 1, Burlington IA 52601-0001. Fax: (319)752-3421. Publisher: Michael S. Darnall. Editor: Barbara Boeding. 95% freelance written. Monthly magazine for first-line foremen, supervisors and office managers. Estab. 1939. Circ. 3,600. Pays on publication. Publishes ms an average of 6 months after acceptance. Buys all rights. Reports in 1 month. Sample copy and writer's guidelines for 9×12 SAE with 4 first-class stamps; mention Writer's Market in request.
Nonfiction: How-to (cope with supervisory problems, discipline, absenteeism, safety, productivity, goal setting, etc.); personal experience (unusual success story of foreman or supervisor). No sexist material written from only a male viewpoint. Include biography and/or byline with ms submissions. Author photos requested. Buys 12 mss/issue. Query. Length: 1,500-1,800 words. Pays 4¢/word.
Tips: "Following AP stylebook would be helpful." Uses no advertising. Send correspondence to Editor.

SUPERVISOR'S BULLETIN, Bureau of Business Practice, 24 Rope Ferry Rd., Waterford CT 06386-0001. (203)442-4365. Fax: (203)434-3078. Editor: Carl Thunberg. 50-75% freelance written. "We work with both new and established writers, and are always looking for fresh talent." Bimonthly newsletter for manufacturing supervisors wishing to improve their managerial skills. Estab. 1915. Pays on acceptance. Publishes ms an average of 3 months after acceptance. No byline given. Buys all rights. Reports in 2 weeks on queries; 6 weeks on mss. Free sample copy and writer's guidelines.
Nonfiction: How-to (solve a supervisory problem on the job or avoid litigation); interview (of top-notch supervisors or experts who can give advice on supervisory issues). Sample topics could include: how to increase productivity, cut costs, achieve better teamwork, and step-by-step approaches to problem-solving. No filler or non-interview based copy. Buys 72 mss/year. Query first. "Strongly urge writers to study guidelines and samples." Length: 750-1,000 words. Pays 12-18¢/word.
Tips: "We need interview-based articles that emphasize direct quotes. Define a problem and show how the supervisor solved it. Write in a light, conversational style, talking directly to supervisors who can benefit from putting the interviewee's tips into practice."

‡TRAINING MAGAZINE, Lakewood Publications, 50 S. 9th St., Minneapolis MN 55402. (612)333-0471. Editor: Jack Gordon. Managing Editor: Chris Lee. 10% freelance written. A monthly magazine covering training and employee development in the business world. "Our core readers are managers and professionals who specialize in employee training and development (e.g., corporate training directors, VP-human resource development, etc.). We have a large secondary readership among managers of all sorts who are concerned with improving human performance in their organizations. We take a businesslike approach to training and employee education." Estab. 1964. Circ. 56,000. Pays on acceptance. Publishes ms an average of 3 months after acceptance. Byline given. Buys first North American serial and second serial (reprint) rights. Accepts simultaneous submissions. Reports in 2 weeks on queries; 6 weeks on mss. Sample copy for 9×12 SAE with 4 first-class stamps. Writer's guidelines for #10 SASE.
Nonfiction: Essay; exposé; how-to (on training, management, sales, productivity improvement, etc.); humor; interview/profile; new product; opinion; photo feature; technical (use of audiovisual aids, computers, etc.). "No puff, no 'testimonials' or disguised ads in any form, no 'gee-whiz' approaches to the subjects." Buys 10-12 mss/year. Query with or without published clips, or send complete ms. Length: 200-3,000 words. Pays $50-750.
Photos: State availability of photos or send with submission. Reviews contact sheets and prints. Offers no additional payment for photos accepted with ms. Identification of subjects required. Buys one-time rights and reprint rights.
Columns/Departments: Training Today (news briefs, how-to tips, reports on pertinent research, trend analysis, etc.), 200-800 words. Buys 6 mss/year. Query or send complete ms. Pays $50-125.
Tips: "We almost never give firm assignments to unfamiliar writers, so you have to be willing to hit us with one or two on spec to break in. Short pieces for our Training Today section involve least investment on your part, but also are less likely to convince us to assign you a feature. When studying the magazine, freelancers should look at our staff-written articles for style, approach and tone. Do not concentrate on articles written by people identified as consultants, training directors, etc."

WAREHOUSING SUPERVISOR'S BULLETIN, Bureau of Business Practice, 24 Rope Ferry Rd., Waterford CT 06386-0001. (203)442-4365. Fax: (203)434-2546. Editor: Peter Hawkins. 75-90% freelance written. "We work with a wide variety of writers, and are always looking for fresh talent." Biweekly newsletter covering traffic, materials handling and distribution for warehouse supervisors "interested in becoming more effective on the job." Pays on acceptance. Publishes ms an average of 3 months after acceptance. No byline given.

Buys all rights. Reports in 2 weeks on queries; 6 weeks on mss. Free sample copy and writer's guidelines.
Nonfiction: How-to (increase efficiency, control or cut costs, cut absenteeism or tardiness, increase productivity, raise morale); interview (of warehouse supervisors or managers who have solved problems on the job). No noninterview articles, textbook-like descriptions, union references or advertising of products. Buys 50 mss/year. Query. "A résumé and sample of work are helpful." Length: 1,580-2,900 words. Pays 10-15¢/word. Sometimes pays the expenses of writers on assignment.
Tips: "All articles must be interview-based and emphasize how-to information. They should also include a reference to the interviewee's company (location, size, products, function of the interviewee's department and number of employees under his control). Focus articles on one problem, and get the interviewee to pinpoint the best way to solve it. Appropriate artwork (charts, forms, photos) is helpful. Write in a light, conversational style, talking directly to warehouse supervisors who can benefit from putting the interviewee's tips into practice."

Photos: State availability of photos with submission or send photos with submission. Reviews 5×7 prints. Offers no additional payment for photos accepted with ms. Captions, model releases and identification of subjects required. Buys one-time rights.
Columns/Departments: Taxes, Legal and Photography. Buys 12 mss/year. Query. Length: 600 words.
Tips: "Writers should know that the readers are professional captains who depend upon their boats and the sea to make their living. They demand the writer know the subject and the application to the industry. Those without knowledge of the industry should save their postage." Areas most open to freelancers are "personal profiles of sucessful charter captains and charter ports. We have guidelines for articles on both subjects. Most freelancer submissions are rejected because they don't do their homework properly. Our readers are tough taskmasters. Don't try to fool them!"

Columns/Departments: Open Forum (opinion page for EMS professionals), 500 words; Skills Primer (basic skills, how-to with photos), 1,000-2,000 words; Rescue Call (cover a specific rescue or technique); Drug Watch (focus on one particular drug a month). Buys 10 mss/year. Query first. Pays $50-250.
Fillers: Facts, newsbreaks. Buys 10/year. Length: no more than 500 words. Pays $0-75.
Tips: "Writing style for features and departments should be knowledgeable and lively with a clear theme or story line to maintain reader interest and enhance comprehension. The biggest problem we encounter is dull, lifeless term-paper-style writing with nothing to pique reader interest. Keep in mind we are not a textbook, but all technical articles must be well referenced with footnotes within the text. We follow AP style. Accompanying photos are a plus.We appreciate a short, one paragraph biography on the author."

FACETS, American Medical Association Auxiliary, Inc., 515 N. State St., Chicago IL 60610. (312)464-4470. Fax: (312)464-4184. Editor: Kathleen T. Jordan. 25% freelance written. Work with both established and new writers. Bimonthly magazine for physicians' spouses. Estab. 1965. Circ. 65,000. Pays on acceptance. Publishes ms an average of 6 months after acceptance. Buys first rights. Accepts simultaneous and previously published submissions. Reports in 2 months. Sample copy and writer's guidelines for 9×12 SAE with 2 first-class stamps.
Nonfiction: All articles must be related to the experiences of physicians' spouses. Current health issues; financial topics, physicians' family circumstances, business management and volunteer leadership how-to's. Buys 10 mss/year. Nonfiction: Book excerpts (prepublication), how-to (manage fitness center and program), new product (no pay), photo feature (facilities/programs), technical and other (news of fitness research and major happenings in fitness industry). No exercise instructions or general ideas without examples of fitness businesses that have used them successfully. Buys 50 mss/year. Query. Length: 750-2,000 words. Pays $60-300 for assigned articles; up to $300 for unsolicited articles. Pays expenses of writers on assignment.

Photos: Send photos with submission. Reviews contact sheets, 2×2 and 4×5 transparencies; prefers glossy prints, 5×7 to 8×10. Offers $10-25/photo. Captions and model releases required.

Tips: "We seek writers who are expert in a business or science field related to the fitness-service industry or who are experienced in the industry. Be current with the state of the art/science in business and fitness and communicate it in human terms (avoid intimidating academic language; tell the story of how this was learned and/or cite examples of quotes of people who have applied the knowledge successfully)."

HEALTH SYSTEMS REVIEW, P.O. Box 8708, Little Rock AR 72217-8708. (501)661-9555. Fax: (501)663-4903. Executive Editor: John Herrmann. 5% freelance written. Bimonthly trade journal on health care issues and health care politics (federal and state). "Health Systems Review publishes articles concerning the politics of health care, covers legislative activities and broad grass roots stories involving particular hospitals or organizations and their problems/solutions. Goes to health care managers, executives, to all members of the Congress, its staffs, the Administration and staff." Estab. 1967. Circ. 30,000. Pays on acceptance. Byline given. Buys first North American serial and second serial (reprint) rights. Accepts simultaneous and previously published articles. Send tearsheet of article. Submit seasonal material 6 months in advance. Query for electronic submissions. Reports in 1 week on queries; 1 month on mss. Writer's Market recommends allowing 2 months for reply. Sample copy for 9×12 SAE with 5 first-class stamps.

Nonfiction: Essays, interview/profile, opinion, personal experience. "No articles about health care or medical procedures. No new products pieces. No articles about health care and the stock market." Buys 2-4 mss/year. Query with published clips. Length: 1,500-3,500 words. Pays $200. "Articles by health care leaders, members of Congress and staff and legal columns generally not paid." Pays expenses of writers on assignment.

Photos: Send photos with submission. Reviews contact sheets, transparencies and prints. Offers no additional payment for photos accepted with ms. Captions and identification of subjects required. Buys one-time rights.

Columns/Departments: Jennifer L. Smith. Health Care Financing (business issues in health care), 1,500-3,500 words; Health Law Perspectives (written in-house); and Supply Side (health care suppliers news update), 1,500-3,500 words. Buys 2 mss/year. Query with published clips. Pays $100-200.

Tips: "Health care reform measures; a good large multi-hospital group business story (failure or success); good contacts with state or federal senators and representatives and/or their staff members for close-ups, profiles. No writing in supply side that sells the supplier or its products but, rather, how it sees current issues from its perspective."

HMO MAGAZINE, Directions in Managed Health Care, Group Health Association of America, Suite 600, 1129 20th St. NW, Washington DC 20036. (202)778-3250. Editor: Susan Pisano. Contact: Lisa Lopez, Managing Editor. 35% freelance written. Bimonthly magazine for news and analysis of the health maintenance organization (HMO) industry. "HMO Magazine is geared toward senior administrative and medical managers in HMOs. Articles must succinctly and clearly define issues of concern or news to the HMO industry. Articles must ask 'why' and 'how' and answer with examples. Articles should inform and generate interest and discussion about topics on anything from medical management to regulatory issues." Estab. 1990. Circ. 6,000. Pays 30 days within acceptance of article in final form. Publishes ms an average of 2 months after acceptance. Byline given. Offers 30% kill fee. Buys all rights. Editorial lead time 2 months. Submit seasonal material 2 months in advance. Accepts simultaneous submissions. Query for electronic submissions. Reports in 1 month on queries. Sample copy and writer's guidelnes free on request.

Nonfiction: How-to (how industry professionals can better operate their health plans), opinion. "We do not accept any articles relating to clinical health issues, such as nutrition or any general health topics that do not address issues of concern to HMO administrators; nor do we accept stories that promote products." Buys 20 mss/year. Query. Length: 1,800-2,500 words. Pays 40¢/word minimum for assigned articles; 35¢/word minimum for unsolicited articles. Pays phone expenses of writers on assignment.

Photos: State availability of photos with submission. Reviews contact sheets. Offers no additional payment for photos accepted with ms. Buys all rights.

Columns/Departments: Washington File (health policy issues relating to HMOs and managed health care), 1,800 words; Preventive Care (case study or discussion of public health HMOs), 1,800 words; The Market (market niches for HMOs—with examples), 1,800 words. Buys 6 mss/year. Query with published clips. Pays 35-50¢/word.

Tips: "Follow the current health care debate. Much of what the Clinton Administration proposes will definitely impact the HMO industry. Look for HMO success stories in your community; we like to include case studies on everything from medical management to regulatory issues so that our readers can learn from their colleagues. Our readers are members of our trade association and look for advice and news. Topics relating to the quality and cost benefits of HMOs are the ones most frequently assigned to writers, whether a feature or department. For example, a recent story on 'The High Price of Compliance' relating to costs associated with not complying with prescription advice, got a lot of reader interest. The writer interviewed a number of experts inside and outside the HMO field."

JEMS, The Journal of Emergency Medical Services, Jems Communications, Suite 200, 1947 Camino Vida Roble, Carlsbad CA 92008-2789. (619)431-9797. Fax: (619)431-8176. Executive Editor: Keith Griffiths. Managing Editor: Tara Regan. 25% freelance written. Monthly magazine for emergency medical services—all phases. The journal is directed to the personnel who serve the emergency medicine industry: paramedics, EMTs, emergency physicians and nurses, administrators, EMS consultants, etc. Estab. 1980. Circ. 35,000. Pays on publication. Publishes ms an average of 3-6 months after acceptance. Byline given. Buys all North American serial rights. Submit seasonal material 6 months in advance. Query for electronic submissions. Reports in 2 months. Free sample copy and writer's guidelines.

Nonfiction: Essays, general interest, how-to (prehospital care), continuing education, humor, interview/profile, new product, opinion, photo feature, technical. Buys 18 mss/year. Query. Length: 900-3,600 words. Pays $150-400.

- JEMS has an increased need for investigative reporters who can cover system politics, trends and product concerns and have a strong ENS knowledge base.

Photos: State availability of photos with submission. Offers no additional payment for photos accepted with ms. Buys one-time rights.

Columns/Departments: Teacher Talk (directed toward EMS instructors), 2,400 words; Manager's Forum (EMS administrators), 1,500-2,000 words; and First Person (personal accounts of life in EMS); Law and Policy (legislative reports).

Tips: "Feature articles are most open to freelancers. We have guidelines available upon request and, of course, manuscripts must be geared toward our specific EMS audience."

‡JOURNAL OF NURSING JOCULARITY, The Humor Magazine for Nurses, JNJ Publishing, Inc., P.O. Box 40416, Mesa AZ 85274. (602)835-6165. Editor: Fran London, RN, MS. 75% freelance written. Quarterly magazine covering nursing and medical humor. "Journal of Nursing Jocularity is read by health care professionals. Published manuscripts pertain to the lighter side of health care, predominantly from the perspective of the health care provider." Estab. 1990. Circ. 20,000. Pays on publication. Publishes ms an average of 1 year after acceptance. Offers 100% kill fee. Buys one-time rights. Editorial lead time 6-12 months. Submit seasonal material 9-12 months in advance. Accepts simultaneous submissions. Query for electronic submissions. Reports in 2 months on queries; 3 months on mss. Sample copy for $2. Writer's guidelines for 9×10 SAE with 2 first-class stamps.

Nonfiction: Essays, historical/nostalgic, humor, interview/profile, opinion, personal experience, current research on therapeutic use of humor. "Our readers are primarily active nurses. Our focus is insider humor." Buys 4-8 mss/year. Length: 500-1,500 words. Pays $5. Sometimes pays expenses of writers on assignment.

Photos: State availability of photos with submission. Model releases required. Buys one-time rights.

Columns/Departments: Stories from the Floor (anecdotes—true nursing experiences), 16-200 words; Call Lites (health care jokes with insider edge), 16-200 words; Student Nurse Cut-Ups (anecdotes—true student nurse experiences), 16-150 words. Pays JNJ T-shirt.

Fiction: Humorous, slice-of-life vignettes. Buys 30 mss/year. Query or send complete ms. Length: 500-1,500 words. Pays $5.

Poetry: Avant-garde, free verse, haiku, light verse, traditional, songs and cheers. Buys 4-6 poems/year. Submit maximum 3 poems. Pays $5.

Fillers: Anecdotes, gags to be illustrated by cartoonist, short humor. Length: 16-200 words. Pays T-shirt.

Tips: "Our readers are primarily working nurses. JNJ's focus is insider humor—the kind only a health care provider understands. Very few non-health care providers have been able to submit material that rings true. We do not publish material written from a patient's point of view."

‡MANAGED HEALTHCARE, Advanstar Communications, 7500 Old Oak Blvd., Cleveland OH 44130. (216)891-3104. Editor: Joseph F. McKenna. Managing Editor: Susan Hirschman. 65% freelance written. Monthly trade magazine covering managed health care industry. "We cover the spectrum of managed health care, including news, finance and in-depth analysis of buyer and provider issues." Estab. 1991. Circ. 36,000. Pays on acceptance. Publishes ms an average of 1 month after acceptance. Byline given. Editorial lead time 1-2 months. Query for electronic submissions. Sample copy not available.

Nonfiction: Buys 85 mss/year. Query. Length: 750-3,000 words. Pays $100 minimum for assigned articles; $700 minimum for unsolicited articles. Sometimes pays expenses of writers on assignment.

Photos: State availability of photos or send photos with submission. Reviews prints. Negotiates payment individually. Identification of subjects required. Buys one-time rights.

Columns/Departments: Contact: Joseph F. McKenna, Editor. Commentary (expert opinion on managed care issues), 750-1,000 words. Query.
Tips: News section is most open to freelancers.

MD MAGAZINE, MD Publications, 14th Floor, 55 5th Ave., New York NY 10003-4301. (212)989-2100. Editor: Helen Smith. 40% freelance written. Monthly magazine that is distributed nationally to physicians. "MD is a cultural/general-interest magazine for physicians. It covers medicine, science, art, travel, food, social issues, books, technology, history, theater, biography, music and sports—the world outside the doctor's office. It does not cover clinical subjects." Estab. 1957. Circ. 120,000. Pays on publication. Publishes ms 3 months after acceptance. Byline given. Offers 33% kill fee. Buys first North American serial rights. Submit seasonal material 4 months in advance. Accepts previously published material. Send photocopy of article or short story, information about when and where the article previously appeared. Query for electronic submissions. Reports in 2 months. Sample copy for 9×12 SASE with 5 first-class stamps. Writer's guidelines for #10 SASE.
Nonfiction: General interest, historical, interview/profile, photo feature, food, travel. "No articles on clinical medicine or problems of running a medical practice." Buys 45 mss/year. Query only or query with published clips. Length: 750-3,000 words. Pays $250-3,000. Sometimes pays expenses of writers on assignment.
Photos: State availability of photos with submission. Offers no additional payment for photos accepted with ms. Captions, model releases and identification of subjects required. Buys one-time rights.
Tips: "Our purview is broad, but our approach is particular: we seek to portray the world the way a doctor sees it. We focus particularly on the doctor-reader's concerns. We look through the physicians' eyes—from their perspective—we don't just present material for them. All nonfiction areas are open to freelancers. The level of information should not be elementary—articles should be written with a sophisticated, demanding audience in mind. We are looking for short, well-written food articles. We also publish short stories and essays by physicians only. Any fiction submitted by a nonphysician will be returned unread."

MEDICAL ECONOMICS, Medical Economics Publishing, 5 Paragon Dr., Montvale NJ 07645-1742. (201)358-7200. Fax: (201)476-1734. Editor: Stephen K. Murata. Managing Editor: Larry Frederick. Less than 10% freelance written. Biweekly magazine covering topics of nonclinical interest to office-based private physicians (MDs and DOs only). "We publish practice/management and personal/finance advice for office-based MDs and osteopaths." Circ. 175,000. Pays on acceptance. Publishes ms an average of 3 months after acceptance. Byline given. Offers 25% of full article fee as kill fee. Buys all rights and first serial rights. Reports in 2 months on queries; 3 weeks on mss. Writer's Market recommends allowing 2 months for reply. Sample copy for $10 and 9×12 SASE.
Nonfiction: Contact Lilian Fine, chief of Outside Copy Division. How-to (office and personnel management, personal-money management); personal experience (only involving MDs or DOs in private practice); travel (how-to articles). No clinical articles, hobby articles, personality profiles or office design articles. Query with published clips. Length: 1,500-3,000 words. Pays $750-1,800. "The payment level is decided at the time go-ahead is given after query."
Tips: "How-to articles should fully describe techniques, goals, options and caveats—in terms that are clear and realistic for the average physician. Use of anecdotal examples to support major points is crucial. Our full-time staff is quite large, and therefore we buy only freelance articles that are not already assigned to staff writers. This puts a premium on unusual and appealing subjects."

‡MEDICAL IMAGING, The Business Magazine for Technology Management, (formerly Second Source Imaging), P.O. Box 930, 207 High Point Ave., Portsmouth RI 02871-0947. (401)633-7470. Editor: Jack Spears. Contact: Michael Buller, managing editor. 5% freelance written. Monthly magazine covering diagnostic imaging equipment. "Our editorial statement is to provide cost-effective solutions to the maintenance and management of diagnostic imaging equipment. Articles should address this." Estab. 1986. Circ. 14,000. Pays on acceptance. Publishes ms an average of 2 months after acceptance. Byline given. Offers 50% kill fee. Buys all rights. Editorial lead time two 2 months. Responds to query letters, "as soon as possible." Sample copy for $10 prepaid. Writer's guidelines for #10 SASE.
Nonfiction: Interview/profile, technical. "No general interest/human interest stories about healthcare. Articles must deal with our industry-diagnostic imaging." Buys 6 mss/year. Query with published clips. Length: 1,500-2,500 words. Pays approximately 25¢/word. Sometimes pays expenses of writers on assignment.
Photos: State availability of photos with submission. Reviews negatives. Offers no additional payment for photos accepted with ms "unless assigned separately." Model releases and identification of subjects required. Buys all rights.
Tips: "Send a letter with an interesting story idea that is applicable to our industry, diagnostic imaging. Then follow up with a phone call. Areas most open to freelancers are feature and technology. You don't have to be an engineer or doctor but you have to know how to talk and listen to them."

THE NEW PHYSICIAN, 1890 Preston White Dr., Reston VA 22091-4325. Contact: Editor. 40% freelance written. Magazine published 9 times/year for medical students, interns, residents and educators. Circ. 30,000. Buys first serial rights. Pays on acceptance. Publishes an average of 2 months after acceptance. Will consider simultaneous submissions. Accepts previously published articles. Send photocopy of article and information about when and where the article previously appeared. Publishes novel excerpts. Reports in 2 months. Sample copy for 10×13 SAE with 5 first-class stamps. Writer's guidelines for SASE.

Nonfiction: Articles on social, political, economic issues in medicine/medical education. Buys about 12 features/year. Query or send complete ms. Length: 800-3,500 words. Pays 25¢-50¢/word with higher fees for selected pieces. Pays expenses of writers on assignment.

Tips: "Although we are published by an association (the American Medical Student Association), we are not a 'house organ.' We are a professional magazine for readers with a progressive view on health care issues and a particular interest in improving the health care system. Our readers demand sophistication on the issues we cover. Freelancers should be willing to look deeply into the issues in question and not be satisfied with a cursory review of those issues."

PHYSICIAN'S MANAGEMENT, Advanstar Communications, 7500 Old Oak Blvd., Cleveland OH 44130. (216)243-8100. Fax: (216)891-2683. Editor-in-Chief: Bob Feigenbaum. Prefers to work with published/established writers. Monthly magazine emphasizing finances, investments, malpractice, socioeconomic issues, estate and retirement planning, small office administration, practice management, computers and taxes for primary care physicians in private practice. Estab. 1960. Circ. 120,000. Pays on acceptance. Publishes ms an average of 2-6 months after acceptance. Submit seasonal material 5 months in advance. Query for electronic submissions. Reports in 1 month. Sample copy for $5. Writer's guidelines for #10 SASE.

Nonfiction: "Physician's Management is a practice management/economic publication, not a clinical one." Publishes how-to articles (limited to medical practice management); informational (when relevant to audience); and personal experience articles (if written by a physician). No fiction, clinical material or satire that portrays MD in an unfavorable light; or soap opera, "real-life" articles. Length: 2,000-2,500 words. Query with SASE. Pays $125/3-column printed page. Use of charts, tables, graphs, sidebars and photos strongly encouraged. Sometimes pays expenses of writers on assignment.

Tips: "Talk to doctors first about their practices, financial interests, and day-to-day nonclinical problems and then query us. Also, the ability to write a concise, well-structured and well-researched magazine article is essential. Freelancers who think like patients fail with us. Those who can think like MDs are successful."

‡PHYSICIAN'S PRACTICE DIGEST, 13th Floor, 100 S. Charles St., Baltimore MD 21201. (410)539-3100. Editor: Bruce Goldfarb. 75% freelance written. Quarterly trade magazine covering the business side of medical practice. "Magazine is about physician practice management, the business of medicine and health care. Readers are primarily in solo practice or small groups. Not a clinical publication." Estab. 1990. Circ. 30,000. Pays on acceptance. Publishes ms an average of 2 months after acceptance. Byline given. Offers 25% kill fee. Buys one-time rights. Editorial lead time 3 months. Submit seasonal material 6 months in advance. Accepts previously published submissions. Query for electronic submissions. Sample copy and writer's guidelines free on request.

Nonfiction: How-to, interview/profile, opinion. "Anything related to health reform is hot now—managed care, reimbursement. No clinical articles." Buys 40 mss/year. Query with published clips. Length: 500-2,500 words. Pays 25¢/word minimum for assigned articles. Sometimes pays expenses of writers on assignment.

Photos: State availability of photos with submission. Reviews transparencies. Negotiates payment individually. Captions, model releases and identification of subjects required. Buys one-time rights.

Columns/Departments: Office Technology (computers, software, simulators, etc.), 500 words; Malpractice (reform, arbitration, etc.), 500 words; Managed Care (contracting, UR, guidelines, etc.), 500 words. Query with published clips. Pays 25-50¢/word.

Tips: "It's absolutely essential to read the magazine. We do not run clinical articles. We're trying to help our readers cope while the health care industry undergoes radical transformation. We welcome ideas and information that will help the physician better manage the practice. Read the magazine! Think about what the reader needs to know. Look for health care trends and find the angle that affects physicians."

PODIATRY MANAGEMENT, P.O. Box 50, Island Station NY 10044. (212)355-5216. Fax: (212)486-7706. Publisher: Scott C. Borowsky. Editor: Barry Block, DPM, J.D. Managing Editor: Martin Kruth. Magazine published 9 times/year for practicing podiatrists. "Aims to help the doctor of podiatric medicine to build a bigger, more successful practice, to conserve and invest his money, to keep him posted on the economic, legal and sociological changes that affect him." Reporting time varies. Sample copies available for sale through circulation department. Writer's guidelines for SAE.

• There's an increasing emphasis here on personality features and coverage of fine art screen printers.

Nonfiction: "Because the screen printing industry is a specialized but diverse trade, we do not publish general interest articles with no pertinence to our readers. Subject matter is open, but should fall into one of four categories—technology, management, profile, or news. Features in all categories must identify the relevance of the subject matter to our readership. Technology articles must be informative, thorough, and objective—no promotional or 'advertorial' pieces accepted. Management articles may cover broader business or industry specific issues, but they must address the screen printer's unique needs. Profiles may cover serigraphers, outstanding shops, unique jobs and projects, or industry personalities; they should be in-depth features, not PR puff pieces, that clearly show the human interest or business relevance of the subject. News pieces should be timely (reprints from non-industry publications will be considered) and must cover an event or topic of industry concern." Buys 6-10 mss/year. Query. Unsolicited mss not returned. Length: 1,500-3,500 words. Pays minimum of $200 for major features. Sometimes pays the expenses of writers on assignment.

Photos: Cover photos negotiable; b&w or color. Published material becomes the property of the magazine.

Tips: "If the author has a working knowledge of screen printing, assignments are more readily available. General management articles are rarely used."

Real Estate

AREA DEVELOPMENT MAGAZINE, 400 Post Ave., Westbury NY 11590. (516)338-0900. Fax: (516)338-0100. Editor-in-Chief: Tom Bergeron. 50% freelance written. Nonfiction: General interest, how-to, interview/profile, personal experience. No news shorts or clippings; feature material only. Buys 12-15 mss/year. Query. Length: 1,000-3,000 words. Pays $200-1,000 for assigned articles; $200-600 for unsolicited articles. Sometimes pays the expenses of writers on assignment.

Photos: State availability of photos with submission. Reviews contact sheets, transparencies and 8×10 prints. Payment negotiable. Captions and identification of subjects required. Buys one-time rights.

Tips: "First, remember that our reader is a corporate executive responsible for his company's expansion and/or relocation decisions and our writers have to get inside that person's head in order to provide him with something that's helpful in his decision-making process. And second, the biggest turnoff is a telephone query. We're too busy to accept them and must require that all queries be put in writing. Submit major feature articles only; all news departments, fillers, etc., are staff prepared. A writer should be aware that our style is not necessarily dry and business-like. We tend to be more casual and a writer should look for that aspect of our approach."

Tips: "We want to get more technical information. We need a layman's description of: e.g., how an air conditioner really cools air. We would like maintenance remedies: e.g., what is the best thing to be done for cracked pavement in a parking lot. Consult the reader response in the magazine for maintenance categories. We ask that our advertisers be used exclusively for research. Our readers are extrememly interested in knowing such things as the difference between latex and acrylic paint and when you use one or the other. We find that the more specific and technical the better. This also applies to interviews. Interviews are to gather good technical information. Legal, administrative maintenance. See our guidelines for primer questions. We would like interviews with pictures of individuals and/or associations. 95% of our interviews are done by phone. We would like to have regular correspondents in different areas of the country."

Fillers: Anecdotes, facts, gags to be illustrated by cartoonist. Buys 30/year. Pays $25-250.
Tips: "We're a small company and easy to reach. We're open to any and all ideas as to editorial topics to cover. We strive to provide the reader with usable material, and present it in full color with graphic embellishment whenever possible. Dry, highly technical material is edited to make it more palatable and concise for the reader. Most of our feature articles come from freelancers. Interviews and quotes should be from the readers—the professionals working in the field—not manufacturers, not professional PR firms. Strive to write material that is 'over the heads' of our readers. If anything, attempt to make them 'reach.' Anything submitted that is too rudimentary, fundamental, elementary, etc., cannot be accepted for publication."

Query for electronic submissions. Reports in 1 to 2 months. Sample copy for 10×13 SAE with 6 first-class stamps. Writer's guidelines for #10 SASE.
Nonfiction: Travel and Mexico—only from trade angle. "We do not want articles that focus on any other topic than Mexico." Buys 35 mss/year. Query with published clips. Length: 400-1,200 words. Pays 25¢/word.
Tips: "We are looking for writers who have had experience writing about the travel trade—specifically Mexico. Freelancers should have intimate knowledge of Mexico's travel industry infrastructure, key players within the industry, organizations and associations, hotels and other travel service providers. Because we work only on assignment it's best to send query with published clips (that will be kept on file unless SASE enclosed) that establish writer's expertise."

RV BUSINESS, TL Enterprises, Inc., 3601 Calle Tecate, Camarillo CA 93012. (805)389-0300. Fax: (805)389-0484. Senior Managing Editor: Stephen Boilon. 60% freelance written. Prefers to work with published/established writers. Monthly magazine covering the recreational vehicle and allied industries for people in the RV industry—dealers, manufacturers, suppliers and finance experts. Estab. 1950. Circ. 19,000. Pays on acceptance. Publishes ms an average of 2 months after acceptance. Byline given. Offers 50% kill fee. Buys first North American serial rights. Submit seasonal material 6 months in advance. Query for electronic submissions. Reports in 2 months. Sample copy for 9×12 SAE with 5 first-class stamps.
Nonfiction: Technical, financial, legal or marketing issues; how-to (deal with any specific aspect of the RV business); specifics and verification of statistics required—must be factual; and technical (photos required, 4-color preferred). General business articles may be considered. Buys 50 mss/year. Query with published clips. Send complete ms—"but only read on speculation." Length: 1,000-1,500 words. Pays variable rate up to $500. Sometimes pays expenses of writers on assignment.
Photos: State availability of photos with query or send photos with ms. Reviews 35mm transparencies and 8×10 b&w prints. Captions, model release, and identification of subjects required. Buys one-time or all rights; unused photos returned.
Columns/Departments: Guest editorial; News (50-500 words maximum, b&w photos appreciated); and RV People (color photos/4-color transparencies; this section lends itself to fun, upbeat copy). Buys 100-120 mss/year. Query or send complete ms. Pays $25-200 "depending on where used and importance."
Tips: "Query. Phone OK; letter preferable. Send one or several ideas and a few lines letting us know how you plan to treat it/them. We are always looking for good authors knowledgable in the RV industry or related industries. Change of editorial focus requires more articles that are brief, factual, hard hitting, business oriented and in-depth. Will work with promising writers, published or unpublished."

SPECIALTY TRAVEL INDEX, Alpine Hansen, #313, 305 San Anselmo Ave., San Anselmo CA 94960. (415)459-4900. Editor: C. Steen Hansen. Managing Editor: Barbara Bell. Contact: C. Steen Hansen. 90% freelance written. Semiannual magazine covering adventure and special interest travel. Estab. 1980. Circ. 45,000. Pays on publication. Byline given. Buys one-time rights. Editorial lead time 3 months. Submit seasonal material 3 months in advance. Accepts previously published submissions. Query for electronic submissions. Sample copy and writer's guidelines free on request.

Nonfiction: How-to, new product, personal experience, photo feature, travel. Buys 15 mss/year. Query. Length: 1,000 words. Pays $200 minimum.

Photos: State availability of photos with submission. Reviews 35mm transparencies and 5×7 prints. Negotiates payment individually. Captions and identification of subjects required.

STAR SERVICE, Reed Travel Group, 500 Plaza Dr., Secaucus NJ 07096-3602. (201)902-2000. Fax: (201)319-1797. Publisher: Steven R. Gordon. "Eager to work with new/unpublished writers as well as those working from a home base abroad, planning trips that would allow time for hotel reporting, or living in major ports for cruise ships." Worldwide guide to accommodations and cruise ships founded in 1960 (as Sloane Travel Agency Reports) and sold to travel agencies on subscription basis. Pays 15 days after publication. Buys all rights. Query should include details on writer's experience in travel and writing, clips, specific forthcoming travel plans, and how much time would be available for hotel or ship inspections. Buys 5,000 reports/year. Pays $18/report used. Sponsored trips are acceptable. General query statement should precede electronic submission. Reports in 3 months. Writer's guidelines and list of available assignments for #10 SASE.

Nonfiction: Objective, critical evaluations of hotels and cruise ships suitable for international travelers, based on personal inspections. Freelance correspondents ordinarily are assigned to update an entire state or country. "Assignment involves on-site inspections of all hotels and cruise ships we review; revising and updating published reports; and reviewing new properties. Qualities needed are thoroughness, precision, perseverance and keen judgment. Solid research skills and powers of observation are crucial. Travel and travel writing experience are highly desirable. Reviews must be colorful, clear, and documented with hotel's brochure, rate sheet, etc. We accept no advertising or payment for listings, so reviews should dispense praise and criticism where deserved."

Tips: "We may require sample hotel or cruise reports on facilities near freelancer's hometown before giving the first assignment. No byline because of sensitive nature of reviews."

TRAVELAGE WEST, Official Airline Guides, Inc., # 460, 49 Stevenson St., San Francisco CA 94105. Managing Editor: Robert Carlsen. 5% freelance written. Prefers to work with published/established writers. Weekly magazine for travel agency sales counselors in the western US and Canada. Estab. 1969. Circ. 35,000. Pays on publication. Publishes ms an average of 1 month after acceptance. Byline given. Buys all rights. Offers kill fee. Submit seasonal/holiday material 2 months in advance. Query for electronic submissions. Reports in 6 months. Free writer's guidelines.

Nonfiction: Travel. "No promotional approach or any hint of do-it-yourself travel. Emphasis is on news, not description. No static descriptions of places, particularly resort hotels." Buys 40 mss/year. Query. Length: 1,000 words maximum. Pays $2/column inch.

Tips: "Query should be a straightforward description of the proposed story, including (1) an indication of the news angle, no matter how tenuous, and (2) a recognition by the author that we run a trade magazine for travel agents, not a consumer book. I am particularly turned off by letters that try to get me all worked up about the 'beauty' or excitement of some place. Authors planning to travel might discuss with us a proposed angle before they go; otherwise their chances of gathering the right information are slim."

Veterinary

VETERINARY ECONOMICS MAGAZINE, 9073 Lenexa Dr., Lenexa KS 66215. (913)492-4300. Fax: (913)492-4157. Editor: Rebecca R. Turner. Managing Editor: Renée Anderson. 25% freelance written. Scriptwriting

Everyone has a story to tell, something to say. In telling that story as a play, movie, TV show or educational video you have selected that form over other possibilities. Scriptwriting makes some particular demands, but one thing remains the same for authors of novels, nonfiction books and scripts: you'll learn to write by rewriting. Draft after draft your skills improve until, hopefully, someone likes your work enough to hire you.

Whether you are writing a video to train doctors in a new surgical technique, alternative theater for an Off-Broadway company or you want to see your name on the credits of the next Arnold Schwarzenegger movie, you must perfect both writing and marketing skills. A successful scriptwriter is a talented artist and a savvy businessperson. But marketing must always be secondary to writing. A mediocre pitch for a great script will still get you farther than a brilliant pitch for a mediocre script. The art and craft of scriptwriting lies in successfully executing inspiration.

Writing a script is a private act. Polishing it may involve more people as you ask friends and fellow writers to take a look at it. Marketing takes your script public in an effort to find the person willing to give the most of what you want, whether it's money, exposure or control, in return for your work.

There are accepted ground rules to presenting and marketing scripts. Following those guidelines will maximize your chances of getting your work before an audience.

Presenting your script professionally earns a serious consideration of its content. Certain types of scripts have a definite format and structure. An educational video written in a one-column format, a feature film much longer than 120 pages or an hour-long TV show that peaks during the first 20 minutes indicates an amateur writer. There are several sources for correct formats, including The Writer's Digest Book of Manuscript Formats, by Buchman and Groves and The Complete Guide to Script Formats, by Cole and Haig.

Submission guidelines are similar to those for other types of writing. The initial contact is a one-page query letter, with a brief synopsis and a few lines as to your credits or experience relevant to the subject of your script. Never send a complete manuscript until it is requested. Almost every script sent to a producer, studio, or agent must be accompanied by a release form. Ask the producer or agent for his form when invited to submit the complete script. Always include a self-addressed stamped envelope if you want your work returned; a self-addressed stamped postcard will do for acknowledgement or reply if you do not need your script returned.

Most writers break in with spec scripts, written "for free," which serve as calling cards to show what they can do. These scripts plant the seeds of your professional reputation by making the rounds of influential people looking to hire writers, from advertising executives to movie moguls. Good writing is more important than a specific plot. Make sure you are sending out your best work; a first draft is not a finished product. Have several spec scripts completed, as a producer will often decide that a story is not right for him, or a similar work is already in production, but want to know what else you have. Be ready for that invitation.

Writing a script is a matter of learning how to refine your writing so that the work reads as a journey, not a technical manual. The best scripts have concise, visceral scenes that demand to be presented in a specific order and accomplish definite goals.

Educational videos have a message that must be expressed economically and directly, engaging the audience in an entertaining way while maintaining interest in the topic. Theatrical plays are driven by character and dialogue that expose a thematic core and engender enthusiasm or involvement in the conflict. Cinematic screenplays, while more visually-oriented, are a series of discontinuous scenes stacked to illuminate the characters, the obstacles confronting them and the resolution they reach.

A script is a difficult medium—written words that sound natural when spoken, characters that are original yet resonate with the audience, believable conflicts and obstacles in tune with the end result. One theater added to their listing the following tip: "Don't write plays. Write novels, short stories, anything but plays. But if you must write plays. . . . " If you are compelled to present your story visually, be aware of the intense competition it will face. Hone it, refine it, keep working on it until it can be no better, then look for the best home you can find. That's success.

Business and Educational Writing

"It's no longer the plankton of the filmmaking food chain," says Kirby Timmons, creative director of the video production company CRM Films. Scripts for corporate training, business management and education videos have become as sophisticated as those designed for TV and film, and they carry the additional requirement of conveying specific content. With an audience that is increasingly media literate, anything that looks and feels like a "training film" will be dead in the water. The trick is to produce a script that engages, compels and informs about the topic, whether it's customer relations, listening skills or effective employee management, while staying on a tight budget.

This can create its own challenges, but is an excellent way to increase your skills and exercise your craft. Good scriptwriters are in demand in this field. There is a strong emphasis on producing a polished complete script before filming begins, and a writer's involvement doesn't end until the film is "in the can."

A remarkably diverse industry, educational and corporate video is a $18-25 billion business, compared to theatrical films and TV, estimated at $5 billion. And there is the added advantage that opportunities are widespread, from large local corporations to small video production houses in your area. Larger companies often have inhouse video production companies, but others rely on freelance writers. Your best bet would be to find work with companies that specialize in making educational and corporate video while at the same time making yourself known to the creative directors of in-house video staffs in large corporations. Advertising agencies are also a good source of work, as they often are asked by their clients for help in creating films and use freelance writers and producers.

Business and educational video is a market-driven industry, with material created either in response to a general need or a specific demand. The production company usually identifies a subject and finds the writer. As such, there is a perception that a spec script will not work in this media. While it is true that, as in TV and theatrical films, a writer's spec script is rarely produced, it is a good résumé of qualifications and sample of skills. It can get you other work even though it isn't produced. Your spec script should demonstrate a knowledge of this industry's specific format. For the most part video scripts are written in two-columns, video on the left, audio on the right. Computer software is available to format the action and dialogue; The Writer's Digest Guide to Manuscript Formats also covers the basics of video script format.

Aside from the original script, another opportunity for the writer is the user's guide that often accompanies a video. If you are hired to create the auxiliary material you'll receive a copy of the finished video and write a concurrent text for the teacher or implementor to use.

Networking is very important. There is no substitute for calling companies and finding out what is in your area. Contact local training and development companies and find out who they serve and what they need. It pays to join professional organizations such as the Association of Visual Communicators and the Association for Training and Development, which offers seminars and conventions. Making the rounds at a business convention of video producers with your business card could earn you a few calls and invitations to submit writing samples.

Budgets are tighter for educational or corporate videos than for theatrical films. You'll want to work closely with the producer to make sure your ideas can be realized within the budget. Your fee will vary with each job, but generally a script written for a production house such as CRM or McGraw-Hill in a subject area with broad marketability will pay $5,000-7,000. A custom-produced video for a specific company will usually pay less. The pay does not increase exponentially with your experience; large increases come if you choose to direct and produce as well as write.

The future of business and educational video lies in interactive media or multimedia. Interactive media combines computer and video technology to create a product that doesn't have to progress along a linear path. Videos that offer the viewer the opportunity to direct the course of events hold exciting possibilities for corporate training and educational applications. Writers will be in high demand as stories offer dozens of choices in storylines. Interactive video will literally eat up pages of script as quickly as a good writer produces them. A training session may last only 20 minutes, but the potential untapped story lines could add up to hours worth of script that must be written, realized and made available. From training salespeople to doctors, or teaching traffic rules to issues in urbanization, corporate and educational video is about to undergo a tremendous revolution.

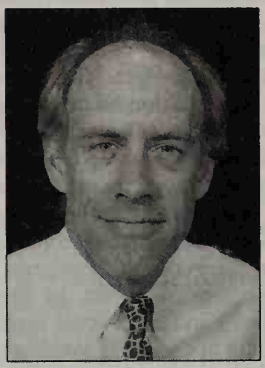
INSIDER REPORT

Interactive media is the writer's next frontier



Kirby Timmons

"Interactive media is like the Oklahoma Land Rush," says Kirby Timmons, Creative Director of CRM Films, one of the largest producers of educational and business management videos. "We're standing at the line and the shot hasn't gone off yet. But it could come at any minute."

Interactive media or multimedia is the hot new topic in the communications industry, from filmmakers to book publishing. "The distinction between entertainment and information has become blurred, and interactive finally erases the line," asserts Timmons, a former TV writer and USC film school grad who has worked in corporate and educational films for 15 years. "Interactive media is the marriage of computer technology and video technology. Computers control the video to extend the possibilities of both. It's not limited to a linear concept, but can branch out in different directions, the way people think. It's a medium that mimics the way your brain works," explains Timmons.

Timmons encourages writers to take the initiative in this emerging area. "Interactive doesn't know yet what it wants to be. Writers can have a hand in developing the future." He feels that writers, especially screenwriters, have been at the forefront of recognizing the potential of computers. This computer literacy particularly enables them to take part in these early stages. "It's our chance to leave our fingerprints on a brand new medium." He notes that interactive scriptwriting programs are available for as little as $125, and offer not only linear scene-by-scene scripts but also link-by-link flow charts to track the burgeoning possibilities as the story branches out. As the software becomes simpler, writers can produce interactive prototypes themselves, taking on the roles of creator and designer.

Learning the technology is crucial to survival in this coming revolution. While computer classes in university telecommunications or film departments are helpful, writers can learn much simply by using the software, working through the tutorials and exploring the program. "Don't assume that there is a training program out there," says Timmons. "Jump off into the unknown."

Timmons feels that the industry is waiting to see which platform will form the basis of most interactive media, a process called "platform shakeout" much like the battle between Apple and IBM for the business computer market. The primary capability that everyone is waiting for is full-motion video. "That's what everyone from MGM to CRM is interested in—accessing libraries of films to put on interactive." He feels that this is very feasible—and very close. The technology has moved quickly from single speed CD-ROM disc drives to double speed and is approaching quad speed. "It's estimated that less than 30% of homes have computers, and the percentage of those with CD-ROM capabilities is even smaller. Compared to TV penetration the numbers are paltry. But more computers are shipping with CD-ROM built in." Timmons believes it is likely that no one platform will dominate to the exclusion of the others, and that each application may demand its own platform.

A former chair of the Writers Guild of America west's Creative Media and Technologies Committee, Timmons feels that the WGA has been at the forefront in exploring this new media. Traditionally when a new media form arrives writers have been exploited as networks and studios control the power and capital. But with interactive, writers have the opportunity to become the producers. "Writers aren't waiting to be exploited." Although the WGA has set no strict minimums for compensation to writers in the area of interactive programming, Timmons notes that few writers are aware that interactive media production can qualify a writer towards WGA membership and count towards pension and health coverage qualification.

Timmons senses that the surge forward will be sudden and unexpected. "Things are happening so quickly. Interactive is coming, and when it does, you don't want to be behind the eight ball on the learning curve."

completed script or résumé. Usually pays flat fee for writing. Negotiable by project.
Needs: Videotapes. "Generic settings, rainbow mix of characters. Topics: change, motivation, diversity, quality, safety, customer service. 20 minutes max. Documentary if points are clear or skill-building 'how to'. Must make a point for teaching purposes."
Tips: "Training programs must appeal to a diverse audience but be 'TV quality'. They must teach, as well as be somewhat entertaining. Must hold interest. Should present the problem, but solve it and not leave the audience hanging or to solve it themsvles. Must stay realistic, believable and be fast-paced. I think there will be a need for even more types of video-based materials for a growing need for training within organizations."

Needs: Film loops (35mm), films (35/70mm), tapes and cassettes, videotapes. "We are seeking feature film scripts; proper format, two hour length. All subjects, particularly comedy, action-adventure, drama, sci/fi." Submit complete script. Makes outright purchase, in accordance with Writers Guild standards; a varied amount of options, with money.
Tips: "Get the script in as complete a form as possible before submitting; submit with release form, agent's letter or attorney letter; include a SASE if you want it returned; include where you have sent the project and to whom it was sent; do not ask for constructive criticism—it will be given if appropriate."

EDUCATIONAL IMAGES LTD., P.O. Box 3456, Elmira NY 14905. (607)732-1090. Executive Director: Dr. Charles R. Belinky. Produces material (videos, sound filmstrips, multimedia kits and slide sets) for schools, kindergarten through college and graduate school, public libraries, parks, nature centers, etc. Also produces science-related software material. Buys 50 scripts/year. Buys all AV rights. Free catalog.
Needs: Videos, slide sets, filmstrips on science, natural history, anthropology and social studies. "We are looking primarily for complete AV programs; we will consider slide collections to add to our files. This requires high quality, factual text and pictures." Query with a meaningful sample of proposed program. Pays $150 minimum.
Tips: The writer/photographer is given high consideration. "Once we express interest, follow up. Potential contributors lose many sales to us by not following up on initial query. Don't waste our time and yours if you can't deliver. The market seems to be shifting to greater popularity of video and computer software formats."

Playwriting

TV and movies are visual media where the words are often less important than the images. Writing plays uses different muscles, different techniques. Plays are built on character and dialog—words put together to explore and examine characters.

The written word is respected in the theater by producer, cast, director and even audience, to a degree unparalleled in other formats. While any work involving so many people to reach its final form is in essence a collaboration, it is presided over by the playwright and changes can be made only with her approval, a power many screenwriters can only envy. If a play is worth producing, it will be produced "as is."

Counterbalancing the greater freedom of expression are the physical limitations inherent in live performance: a single stage, smaller cast, limited sets and lighting and, most importantly, a strict, smaller budget. These conditions affect not only what but also how you write.

Start writing your play by reading. Your local library has play anthologies. Check the listings in this section for play publishers such as Aran Press, Baker's Plays and Samuel French. Reading gives you a feel for how characters are built, layer by layer, word by word, how each interaction presents another facet of a character. Exposition must mean something to the character, and the story must be worth telling for a play to be successful.

There are plenty of books, seminars and workshops to help you with the writing of your play. The development of character, setting, dialog and plot are skills that will improve with each draft. The specific play format is demonstrated in The Complete Book of Script Formats, by Cole and Haig and The Writer's Digest Book of Manuscript Formats, by Buchman and Groves.

Once the final draft of your play is finished you begin marketing it, which can take as long (or longer) than writing it. Before you begin you must have your script bound (three brads and a cover are fine) and copyrighted at the Copyright Office of the Library of Congress or registered with the Writers Guild of America. Write either agency and ask for information and an application.

Your first goal will be to get at least a reading of your play. You might be lucky and get a small production. Community theaters or smaller regional houses are good places to start. Volunteer at a local theater. As prop mistress or spotlight operator you will get a sense of how a theater operates, the various elements of presenting a play and what can and cannot be done, physically as well as dramatically. Personal contacts are important. Get to know the literary manager or artistic director of local theaters, which is the best way to get your script considered for production. Find out about any playwrights' groups in your area through local theaters or the drama departments of nearby colleges and universities. Use your creativity to connect with people that might be able to push your work higher.

Contests can be a good way to get noticed. Many playwriting contests offer as a prize at least a staged reading and often a full production. Once you've had a reading or workshop production, set your sights on a small production. Use this as a learning experience. Seeing your play on stage can help you view it more objectively and give you the chance to correct any flaws or inconsistencies. Incorporate any comments and ideas from the actors, director or even audience that you feel are on the mark into revisions of your script.

Use a small production also as a marketing tool. Keep track of all the press reviews, any interviews with you, members of the cast or production and put together a "press kit" for your play that can make the rounds with the script.

After you've been produced you have several directions to take your play. You can aim for a larger commercial production; you can try to get it published; you can seek artistic grants. After you have successfully pursued at least one of those avenues you can look for an agent. Choosing one direction does not rule out pursuing others at the same time. The Dramatists Sourcebook, published annually by Theatre Communications Group (355 Lexington Ave., New York NY 10017) lists opportunities in all these areas. The Dramatists Guild (234 W. 45th St., New York NY 10036) has three helpful publications: a bimonthly newsletter with articles, news and up-to-date information and opportunities, a quarterly journal, and an annual directory, a resource book for playwrights listing theaters, agents, workshops, grants, contests, etc.

Good reviews in a smaller production can get you noticed by larger theaters paying higher royalties and doing more ambitious productions. To submit your play to larger theaters you'll put together a submission package. This will include a one-page query letter to the literary manager or dramaturg briefly describing the play. Mention any reviews and give the number of cast members and sets. You will also send a two- to three-page synopsis, a ten-page sample of the most interesting section of your play, your résumé and the press kit you've assembled. Do not send your complete manuscript until it is requested.

You can also explore publishing your play. Writer's Market lists many play publishers. When your script is published your play will make money while someone else does the marketing. You'll be listed in a catalog that is sent out to hundreds or thousands of potential performance spaces—high schools, experimental companies, regional and community theaters—for possible production. You'll receive royalty checks for both performance fees and book sales. In contacting publishers you'll want to send your query letter with the synopsis and reviews.

There are several sources for grants. Some are federal or state, but don't overlook sources closer to home. The category "Arts Councils and Foundations" in Contests and Awards in this book lists a number of sources. On the national level contact the NEA Theater Program Fellowship for Playwrights (1100 Pennsylvania Ave. NW, Washington DC 20506). State arts commissions are another possible source, and also offer opportunities for involvement in programs where you can meet fellow playwrights. Some cities have arts and cultural commissions that offer grants for local artists. PEN publishes a comprehensive annual book, Grants and Awards Available to American Writers that also includes a section for Canadian writers. The eighteenth edition is available from the PEN American Center (568 Broadway, New York NY 10012).

Once you have been produced on a commercial level, your play has been published or you have won an important grant, you can start pursuing an agent. This is not always easy. Fewer agents represent playwrights alone—there's more money in movies and TV. No agent will represent an unknown playwright. Having an agent does not mean you can sit back and enjoy the ride. You will still need to get out there and network, establishing ties with theaters, directors, literary managers, other writers, producers, state art agencies and publishers, trying to get your work noticed. What it does mean is that you'll have some help. A good agent will have personal contacts that can place your work for consideration at a higher level than your efforts alone might.

There is always the possibility of moving from plays to TV and movies. There is a certain cachet in Hollywood surrounding successful playwrights. The writing style will be different—more visually oriented, less dependent on your words. The money is better, but you will have less command over the work once you've sold that copyright. It seems to be easier for a playwright to cross over to movies than for a screenwriter to cross over to plays.

Writing a script can make you feel isolated, even when your characters are so real to you they seem to be in the room as you write. Sometimes the experience and companionship of other playwrights is what you need to get you over a particular hurdle in your play. Membership and service organizations such as The Dramatists Guild, The International Women's Writing Guild and local groups such as the Playwright's Center in Minneapolis and the Northwest Playwright's Guild in Seattle can help you feel still a part of this world as you are off creating your own.

For information on more playwriting markets, see Scriptwriting Markets/Changes '94-'95 at the end of the Screenwriting section.

A.D. PLAYERS, 2710 W. Alabama, Houston TX 77098-2106. (713)526-2721. Artistic Director: Jeannette Clift George. Estab. 1967. Produces 4-6 plays/year. Professional Christian theater company. "Productions include 4-6 Grace Theater Series shows and 4 Nancy Calhoun Paulson Children's Theatre Series shows, 2-3 staged readings and 10-12 Repertory Series shows on tour. The mainstage performance area is a proscenium stage with minimal wing space and no fly space; the children's theater space is in the round. Tour performance arenas vary from auditoriums and theaters to gymnasiums/cafetoriums and churches. Audiences for each series include adults and children, some with church affiliation." Query with synopsis only. Send materials to Martha Doolittle, Dramaturg/literary manager. Reports in 2-12 months. Payment terms negotiable.

Needs: "One-act and full-length plays, any style, reflecting God's reality in everyday life. Seasonal plays, any length, and short pieces (up to one hour) especially needed." Write to the Literary Manager for specific script submittal guidelines. No unsolicited scripts.
• A.D. Players is interested in seeing more children's material.
Tips: "Because of our specific signature as a Christian repertory company we would not be interested in plays that have no reference to the reality of God or man's search for spiritual significance in his world."

ACTORS' STOCK COMPANY, 3884 Van Ness Lane, Dallas TX 75220. (214)353-9916. Artistic Director: Keith Oncale. Estab. 1988. Produces 3-4 plays/year. "We stage semi-professional productions to a young adult to middle-aged general audience." Query with synopsis. Reports in 3 months. Purchases reading privileges. Pays royalty.
Needs: Two-and three-act plays, covering a wide variety of styles, but with fewer than 12 cast members. Our average staging facilities are 100 seat houses or smaller.
Tips: "Trends today reflect a return to comic realism that comments on our society without commenting on the play itself."

ACTORS THEATRE OF LOUISVILLE, 316 W. Main St., Louisville KY 40202-4218. (502)584-1265. Producing Director: Jon Jory. Estab. 1964. Produces approximately 20 new plays of varying lengths/year. Professional productions are performed for subscription audience from diverse backgrounds. Agented submissions only for full-length plays; open submissions to National Ten-Minute Play Contest (plays 10 pages or less). Reports in 6-9 months on submissions, mostly in the fall. Buys variable rights. Offers variable royalty.
Needs: "We are interested in full-length, one-act and ten-minute plays and in plays of ideas, language, humor, experiment and passion."

‡ALABAMA SHAKESPEARE FESTIVAL, 1 Festival Dr., Montgomery AL 36117-4605. Artistic Director: Kent Thompson. Produces 14 plays/year. Inhouse productions, tours, general audience, children audience. Query with synopsis. Reports in 4-6 months. Pays royalty.
Needs: "ASF develops works by Southern writers, works that deal with the South and/or African-American themes, works that deal with Southern and/or African-American history, works that illuminate the classics."

AMELIA MAGAZINE, 329 "E" St., Bakersfield CA 93304. (805)323-4064. Editor: Frederick A. Raborg, Jr. Estab. 1983. Publishes 1 play/year. Submit complete ms. Reports in 2 months. Buys first North American serial rights only. Pays $150 plus publication as winner of annual Frank McClure One-Act Play Award.
Needs: "Plays with virtually any theme or concept. We look for excellence within the one-act, 45 minutes running time format. We welcome the avant-garde and experimental. We do not object to the erotic, though not pornographic. Fewer plays are being produced on Broadway, but the regionals seem to be picking up the slack. That means fewer equity stages and more equity waivers."

‡AMERICAN INSIDE THEATRE, P.O. Box 217, Genesee Depot WI 53127. (414)968-4770. Artistic Director: Morrigan Hurt. Produces 5 plays/year. Query with synopsis. Reports in 3 months. Pays 3-6% royalty.
Needs: "American Inside Theatre produces works by American playwrights, and is particularly interested in scripts by and about the experiences of women and minorities." Scripts with single unit sets preferred and smaller casts (minimum 6 actors).

AMERICAN STAGE FESTIVAL, P.O. Box 225, Milford NH 03055-0225. Fax: (603)673-4792. Producing Director: Matthew Parent. Estab. 1975. "The ASF is a central New England professional theater (professional equity company) with a 3-month summer season (June-August)" for audience of all ages, interests, education and sophistication levels. Query with synopsis. Produces 20% musicals, 80% nonmusicals. Five are mainstage and ten are children's productions; 40% are originals. Royalty option and subsequent amount of gross: optional. Reports in 6 months.
• This theater is looking for more comedies and musicals—works with broad appeal.
Needs: "The Festival can do comedies, musicals and dramas. However, the most frequent problems are bolder language and action than a general mixed audience will accept. Prefer not to produce plays with strictly urban themes. We have a 40-foot proscenium stage with 30-foot wings, but no fly system. Festival plays are chosen to present scale and opportunities for scenic and costume projects far beyond the 'summer theater' type of play." Length: mainstage: 2-3 acts; children's productions: 50 minutes.
Tips: "Our audiences prefer plays that deal with human problems presented in a conventional manner."

AN CLAIDHEAMH SOLUIS/CELTIC ARTS CENTER, P.O. Box 20630, Los Angeles CA 90006-0630. (213)462-6844. Fax: (213)383-0772. Artistic Director: Sean Walsh. Estab. 1985. Produces 6 plays/year. Equity 99-seat plan. Query with synopsis. Reports in 6 months. Rights acquired vary. Pays $25-50.

Needs: Scripts of Celtic interest (Scottish, Welsh, Irish, Cornish, Manx, Breton). "This can apply to writer's background or subject matter. We are particularly concerned with works that relate to the survival of ethnic cultures and traditions, especially those in danger of extinction."

ARAN PRESS, 1320 S. Third St., Louisville KY 40208-2306. (502)636-0115. Editor/Publisher: Tom Eagan. Estab. 1983. Audience is professional, community, college, university, summer stock and dinner theaters. Query. Reports in 1-2 weeks on submissions. Contracts for publication and play production. Pays 10% book royalty and 50% production royalty.

• Aran Press would like to see more comedies.

Tips: No children's plays. "Tip to writers of plays: don't. Write novels, nonfiction, whatever, but don't write plays. If you must write plays, and you can't get published by one of the other publishers, send us an inquiry. If you care for what we have to offer, welcome aboard."

‡ARDEN THEATRE COMPANY, P.O. Box 779, Philadelphia PA 19105. (215)829-8900. Artistic Directors: Terrence J. Arden, Aaron Pogner. Estab. 1988. Produces 5 plays/year. Query with synopsis. Reports in 6 months. Pays 5% royalty.

Needs: Full-length, adaptations and musicals. Flexible in terms of cast size.

ARKANSAS REPERTORY THEATRE, P.O. Box 110, Little Rock AR 72203-0110. (501)378-0445. Fax: (501)378-0012. Literary Manager: Brad Mooy. Estab. 1976. Produces 11 full productions each season (7 on the MainStage, 3 on the SecondStage and 1 Educational Tour). We also produce staged readings and Celebrity Playreadings plus workshop productions. One MainStage show tours the country and the Educational Tour is regional. Query with synopsis. Reports in up to 3 months. Rights purchased vary. Pays royalty or per performance; "this also varies per show."

Needs: "We produce an ecclectic season, with musicals, comedies, dramas and at least one original premiere per season."

ART CRAFT PUBLISHING CO., 233 Dows Bldg., Box 1058, Cedar Rapids IA 52406-1058. (319)364-6311. Fax: (319)364-1771. Publisher: C. McMullen. Estab. 1928. Publishes plays and musicals for the junior and senior high school market. Query with synopsis or submit complete script. Reports in 2 months. Purchases amateur rights only. Makes outright purchase or pays royalty.

Needs: "Our current need is for full length productions, two and three act plays and musicals preferably comedy or mystery-comedy with a large number of characters. We sell almost exclusively to junior and smaller senior high school groups, thus we are unable to publish material that may contain controversial or offensive subject matter."

ASOLO THEATRE COMPANY, 5555 N. Tamiami Tr., Sarasota FL 34243-2141. (813)351-9010. Contact: Literary Manager. Estab. 1960. Produces 8 plays/year. 20% freelance written. A LORT theater with an intimate performing space. Works with 2-4 unpublished/unproduced writers annually. "We do not accept unsolicited scripts. Writers must send us a letter with 1 page synopsis and 1 page of dialogue with SAE." Reports in 8 months. Negotiates rights and payment.

Needs: Play must be full length. "We do not restrict ourselves to any particular genre or style—generally we do a good mix of classical and modern works."

BAKER'S PLAYS PUBLISHING CO., Dept. WM, 100 Chauncy St., Boston MA 02111-1783. (617)482-1280. Fax: (617)482-7613. Editor: John B. Welch. Estab. 1845. 80% freelance written. Plays performed by amateur groups, high schools, children's theater, churches and community theater groups. 75% of scripts unagented submissions. Works with 2-3 unpublished/unproduced writers annually. Submit complete script with news clippings, résumé. Submit complete cassette of music with musical submissions. Publishes 18-25 straight plays and musicals, all originals. Pay varies; makes outright purchase price to split in production fees; 10% book royalty. Reports in 2-6 months.

Needs: "We are finding strong support in our new division—plays from young authors featuring contemporary pieces for high school production."

• Send SASE for information on Baker's Plays High School Playwriting Contest.

BARTER THEATRE, P.O. Box 867, Abingdon VA 24210-0867. (703)628-2281. Fax: (703)628-4551. Artistic Director: Richard Rose. Estab. 1933. Produces 11 plays/year. Play performed in residency at 2 facilities, a 400-seat proscenium theater and a smaller 150-seat thrust theater. "Our plays are intended for diversified audiences of all ages." Submit synopsis and dialogue sample only to: Richard Rowe, Artistic Director. Reports in 3-6 months. Royalty negotiable.

Needs: "We are looking for good plays, comedies and dramas, that entertain and are relevant; plays that comment on the times and mankind; plays that are universal. We prefer casts of 4-12, single or unit set. Hard language can be a factor."

BILINGUAL FOUNDATION OF THE ARTS, #19, 421 North Ave., Los Angeles CA 90031. (213)225-4044. Fax: (213)225-1250. Artistic Director: Margarita Galban. Dramaturg/Literary Manager: Guillermo Reyes. Estab. 1973. Produces 3-5 plays plus 9-10 staged readings/year. "Productions are presented at home theater in Los Angeles, California. Our audiences are largely Hispanic and all productions are performed in English and Spanish. The Bilingual Foundation of the Arts produces plays in order to promote the rich heritage of Hispanic history and culture. Though our plays must be Hispanic in theme, we reach out to the entire community." Submit complete script. Reports in 3-6 months. Rights negotiable. Pays royalty.
Needs: "Plays must be Hispanic in theme. Comedy, drama, light musical, children's theater, etc. are accepted for consideration. Theater is 99-seater, no flies."
• More plays in Spanish are needed.

BOARSHEAD THEATER, 425 S. Grand Ave., Lansing MI 48933. (517)484-7800. Artistic Director: John Peakes. Estab. 1966. Produces 7-9 plays/year. Mainstage Actors' Equity Association company; also Youth Theater—touring to schools by our intern company. Query with synopsis, cast list (with descriptions), 5-10 pages of representative dialogue, SASE postcard. "Reports on query and synopsis in 1 week. Full scripts (when requested by us) in 4-8 months." Pays royalty.
Needs: Thrust stage. Cast usually 8 or less; ocassionally up to 12-14. Prefer staging which depends on theatricality rather than multiple sets.

‡BRISTOL RIVERSIDE THEATRE, P.O. Box 1250, Bristol PA 19007. (215)785-6664. Producing Artistic Director: Susan D. Atkinson. Estab. 1986. "Due to a backlog of submitted scripts, we will not be accepting any new scripts until June, 1995."

CALIFORNIA THEATER CENTER, P.O. Box 2007, Sunnyvale CA 94087. (408)245-2978. Literary Manager: Will Huddleston. Estab. 1976. Produces 15 plays/year. Plays are for young audiences in both our home theater and for tour. Query with synopsis. Reports in 6 months. "We negotiate a set fee."
Needs: All plays must be suitable for young audiences, must be under 1 hour in length. Cast sizes vary. Sets must be able to tour easily.

CENTER STAGE, 700 N. Calvert St., Baltimore MD 21202-3686. (410)685-3200. Resident Dramaturg: James Magruder. Estab. 1963. Produces 6-8 plays/year. "LORT 'B' and LORT 'C' theaters; audience is both subscription and single-ticket. Wide-ranging audience profile." Query with synopsis, 10 sample pages and résumé, or submit through agent. Reports in 3 months. Rights and payment negotiated.
Needs: Produces "dramas and comedies, musical theater works. No restrictions on topics or styles, though experimental work is encouraged. No one-act plays. Casts over 12 would give us pause. Be inventive, theatrical, not precious; we like plays with vigorous language and stage image. Domestic naturalism is discouraged; strong thematic, political, or social interests are encouraged."
Tips: "We are interested in reading adaptations and translations as well as original work."

CENTER THEATER, 1346 W. Devon Ave., Chicago IL 60660. (312)508-0200. Artistic Director: Daniel S. LaMorte. Estab. 1984. Produces approximately 13 plays/year. "We run professional productions in our Chicago 'off-Loop' theaters for a diverse audience. We also hold an international play contest annually. For more info send SASE to Dale Calandra, Literary Manager." Agented submissions only. Reports in 3 months.
• This theater has recently established a playwright-in-residence program and professional seminars in playwriting and screenwriting.

THE CHANGING SCENE THEATER, 1527½ Champa St., Denver CO 80202. Director: Alfred Brooks. Contact: Maxine Munt. Year-round productions in theater space. Cast may be made up of both professional and amateur actors. For public audience; age varies, but mostly youthful and interested in taking a chance on new and/or experimental works. No limit to subject matter or story themes. Emphasis is on the innovative. "Also, we require that the playwright be present for at least one performance of his work, if not for the entire rehearsal period. We have a small stage area, but are able to convert to round, semi-round or environmental. Prefer to do plays with limited sets and props." Two and three act.
Needs: Produces 8-10 nonmusicals a year; all are originals. 90% freelance written. 65% of scripts produced are unagented submissions. Works with 3-4 unpublished/unproduced writers annually. "We do not pay royalties or sign contracts with playwrights. We function on a performance-share basis of payment. Our theater seats 76; the first 50 seats go to the theater; the balance is divided among the participants in the production. The performance-share process is based on the entire production run and not determined by individual performances. We do not copyright our plays." Send complete script. Reporting time varies; usually several months.
Recent Production: Plague Song by David Nuss.
Tips: "We are experimental: open to young artists who want to test their talents and open to experienced artists who want to test new ideas/explore new techniques. Dare to write 'strange and wonderful' well-thought-out scripts. We want upbeat ones. Consider that we have a small performance area (24'×31') when submitting."

CHARLOTTE REPERTORY THEATRE, 2040 Charlotte Plaza, Charlotte NC 28244. (704)375-4796. Fax: (704)375-9462. Literary Manager: Claudia Carter Covington. Literary Associate: Carol Bellamy. Estab. 1976. Produces 13 plays/year. "We are a not-for-profit regional theater." Submit complete script. Reports in 2-3 months. Writers receive free plane fare and housing for festival. Send SASE.
Needs: "Need full-length, not previously produced professionally, non-musical scripts. No limitations in cast, props, staging, etc."

CHILDREN'S STORY SCRIPTS, Baymax Productions, Suite 130, 2219 W. Olive Ave., Burbank CA 91506-2648. (818)563-6105. Fax: (818)563-2968. Editor: Deedra Bebout. Estab. 1990. "Our audience consists of children, grades K-8 (5-13-year-olds)." Send complete script with SASE. Reports in 1 month. Licenses all rights to story; author retains copyright. Pays graduated royalty based on sales.
Needs: "We are not publishing new titles until we have a firm foothold in the market. However, I still read submissions. If I find something that would work for us, I contact author, tell him/her of our interest. If it's still available when we resume publishing new titles, great."
Tips: "The scripts are not like theatrical scripts. They read like prose. If a writer shows promise, we'll work with him. Our most important goal is to benefit children. Send #10 SASE for guidelines with samples."

CHILDSPLAY, INC., P.O. Box 517, Tempe AZ 85280. (602)350-8101. Fax: (602)350-8584. Artistic Director: David P. Saar. Estab. 1978. Produces 5-6 plays/year. "Professional: Touring and in-house productions for youth and family audiences." Submit complete script. Reports in 6 months. "On commissioned work we hold a small percentage of royalties for 3-5 years." Pays royalty of $20-35/performance (touring) or pays $3,000-8,000 commission.
Needs: Seeking "theatrical plays on a wide range of comtemporary topics. Touring shows: 5-6 actors; van-size. In-house: 6-10 actors; no technical limitations."
Tips: No traditionally handled fairy tales. "Theater for young people is growing up and is able to speak to youth and adults. The material must respect the artistry of the theater and the intelligence of our audience. Our most important goal is to benefit children. If you wish your manuscript returned send #10 SASE."

CIRCUIT PLAYHOUSE/PLAYHOUSE ON THE SQUARE, 51 S. Cooper, Memphis TN 38104. (901)725-0776. Artistic Director: Jackie Nichols. Produces 16 plays/year. 100% freelance written. Professional plays performed for the Memphis/Mid-South area. Member of the Theatre Communications Group. 100% of scripts unagented submissions. Works with 1 unpublished/unproduced writer annually. Play contest held each fall. Submit complete script. Reports in 6 months. Buys percentage of royalty rights for 2 years. Pays $500.
Needs: All types; limited to single or unit sets. Cast of 20 or fewer.
Tips: "Each play is read by three readers through the extended length of time a script is kept. Preference is given to scripts for the southeastern region of the US."

I.E. CLARK, PUBLISHER, Saint John's Rd., P.O. Box 246, Schulenburg TX 78956-0246. (409)743-3232. Contact: Carol Drabek. Estab. 1956. Publishes 15 plays/year for educational theater, children's theater, religious theater, regional professional theater and amateur community theater. 20% freelance written. 3-4 scripts/year unagented submissions. Works with 2-3 unpublished writers annually. Submit complete script, one at a time. Script will not be returned without SASE. Reports in 3-6 months. Buys all available rights; "we serve as an agency as well as a publisher." Pays standard book and performance royalty, "the amount and percentages dependent upon type and marketability of play." Catalog $2. Writer's guidelines for #10 SASE.
Needs: "We are interested in plays of all types—short or long. Audiotapes of music or videotapes of a performance are requested with submissions of musicals. We require that a play has been produced (directed by someone other than the author); photos, videos, and reviews of the production are helpful. No limitations in cast, props, staging, etc. Plays with only one or two characters are difficult to sell. We insist on literary quality. We like plays that give new interpretations and understanding of human nature. Correct spelling, punctuation and grammar (befitting the characters, of course) impress our editors."
Tips: "Entertainment value and a sense of moral responsibility seem to be returning as essential qualities of a good play script. The era of glorifying the negative elements of society seems to be fading rapidly. Literary quality, entertainment value and good craftsmanship rank in that order as the characteristics of a good script in our opinion. 'Literary quality' means that the play must—in beautiful, distinctive, and un-trite language—say something; preferably something new and important concerning man's relations with his fellow man or God; and these 'lessons in living' must be presented in an intelligent, believable and creative manner. Plays for children's theater are tending more toward realism and childhood problems rather than fantasy or dramatization of fairy tales."

‡COAST TO COAST THEATER COMPANY, P.O. Box 3855, Hollywood CA 90078. (818)782-1212. Artistic Director: Bryan W. Simon. Estab. 1989. Produces 2-3 plays/year. Equity and equity waiver theater. Query and synopsis. Reports in up to 1 year. Buys West Coast, Midwest or East Coast rights, depending on location of production. Pays 5% royalty or makes outright purchase $100-250 or pays per performance.
Needs: Full-length off-beat comedies or dramas with small cast, simple sets.

COLONY STUDIO THEATRE, 1944 Riverside Dr., Los Angeles CA 90039. New play selection committee: Judith Goldstein. Produces 4 mainstage productions and 4 workshop productions/year. Professional 99-seat theater with thrust stage. Casts from a resident company of professional actors. No unsolicited scripts. Submission guidelines for #10 SASE. Reports in up to 1 year. Negotiated rights. Pays royalties for each performance.
Needs: Full length (90-120 minutes) with a cast of 2-10. No musicals or experimental works.
Tips: "A polished script is the mark of a skilled writer. Submissions should be in professional (centered) format."

CONTEMPORARY DRAMA SERVICE, Meriwether Publishing Ltd., P.O. Box 7710, Colorado Springs CO 80933. (303)594-4422. Fax: (719)594-9916. Editor-in-Chief: Arthur Zapel. Associate Editors: Theodore Zapel and Rhonda Wray. Estab. 1969. Publishes 50-60 plays/year. "We publish for the secondary school market and colleges. We also publish for mainline liturgical churches—drama activities for church holidays, youth activities and fundraising entertainments. These may be plays or drama-related books." Query with synopsis or submit complete script. Reports in 6 weeks or less. Obtains either amateur or all rights. Pays 10% royalty or makes outright negotiated purchase.
Needs: "Most of the plays we publish are one-acts, 15-45 minutes in length. We occasionally publish full-length three-act plays. We prefer comedies in the longer plays. Musical plays must have name appeal either by prestige author, prestige title adaptation or performance on Broadway or TV. Comedy sketches, monologues and 2-character plays are welcomed. We prefer simple staging appropriate to high school, college or church performance. We like playwrights who see the world positively and with a sense of humor. Offbeat themes and treatments are accepted if the playwright can sustain a light touch and not take himself or herself too seriously. In documentary or religious plays we look for good research and authenticity. We are publishing many textbooks on the theatrical arts and scenebooks. We are especially interested in authority-books on costuming, acting, set design and lighting."

THE COTERIE, 2450 Grand Ave., Kansas City MO 64108-2520. (816)474-6785. Fax: (816)474-6785. Artistic Director: Jeff Church. Estab. 1979. Produces 7-8 plays/year. "Plays produced at Hallmark's Crown Center in downtown Kansas City in the Coterie's resident theater (capacity 240). A typical performance run is one month in length." Query with synopsis; submit complete script only if an established playwright in youth theater field. Reports in 2-4 months. "We retain some rights on commissioned plays." Pays royalty per performance and flat fee.
Needs: "We produce plays which are universal in appeal; they may be original or adaptations of classic or contemporary literature. Typically, not more than 12 in a cast—prefer 5-9 in size. No fly space or wing space."
Tips: "No couch plays. Prefer plays by seasoned writers who have established reputations. Groundbreaking and exciting scripts from the youth theater field welcome. It's prefectly fine if your play is a little off-center." Trends in the field that writers should be mindful of: "Make certain your submitted play to us is very theatrical and not cinematic. Writers need to see how far the field of youth and family theater has come—the interesting new areas we're going—before sending us your query or manuscript."

CREATIVE PRODUCTIONS, INC., 2 Beaver Place, Aberdeen NJ 07747. (908)566-6985. Artistic Director: Walter L. Born. Produces 2 musicals/year. Non-equity, year-round productions. "We use musicals with folks with disabilities and older performers in addition to 'normal' performers, for the broad spectrum of viewers." Query with synopsis. Reports in 2 weeks. Buys rights to perform play for specified number of performances. Pay negotiable.
Needs: Original musicals with upbeat themes adaptable to integrated company of traditional and non-traditional performers. Limitations: maximum cast of 12, sets can't "fly," facilities are schools, no mammoth sets and multiple scene changes, 90 minutes maximum run time.
Tips: No blue material, pornographic, obscene language. Submit info on any performances. Demo tape (musicals) plus vocal/piano score list of references on users of their material to confirm bio info.

CREEDE REPERTORY THEATRE, P.O. Box 269, Creede CO 81130-0269. (719)658-2541. Artistic Director: Richard Baxter. Estab. 1966. Produces 6 plays/year. Plays performed for a summer audience. Query with synopsis. Reports in 1 year. Royalties negotiated with each author—paid on a per performance basis.
Needs: One-act children's scripts. Special consideration given to plays focusing on the cultures and history of the American West and Southwest.
Tips: "No avant-garde or experimental work. We seek new adaptations of classical or older works as well as original scripts."

DELAWARE THEATRE COMPANY, 200 Water St., Wilmington DE 19801-5030. (302)594-1104. Artistic Director: Cleveland Morris. Estab. 1978. Produces 5 plays/year. 10% freelance written. "Plays are performed as part of a five-play subscription season in a 300-seat auditorium. Professional actors, directors and designers are engaged. The season is intended for a general audience." 10% of scripts are unagented submissions. Works with 1 unpublished/unproduced writer every 2 years. Query with synopsis and an excerpt of 5-10 pages. Reports in 6 months. Buys variable rights. Pays 5% (variable) royalty.

Needs: "We present comedies, dramas, tragedies and musicals. All works must be full length and fit in with a season composed of standards and classics. All works have a strong literary element. Plays showing a flair for language and a strong involvement with the interests of classical humanism are of greatest interest. Single-set, small-cast works are likeliest for consideration." Recent trend toward "more economical productions."

Needs: Comedies, dramas, musicals—original unproduced works. Full length, all styles/topics.

DISCOVERY '95, Paul Mellon Arts Center, P.O. Box 788, Wallingford CT 06492. (203)284-5398. Fax: (203)284-5396. Artistic Director: Terrence Ortwein. Estab. 1984. Produces 3 plays/year. "Choate Rosemary Hall in Wallingford, Connecticut, will host its 11th summer theater program committed to the discovery and development of new scripts written specifically for secondary school production. Students with an interest in theater from around the country will join directors and writers-in-residence in order to rehearse and perform new works in July. Playwrights will have the opportunity to hear, see and rewrite their scripts during three-week residencies. Public workshop performances will provide audience reactions to the works-in-progress and will enable the playwrights to further develop their scripts for future productions." Submit complete ms. Playwrights selected must agree to be in residence at Choate Rosemary Hall the last 3½ weeks in July. Room, board and a $700 stipend will be given each playwright selected. "The workshop productions, script-in-hand so that the playwright will have every opportunity to rewrite during every step of his or her discovery, will be the responsibility of Choate Rosemary Hall."
Tips: "The content should appeal strongly and directly to teenagers. Although all the characters don't have to be teenagers, the actors will be. In most high schools, more girls than boys participate in drama. Most high schools have limited technical resources and limited budgets. Although we will look at full-length scripts, the real need and interest is in the one-act and hour-length play. This program is established to help playwrights develop scripts, not to produce already finished scripts. Only unproduced and unpublished scripts may be submitted." Submission date: March 1, 1995. Notification: May 1, 1995. Include SASE for returns.

DORSET THEATRE FESTIVAL, Box 519, Dorset VT 05251-0519. (802)867-2223. Fax: (802)867-0144. Artistic Director: Jill Charles. Estab. 1976. Produces 5 plays/year, 1 a new work. "Our plays will be performed in our Equity summer stock theatre and are intended for a sophisticated community." Agented submissions only. Reports in 3-6 months. Rights and compensation arranged on an individual basis.
Needs: "We are looking for full-length contemporary American comedy or drama. We are limited to a cast of six."
Tips: "Language and subject matter appropriate to general audience."

DRAMATICS MAGAZINE, Dept. WM, 3368 Central Pkwy., Cincinnati OH 45225. (513)559-1996. Editor: Don Corathers. Estab. 1929. Publishes 5 plays/year. For high school theater students and teachers. Submit complete ms. Reports in 3 months. Buys first North American serial rights only. Purchases one-time publication rights only for $100-400.
Needs: "We are seeking one-acts to full-lengths that can be produced in an educational theater setting. We don't publish musicals."
Tips: "No melodrama, farce, children's theater, or cheap knock-offs of TV sitcoms or movies. Fewer writers are taking the time to learn the conventions of theater—what makes a piece work on stage, as opposed to film and television—and their scripts show it."

‡EAST WEST PLAYERS, 4424 Santa Monica Blvd., Los Angeles CA 90029. (213)666-1929. Artistic Director: Tim Dang. Estab. 1965. Produces 5 plays/year. Professional theater performing under Equity 99-seat contract, presenting plays which explore the Asian or Asian-American experience. Query with synopsis. Reports in 3 months on submissions. Pays royalty against percentage of box office.
Needs: "Whether dramas, comedies or performance art or musicals, all plays must either address the Asian-American experience or have a special resonance when cast with Asian-American actors."

ELDRIDGE PUBLISHING CO., P.O. Box 1595, Venice FL 34284. (813)496-4679. Editor: Nancy Vorhis. Estab. 1906. Publishes 35-40 new plays/year for middle school, junior high, senior high, church and community audience. Query with synopsis (acceptable) or submit complete ms (preferred). Please send cassette tapes with any operettas. Reports in 2 months. Buys all rights. Pays 50% royalties and 10% copy sales. Makes outright purchase from $200-500. Writer's guidelines for #10 SASE.

The double dagger before a listing indicates that the listing is new in this edition. New markets are often more receptive to freelance submissions.

Needs: "We are most interested in full-length plays and musicals for our school and community theater market. Prefer large, flexible casts, if possible. Nothing lower than junior high level, please. We always love comedies but also look for serious, high caliber plays reflective of today's sophisticated students. We also need one-acts and plays for children's theater. In addition, in our religious market we're always searching for Christmas and Easter plays."

Tips: "Submissions are welcomed at any time but during our fall season; response will definitely take 2 months. Authors are paid royalties twice a year. They receive complimentary copies of their published plays, the annual catalog and 50% discount if buying additional copies."

ENCORE PERFORMANCE PUBLISHING, P.O. Box 692, Orem UT 84059-4554. (801)225-0605. Editor: Michael C. Perry. Estab. 1979. Publishes 20-50 plays/year. "Our audience consists of all ages with emphasis on the family; educational institutions from elementary through college/university, community theaters and professional theaters." Query with synopsis. Reports in 1 month on queries; 3 months on scripts. Pays 50% performance royalty; 10% book royalty.

Needs: "We are looking for plays with strong message about or for families, plays with young actors among cast, any length, all genres. We prefer scripts with at least close or equal male/female roles, could lean to more female roles." Plays must have had at least 2 fully staged productions. Unproduced plays can be read with letter of recomendation accompanying the query.

Tips: "No performance art pieces or plays with overtly sexual themes or language. Looking for adaptations of Twain and other American authors."

‡ENCORE THEATRE CO., 6th Floor, 30 Grant, San Francisco CA 94108. (415)346-7671. Artistic Director: Andrew Dolan. Estab. 1986. Professional productions in 70-seat black box theater for San Francisco and Bay Area audience, some tourists. Query with synopsis. Reports in 3 months. Buys variable rights. Pays variable royalty.

Needs: Full-length, contemporary, strong actor roles. Limitations in cost.

Tips: Wants to see contemporary issues but not polemic; strong acting ensemble required. No light material, musicals, "fluff."

‡THE FOOTHILL THEATRE COMPANY, P.O. Box 1812, Nevada City CA 95959. (916)265-9320. Artistic Director: Philip Charles Sneed. Estab. 1977. Produces 10 plays/year. "We are a professional theater company operating under an Actor's Equity Association contract, and performing in the historic 247-seat Nevada Theatre (built in 1865) and in a converted space in a nearby cultural center (70-seat black box). The audience is a mix of locals and tourists." Query with synopsis or submit complete script. Reports in 6 months. Buys negotiable rights. Pay varies.

Needs: "We are most interested in plays which speak to the region and its history, as well as to its current concerns. No melodramas. Theatrical, above all." No limitations.

Tips: "Avoid the cliché at all costs, and don't be derivative; we're interested in a unique and unassailable vision."

‡FOUNTAIN THEATRE, 5060 Fountain Ave., Los Angeles CA 90029. (213)663-2235. Artistic Directors: Deborah Lawlor, Stephen Sachs. Estab. 1990. Produces 6 plays/year. Produced at Fountain Theatre (99-seat equity plan). Query and synopsis to: Jay Alan Quantrill, Dramaturg. Reports in 3 months. Rights acquired vary. Pays 6% royalty.

Needs: Original plays, adaptations of American literature, "material that incorporates dance of language into text with unique use and vision."

SAMUEL FRENCH, INC., 45 W. 25th St., New York NY 10010-2751. Fax: (212)206-1429. Editor: Lawrence Harbison. "We publish about 50-60 new titles/year. We are the world's largest publisher of plays. 10-20% unagented submissions. Pays on royalty basis. Submit complete script (bound). Always type your play in the standard, accepted stageplay format used by all professional playwrights in the US. If in doubt, send $4 to the attention of Lawrence Harbison for a copy of 'Guidelines.' We require a minimum of 2 months to report."

Needs: "We are willing at all times to read the work of freelancers. Our markets prefer simple-to-stage, light, happy romantic comedies or mysteries with a good complement of female roles. No puppet plays; no adaptations of public domain children's stories; no verse plays; no large-cast historical (costume) plays; no seasonal plays; no television, film or radio scripts."

GEORGE STREET PLAYHOUSE, 9 Livingston Ave., New Brunswick NJ 08901. (908)846-2895. Producing Director: Gregory Hurst. Literary Manager: Wendy Liscow. Produces 7 plays/year. Professional regional theater (LORT C). No unsolicited scripts. Professional recommendation only. Reports on scripts in 4-8 months.

Needs: Full-length dramas, comedies and musicals that present a fresh perspective on society and challenge expectations of theatricality. Prefers cast size under 9. Also presents 40-minute social issue-plays appropriate for touring to school-age children; cast size limited to 4 actors.
Tips: "We present a series of six staged readings each year. We produce up to four new plays and one new musical each season. We have a strong interest in receiving work from minority writers whose voices are not traditionally heard on America's main stages."

THE GOODMAN THEATRE, 200 S. Columbus Ave., Chicago IL 60603. (312)443-3811. Artistic Director: Robert Falls. Literary Manager: Susan V. Booth. Estab. 1925. Produces 9 plays/year. "The Goodman is a professional, not-for-profit theater producing both a mainstage and studio series for its subscription-based audience. The Goodman does not accept unsolicited scripts from playwrights or agents, nor will it respond to synopses of plays submitted by playwrights, unless accompanied by a stamped, self-addressed postcard. The Goodman may request plays to be submitted for production consideration after receiving a letter of inquiry or telephone call from recognized literary agents or producing organizations." Reports in 6 months. Buys variable rights. Pay is variable.
Needs: Full-length plays, translations, musicals; special interest in social or political themes.

‡GREAT AMERICAN HISTORY THEATRE, 30 E. Tenth St., St. Paul MN 55101. (612)292-4323. Artistic Director: Lance Belville. Estab. 1978. Produces 6-7 plays/year. "We have two spaces in which to do professional productions. Our main house theater seats 600 while our cabaret has 200 seats. Our performances are intended for mainstream audiences." Query with synopsis. Reports in 2 weeks on synopsis; 2 months on scripts. Buys production rights. Pays variable royalty. "We commission new works, amount to be negotiated."
Needs: "We try to provide audiences with a mirror to the lives of the people of Minnesota and the Midwest, and a window to other people and times. We do this by commissioning, producing and touring plays that dramatize the history, folklore and social issues of its own region and other locales. We limit our cast sizes to no larger than ten and we prefer pieces that can be staged simply."

GRETNA THEATRE, P.O. Box 578, Mt. Gretna PA 17064. (717)964-3322. Producing Director: Al Franklin. Estab. 1977. Produces 1 new play/year. "Plays are performed at a professional equity theater during summer for a conservative audience." Query with synopsis. "Include character breakdown with script's production history, plus five pages." Reports in 4-6 weeks. Rights negotiated. Royalty negotiated (6-12%).
Needs: "We produce full-length plays for a conservative, summer audience—subject, language, content important; comedy is popular." Cast of 10 limit—simple settings best.
Tips: "No one-acts, musicals, heavy drama or poorly written work."

THE GROUP (Seattle Group Theatre), 305 Harrison St., Seattle WA 98109. (206)441-9480. Artistic Director: Tim Bond. (Submit to Nancy Griffiths, Dramaturg/Literary Manager). Estab. 1978. Produces 6 plays and 1-3 workshop productions/year. "Plays are performed in our 197-seat theater—The Carlton Playhouse. Intended for a multiethnic audience. Professional, year-round theater." Query with synopsis, sample pages of dialogue and SASE for reply. Reports in 6-8 weeks. Rights obtained varies per production. Royalty varies.
Needs: "We look for scripts suitable for multiethnic casting that deal with social, cultural and political issues relevant to the world today."
Tips: No phone calls.

HEUER PUBLISHING CO., 233 Dows Bldg., Box 248, Cedar Rapids IA 52406-0248. (319)364-6311. Fax: (319)364-1771. Owner/Editor: C. Emmett McMullen. Estab. 1928. Publishes plays and musicals for junior and senior high school and church groups. Query with synopsis or submit complete script. Reports in 2 months. Purchases amateur rights only. Pays royalty or makes outright purchase.
Needs: "One- and three-act plays suitable for school production. Preferably comedy or mystery/comedy. All material should be of the capabilities of high school actors. We prefer material with one set. No special day material or material with controversial subject matter."

HONOLULU THEATRE FOR YOUTH, 2846 Ualena St., Honolulu HI 96819-1910. (808)839-9885. Fax: (808)839-7018. Artistic Director: Pam Sterling. Produces 6 plays/year. 50% freelance written. Plays are professional productions in Hawaii, primarily for young audiences (ages 2-20). 80% of scripts unagented submissions. Works with 2 unpublished/unproduced writers annually. Reports in 4 months. Buys negotiable rights.
Needs: Contemporary subjects of concern/interest to young people; adaptations of literary classics; fantasy including space, fairy tales, myth and legend. "HTY wants well-written plays, 60-90 minutes in length, that have something worthwhile to say and that will stretch the talents of professional adult actors." Cast not exceeding 8; no technical extravaganzas; no full-orchestra musicals; simple sets and props, costumes can be elaborate. No plays to be enacted by children or camp versions of popular fairytales. Query with synopsis. Pays $1,000-2,500.
Tips: "Young people are intelligent and perceptive; if anything, more so than lots of adults, and if they are to become fans and eventual supporters of good theater, they must see good theater while they are young. Trends on the American stage that freelance writers should be aware of include a growing awareness that we are living in a world community. We must learn to share and understand other people and other cultures."

HORIZON THEATRE COMPANY, P.O. Box 5376, Station E, Atlanta GA 31107. (404)584-7450. Artistic Director: Lisa Adler. Estab. 1983. Produces 4 plays/year. Professional productions. Query with synopsis and résumé. Reports in 1-2 years. Buys rights to produce in Atlanta area. Pays 6-8% royalty or $50-75/performance.
Needs: "We produce contemporary plays with realistic base, but which utilize heightened visual or language elements. Interested in comedy, satire, plays that are entertaining and topical, but also thought provoking. Also particular interest in plays by women or with Southern themes." No more than 10 in cast.
Tips: "No plays about being in theater or film; no plays without hope; no plays that include playwrights as leading characters; no all-male casts; no plays with all older (50 plus) characters."

WILLIAM E. HUNT, 801 West End Ave., New York NY 10025. Estab. 1947. Producer/Director: William E. Hunt. Interested in reading scripts for stock production, off-Broadway and even Broadway production. "Small cast, youth-oriented, meaningful, technically adventuresome; serious, funny, far-out. Must be about people first, ideas second. No political or social tracts." No one-act, anti-Black, anti-Semitic or anti-gay plays. "I do not want 1920, 1930 or 1940s plays disguised as modern by 'modern' language. I do not want plays with 24 characters or 150 costumes, plays about symbols instead of people. I do not want plays that are really movie or TV scripts." Works with 2-3 unpublished/unproduced writers annually. Pays royalties on production. Off-Broadway, 5%; on Broadway, 5%, 7½% and 10%, based on gross. No royalty paid if play is selected for a showcase production. Reports in "a few weeks." Must have SASE or script will not be returned.
Tips: "Production costs and weekly running costs in the legitimate theater are so high today that no play (or it is the very rare play) with more than six characters and more than one set, by a novice playwright, is likely to be produced unless that playwright will either put up or raise the money him or herself for the production."

JEWEL BOX THEATRE, 3700 N. Walker, Oklahoma City OK 73118-7099. (405)521-1786. Artistic Director: Charles Tweed. Estab. 1986. Produces 6 plays/year. Amateur productions. For 3,000 season subscribers and general public. Submit complete script. Reports in 4 months. Pays $500 contest prize.
Needs: "Write theater for entry form during September-October. We produce dramas, comedies and musicals. Only two- or three-act plays can be accepted. Our theater is in-the-round, so we adapt plays accordingly." Deadline: middle of January.

JEWISH REPERTORY THEATRE, 1395 Lexington Ave., New York NY 10128. (212)415-5550. Artistic Director: Ran Avni. Associate Director: Edward M. Cohen. Estab. 1974. Produces 4 plays, 15 readings/year. New York City professional off-Broadway production. Submit complete script and SASE. Reports in 1 month. First production/option to move to Broadway or off-Broadway. Pays royalty.
Needs: Full-length only. Straight plays and musicals. Must have some connection to Jewish life, characters, history. Maximum 7 characters. Limited technical facilities.
Tips: No biblical plays.

KUMU KAHUA, 46 Merchant St., Honolulu HI 96813. (808)737-4161. Managing Director: Dennis Carroll. Estab. 1971. Produces 5 productions, 3-4 public readings/year. "Plays performed at new Kumu Kahua Theatre, flexible 120 seat theater, for community audiences." Submit complete script. Reports in 4 months. Royalty $35/performance; usually 10 performances of each production.
Needs: "Plays must have some interest for local audiences, preferably by being set in Hawaii or dealing with some aspect of the Hawaiian experience. Prefer small cast, with simple staging demands."
Tips: "We need time to evaluate scripts (our response time is four months)."

LAGUNA PLAYHOUSE, P.O. Box 1747, Laguna Beach CA 92652-1747. (714)497-5900, ext. 206. Fax: (714)497-6948. Artistic Director: Andrew Barnicle. Estab. 1920. Produces 10 plays/year. Amateur with Equity Guest Artists: 5 mainstage (9,000 subscribers); Amateur: 5 youth theater (1,500 subscribers). Submit complete script. Reports in 2-12 months. Royalty negotiable.
Needs: Seeking full-length plays: comedy, drama, classical, musical, youth theater.
Recent Production: Teachers' Lounge, by John Twomey.
Tips: "We are committed to one full production of an original play every other season."
- Laguna Playhouse has opened a second theater venue and expects to mount full productions of original works more regularly than in the past. However, limited staff to read and process original works can mean a long response time.

LILLENAS PUBLISHING CO., P.O. Box 419527, Kansas City MO 64141-6527. (816)931-1900. Fax: (816)753-4071. Editor: Paul M. Miller. Estab. 1926. "We publish on two levels: (1) Program Builders—seasonal and topical collections of recitations, sketches, dialogues and short plays; (2) Drama Resources. These assume more than one format: (a) full-length scripts, (b) one-acts, shorter plays and sketches all by one author, (c) collection of short plays and sketches by various authors. All program and play resources are produced with local church and Christian school in mind. Therefore there are taboos." Queries are encouraged, but synopses and complete scripts are read. "First rights are purchased for Program Builder scripts. For our line of Drama Resources, we purchase all print rights, but this is negotiable." Writer's guidelines for #10 SASE. Reports in 3 months

- This publisher has added a line of full-length plays for school and dinner theater use; wholesome entertainment—not religious.

Needs: 98% of Program Builder materials are freelance written. Scripts selected for these publications are outright purchases; verse is 25 cents/line, prose (play scripts) are $5/double-spaced page. "Lillenas Drama Resources is a line of play scripts that are, for the most part, written by professionals with experience in production as well as writing. However, while we do read unsolicited scripts, more than half of what we publish is written by experienced authors whom we have already published." Drama Resources (whether full-length scripts, one-acts, or sketches) are paid on a 10% royalty. There are no advances.

Tips: "All plays need to be presented in standard play script format. We welcome a summary statement of each play. Purpose statements are always desirable. Approximate playing time, cast and prop lists, etc. are important to include. We are interested in fully scripted traditional plays, reader's theater scripts, choral speaking pieces. Contemporary settings generally have it over Biblical settings. Christmas and Easter scripts must have a bit of a twist. Secular approaches to these seasons (Santas, Easter bunnies, and so on), are not considered. We sell our product in 10,000 Christian bookstores and by catalog. We are probably in the forefront as a publisher of religious drama resources."

LIVE OAK THEATRE, 311 Nueces St., Austin TX 78701. (512)472-5143. Artistic Director: Don Toner. Literary Manager: Amparo Garcia. Estab. 1982. Professional theater produces 6 plays/season. "Live Oak has a history of producing works of Texan and Southern topics. Well-crafted, new American plays that are strongly theatrical." Reports in 1 month on queries; 6 months on scripts. Pays royalty.

Needs: Full-length, translations, adaptations, musicals. Guidelines for #10 SASE.

Tips: Also sponsors annual new play awards. Guidelines for #10 SASE after July 1.

- Playwrights are provided airfare and stipend during reading of new plays at the Harvest Festival of new plays in October.

MAD RIVER THEATER WORKS, P.O. Box 248, West Liberty OH 43357-0248. (513)465-6751. Fax: (513)465-3914. Artistic Director: Jeff Hooper. Estab. 1978. Produces 3 plays/year. "Mad River is a professional company. We present over 150 performances each year at colleges, universities and in small towns, for a broad, multigenerational audience. Our intended audience is primarily rural." Query with synopsis. Reports in 2 months. Buys exclusive production rights for a limited time. Pays negotiable royalty.

Needs: "We primarily produce works that deal with rural themes and/or issues. A small cast is most likely to be accepted. As a touring company, simple technical requirements are also a factor."

Tips: "We reach out to many different kinds of people, particularly audiences in rural areas without other access to professional theater. We seek to challenge, as well as entertain, and present works which can speak to conservative individuals as well as seasoned theatergoers."

MODERN INTERNATIONAL DRAMA, Theater Dept., SUNY, P.O. Box 6000, Binghamton NY 13902-6000. (607)777-2704. Managing Editor: George E. Wellwarth. Estab. 1967. Publishes 5-6 plays/year. "Audience is academic and professional." Query with synopsis or submit complete script. Reports in 3 months. "Rights remain with author and translator." Pays 3 complimentary copies.

Needs: Publishes plays of ideas; 20th century; any style and any length; translations from any language of previously untranslated plays only.

Tips: "No popular theater."

MUSICAL THEATRE WORKS, INC., Dept. WM, 4th Floor, 440 Lafayette St., New York NY 10003-6919. (212)677-0040. Artistic Director: Anthony Stimac. Estab. 1983. "MTW develops scripts from informal to staged readings. When the project is deemed ready for the public, a showcase is set up for commercial interest. MTW musicals are professionally produced and presented in an off-Broadway New York City theater and intended for a well-rounded, sophisticated, theater-going audience. Additionally, 50% of all MTW MainStage productions have gone on to engagements on Broadway and in 12 states across the country." Submit complete script with audiotape. Reports in 2-4 months. Buys 1% future gross; on fully-produced works. Pays negotiable royalty. SASE required to return script and tape.

Needs: "MTW only produces full-length works of musical theater and is interested not only in those classically written, but has a keen interest in works which expand the boundaries and subject matter of the artform. MTW is a small, but prolific, organization with a limited budget. It is, therefore, necessary to limit production costs."

Tips: "The dramatic stage of recent years has successfully interpreted societal problems of the day, while the musical theater has grown in spectacle and foregone substance. Since the musical theater traditionally incorporated large themes and issues it is imperative that we now marry these two ideas—large themes and current issues—to the form. Send a neat, clean, typewritten script with a well marked, clear audiotape, produced as professionally as possible, to the attention of the Literary Manager."

NATIONAL MUSIC THEATER CONFERENCE, EUGENE O'NEILL THEATER CENTER, Suite 901, 234 W. 44th St., New York NY 10036. (212)382-2790. Fax: (212)921-5538. Artistic Director: Paulette Haupt. Estab. 1978. Paying audiences drawn from local residents, New York and regional theater professionals and others. Conference takes place each August at center in Waterford, Connecticut. Application guidelines for #10 SASE after September 15. Application deadline: February 1 (subject to change). Pays stipend plus room and board during conference.
Needs: "We develop new music theater works of all forms, traditional and non-traditional. Singing must play a dominant role. Works are given minimally staged readings, script in hand, no props or lighting, piano only."
Tips: Works not considered eligible are those that have been fully produced by a professional company and adapted works for which rights have not been obtained. Writers and composers must be US citizens or permanent residents.

NECESSARY ANGEL THEATRE, Suite #201, 490 Adelaide St. W., Toronto, Ontario M5V 1T2 Canada. (416)365-0406. Fax: (416)363-8702. Artistic Director: Richard Rose. Estab. 1978. Produces 2 plays/year. Plays are Equity productions in various Toronto theaters and performance spaces for an urban audience between 20-55 years of age. Submit synopsis only. Does not return submissions. Reports in 6 months. Pays 10% royalty.
Needs: "We are open to new theatrical ideas, environmental pieces, unusual acting styles and large casts. The usual financial constraints exist, but they have never eliminated a work to which we felt a strong commitment." No "TV-influenced sitcoms or melodramas."

THE NEW CONSERVATORY CHILDREN'S THEATRE COMPANY AND SCHOOL, New Conservatory Theatre Center, 25 Van Ness, Lower Level, San Francisco CA 94102. (415)861-4814. Fax: (415)861-6988. Artistic Director: Ed Decker. Produces 4-5 plays/year. "The New Conservatory is a children's theater school (ages 4-19) and operates year-round. Each year we produce several plays, for which the older students (usually 10 and up) audition. These are presented to the general public at the New Conservatory Theatre Center in San Francisco (50-150 seats). Our audience is approximately age 5-adult." Query with synopsis. Reports in 3 months. Royalty negotiable.
Needs: "We emphasize works in which children play children, and prefer relevant and controversial subjects, although we also do musicals. We have a commitment to new plays. Examples of our shows are: Mary Gail's Nobody Home (world premiere; about latchkey kids); Brian Kral's Special Class (about disabled kids); and The Inner Circle, by Patricia Loughrey (commissioned scripts about AIDS prevention for kids). As we are a nonprofit group on limited budget, we tend not to have elaborate staging; however, our staff is inventive—includes choreographer and composer. Write innovative theater that explores topics of concern/interest to young people, that takes risks. We concentrate more on ensemble than individual roles, too. We do not want to see fairy tales or trite rehashings of things children have seen/heard since the age of two. See theater as education, rather than 'children being cute'."
Tips: "It is important for young people and their families to explore and confront issues relevant to growing up in the 90s. Theater is a marvelous teaching tool that can educate while it entertains."

NEW PLAYS INCORPORATED, Dept. WM, P.O. Box 5074, Charlottesville VA 22905-5074. (804)979-2777. Publisher: Patricia Whitton. Estab. 1964. Publishes an average of 4 plays/year. Publishes for producers of plays for young audiences and teachers in college courses on child drama. Query with synopsis. Reports in 2 months. Agent for amateur and semi-professional productions, exclusive agency for script sales. Pays 50% royalty on productions; 10% on script sales. Free catalog.
Needs: Plays for young audiences with something innovative in form and content. Length: usually 45-90 minutes. "Should be suitable for performance by adults for young audiences." No skits, assembly programs, improvisations or unproduced scripts.

NEW PLAYWRIGHTS' PROGRAM, The University of Alabama, P.O. Box 870239, Tuscaloosa AL 35487-0239. (205)348-9032. Fax: (205)348-9098. Director/Dramaturg: Dr. Paul C. Castagno. Endowed by Gallaway Fund, estab. 1982. Produces at least 1 new play/year. Mainstage and second stage. Collaborations with Stillman College and Theatre Tuscaloosa, University Theatre, The University of Alabama. Submit complete ms. Playwrights may submit potential workshop ideas for consideration. Reports in 3-6 months. Accepts scripts in various forms: new dramaturgy to traditional. If you are a recent MFA playwriting graduate (within 1 year) you may be given consideration for ACTF productions. Send SASE. Stipends competitive with or exceed most contests.

‡THE NEW THEATRE GUILD, #303, 570 N. Rossmore Ave., Los Angeles CA 90004. Artistic Director: George Hale. Estab. 1987. Produces 2-3 plays/year. USA (Los Angeles/New York) and Western Europe. Query with synopsis; submit complete script or agented submissions. Reports in 2 months. Negotiable.
Needs: Full length plays—comedies and dramas. Lead characters mid-thirties and political/social issues. Especially interested in female lead, mid-thirties or aging (20-45) at this time.

NEW TUNERS THEATRE, 1225 W. Belmont Ave., Chicago IL 60657. (312)929-7287. Literary Manager: Allan Chambers. Produces 1-3 new musicals/year. 66% developed in our New Tuners workshop. "Some scripts produced are unagented submissions. Plays performed in a small off-Loop theater seating 148 for a general theater audience, urban/suburban mix. Submit synopsis, cover letter and cassette selections of the score, if available. Reports in 3 months. Next step is script and score (reports in 6 months). "Submit first, we'll negotiate later." Pays 5-10% of gross. "Authors are given a stipend to cover a residency of at least two weeks."
Needs: "We're interested in all forms of musical theater including more innovative styles. Our production capabilities are limited by the lack of space, but we're very creative and authors should submit anyway. The smaller the cast, the better. We are especially interested in scripts using a younger (35 and under) ensemble of actors. We mostly look for authors who are interested in developing their script through workshops, rehearsals and production. No casts over 12. No one-man shows."
Tips: "We would like to see the musical theater articulating something about the world around us, rather than merely diverting an audience's attention from that world."

‡NINE O'CLOCK PLAYERS, 1367 N. St. Andrews Place, Los Angeles CA 90028. (213)469-1973. Artistic Director: Arien O'Hara. Estab. 1928. Produces 2 plays/year. "Plays produced at Assistance League Playhouse by resident amateur and semi-professional company. All plays are musical adaptations of classical children's literature. Plays must be appropriate for children ages 4-12." Query and synopsis. Reports in 1 month. Pays negotiable royalty or per performance.
Needs: "Plays must have at least 15 characters and be 1 hour 15 minutes long. Productions are done on a proscenium stage in classical theater style. All plays must have humor, music and good moral values. No audience participation improvisational plays."

NORTHLIGHT THEATRE, 2840 Sheridan Rd.., Evanston IL 60201. (708)869-7732. Artistic Director: Russell Vandenbroucke. Estab. 1975. Produces 5 plays/year. "We are a professional, Equity theater, LORT D. We perform in a 630-seat house. We have a subscription base of 5,800, and have a significant number of single ticket buyers." Query with synopsis. Reports in 3 months. Buys production rights plus royalty on future mountings. Pays royalty and fee to playwright that is a guarantee against royalties.
Needs: "Full-length plays, translations, adaptations, musicals. Interested in plays of 'ideas,' plays that are passionate and/or hilarious, stylistic exploration and complexity. Generally looking for cast size of eight or less, but there are always exceptions made for the right play."
Tips: "Please, do not try to do what television and film do better! Also, no domestic realism."

ODYSSEY THEATRE ENSEMBLE, 2055 S. Sepulveda Blvd., Los Angeles CA 90025. (310)477-2055. Literary Manager: Jan Lewis. Estab. 1965. Produces 9 plays/year. Plays performed in a 3-theater facility. "All three theaters are Equity 99-seat theater plan. We have a subscription audience of 3,000 for a nine-play main season, and they are offered a discount on our rentals and co-productions. Remaining seats are sold to the general public." Query with résumé, synopsis, cast breakdown and 8-10 pages of sample dialogue. Scripts must be securely bound. Reports in 1 month on queries; 6 months on scripts. Buys negotiable rights. Pays 5-7% royalty. "We will not return scripts without SASE."
Needs: "Full-length plays only with either an innovative form and/or provocative subject matter. We desire highly theatrical pieces that explore possibilities of the live theater experience. We are seeking full-length musicals and some plays with smaller casts (2-4). We are not reading one-act plays or light situation comedies. We are seeking Hispanic material for our resident Hispanic unit as well as plays from all cultures and ethnicities."

OLD GLOBE THEATRE, P.O. Box 2171, San Diego CA 92112-2171. (619)231-1941. Literary Manager: Raúl Moncada. Produces 12 plays/year. "We are a LORT B+ institution with three theaters: 581-seat mainstage, 225-seat arena, 621-seat outdoor. Our plays are produced for a single-ticket and subscription audience of 250,000 patrons from a large cross-section of southern California, including visitors from throughout the US." Submit complete script through agent only. One-page query or synopsis if not represented. Reports in 3-10 months. Buys negotiable rights. Royalty varies.
Needs: "We are looking for plays of strong literary and theatrical merit, works that display an accomplished sense of craft, and pieces that present a detailed cultural vision. All submissions must be full-length plays or musicals."

EUGENE O'NEILL THEATER CENTER'S NATIONAL PLAYWRIGHTS CONFERENCE and NEW DRAMA FOR MEDIA PROJECT, Suite 901, 234 W. 44th St., New York NY 10036-3909. (212)382-2790. Fax: (212)921-5538. Artistic Director: Lloyd Richards. Administrator: Lori Robishaw. Estab. 1965. Develops staged readings of 9-12 stage plays, 2-3 screenplays or teleplays/year. "We accept unsolicited scripts with no prejudice toward either represented or unrepresented writers. Our theater is located in Waterford, Connecticut, and we operate under an Equity LORT contract. We have three theaters: Barn—250 seats, Amphitheater—300 seats, Instant Theater—150 seats. Submission guidelines for #10 SASE in the fall. Complete bound, unproduced, original plays are eligible (no adaptations). Decision by late April. Pays stipend plus room, board and transportation. We accept script submissions from September 15-December 1 of each year. Conference takes place during July each summer."

• Scripts are selected on the basis of talent, not commercial potential.

Needs: "We use modular sets for all plays, minimal lighting, minimal props and no costumes. We do script-in-hand readings with professional actors and directors. Our focus is on new play/playwright development."

THE OPEN EYE: NEW STAGINGS, 270 W. 89th St., New York NY 10024-1705. (212)769-4143. Fax: (212)595-0336. Artistic Director: Amie Brockway. Estab. 1972. Produces 3 full-length plays/year plus a Lab series. "The Open Eye is a professional, Equity LOA and TYA 115-seat, off-off Broadway theater. Our audience includes a broad spectrum of ages and backgrounds." Submit letter of inquiry only. Playwright fee for mainstage varies.

Needs: "New Stagings is particularly interested in one-act and full-length plays that take full advantage of the live performance situation. We especially like plays that appeal to young people and adults alike."

OREGON SHAKESPEARE FESTIVAL ASSOCIATION, P.O. Box 158, Ashland OR 97520. (503)482-2111. Fax: (503)482-0446. Associate Director/Play Development: Cynthia White. Estab. 1935. Produces 12 plays/year. The Angus Bowmer Theater has a thrust stage and seats 600. The Black Swan is an experimental space and seats 150. The Elizabethan Outdoor Theatre seats 1,200 (stages almost exclusively Shakespearean productions there, mid-June through September). Query with synopsis, résumé and 10 pages of dialogue from unsolicited sources. Complete scripts from agents only. Reports in 6-18 months. Negotiates individually for rights with the playwright's agent. "Most plays run within our ten-month season for 6-10 months, so royalties are paid accordingly."

Needs: "A broad range of classic and contemporary scripts. One or two fairly new scripts/season. Also a play readings series which focuses on new work. Plays must fit into our ten month rotating repertory season. Black Swan shows usually limited to ten actors." No one-acts or musicals. Submissions from women and minority writers are strongly encouraged.

Tips: "Send your work through an agent if possible. Send the best examples of your work rather than all of it. Don't become impatient or discouraged if it takes six months or more for a response. Don't expect detailed critiques with rejections. I want to see plays with heart and soul, intelligence, humor and wit. We're seeking plays with characters that live—that exist as living beings, not simply mouthpieces for particular positions. Try to avoid TV writing (i.e., cliché situations, dialogue, characters), unless it's specifically for broad comic purposes. I also think theater is a place for the word. So, the word first, then spectacle and high-tech effects."

ORGANIC THEATER COMPANY, 3319 N. Clark, Chicago IL 60657. (312)327-2427. Estab. 1969. AEA, CAT and non-equity productions and workshops. Query with synopsis and 10 page sample. Reports in 1-3 weeks on queries. Negotiable royalty. Send inquiries to Literary Manager.

Needs: "We are seeking full-length or long one-acts—challenging plays that fully explore the theatrical medium; strong visual and physical potential (unproduced works only)."

‡PEOPLE'S LIGHT & THEATRE COMPANY, 39 Conestoga Rd., Malvern PA 19355. (610)647-1900. Co-Artistic Directors: Abigail Adams, Stephen Novelli. Estab. 1974. Produces 5-6 plays/year. LORT theater, general audience. Query with synopsis with 10 page dialogue sample. Reports in 6 months. Pays negotiable royalty.

Needs: Full-length, sometime one-acts, no musicals. Cast of 8-10 maximum. Prefers single set.

PERSEVERANCE THEATRE, 914 Third St., Douglas AK 99801. (907)364-2421. Artistic Director: Molly Smith. Produces 5 mainstage, 2-3 second stage plays/year. Professional productions, Southeast Alaska. Primarily Juneau audiences; occasional tours to other places. Query with synopsis, no unsolicited scripts. Reports in 6-8 months. Pays $25-50/performance.

Tips: "We are producing very few original pieces from writers outside of Alaska. Because of that, we are reading few new plays."

PIER ONE THEATRE, P.O. Box 894, Homer AK 99603. (907)235-7333. Artistic Director: Lance Petersen. Estab. 1973. Produces 5-8 plays/year. "Plays to various audiences for various plays—e.g. children's, senior citizens, adult, family, etc. Plays are produced on Kemai Peninsula." Submit complete script. Reports in 3 months. Pays $25-125/performance.

Needs: "No restrictions—willing to read all genres." No stock reviews, hillbilly or sitcoms.

Tips: "There are slightly increased opportunities for new works. Don't start your play with a telephone conversation. New plays ought to be risky business; they ought to be something the playwright feels is terribly important."

PIONEER DRAMA SERVICE, INC., P.O. Box 4267, Englewood CO 80155-4267. (303)779-4035. Fax: (303)779-4315. Publisher: Steven Fendrich. Estab. 1963. 10% freelance written. Plays are performed by high school, junior high and adult groups, colleges, churches and recreation programs for audiences of all ages. "We are one of the largest full-service play publishers in the country in that we handle straight plays, musicals, children's theater and melodrama." Publishes 15 plays/year; 20% musicals and 80% straight plays. Query only; no unsolicited scripts. Buys all rights. Reports in 2 months. Pays on royalty basis with some outright purchase. All submissions automatically entered in Shubert Fendrich Memorial Playwriting Contest. Contest guidelines for SASE.

Needs: "We use the standard two-act format, two-act musicals, religious drama, comedies, mysteries, drama, melodrama and plays for children's theater (plays to be done by adult actors for children). We are looking for more plays dealing with the problems of teens." Length: two-act musicals and comedies, up to 90 minutes; children's theater, 1 hour. Prefer many female roles, 1 simple set. Currently overstocked on one-act plays.

‡PITTSBURGH PUBLIC THEATER, Allegheny Square, Pittsburgh PA 15212. (412)323-8200. Artistic Director: Edward Gilbert. Estab. 1974. Produces 6 plays/year. Theodore L. Hazelett Theatre, 457 seats, thrust or arena seating. Query with synopsis or agented submissions. Reports in 3 months.
Needs: Full-length plays, adaptations, musicals.

□PLAYERS PRESS, INC., P.O. Box 1132, Studio City CA 91614-0132. Senior Editor: Robert W. Gordon. "We deal in all entertainment areas and handle publishable works for film and television as well as theater. Performing arts books, plays and musicals. All plays must be in stage format for publication." Also produces scripts for video and material for cable television. 80% freelance written. 20-30 scripts/year unagented submissions; 5-15 books also unagented. Works with 1-10 unpublished/unproduced writers annually. Query. "Include #10 SASE, reviews and proof of production. All play submissions must have been produced and should include a flier and/or program with dates of performance." Reports in 1 month on queries; 1 year on mss. Buys negotiable rights. "We prefer all area rights." Pays variable royalty "according to area; approximately 10-75% of gross receipts." Also makes outright purchase of $100-25,000 or $5-5,000/performance.
Needs: "We prefer comedies, musicals and children's theater, but are open to all genres. We will rework the script after acceptance. We are interested in the quality, not the format. Performing Arts Books that deal with theater how-to are of strong interest."
Tips: "Send only material requested. Do not telephone."

PLAYS, The Drama Magazine for Young People, 120 Boylston St., Boston MA 02116-4615. Editor: Sylvia K. Burack. Estab. 1941. Publishes approximately 75 one-act plays and dramatic program material each school year to be performed by junior and senior high, middle grades, lower grades. "Scripts should follow the general style of Plays. Stage directions should not be typed in capital letters or underlined. No incorrect grammar or dialect." Desired lengths are: junior and senior high—15-20 double-spaced pages (20-30 minutes playing time); middle grades—10-15 pages (15-20 minutes playing time); lower grades—6-10 pages (8-15 minutes playing time). Pays "good rates on acceptance." Query first for adaptations. Reports in 2-3 weeks. Sample copy $3.50. Send SASE for specification sheet.
Needs: "Can use comedies, farces, melodramas, skits, mysteries and dramas, plays for holidays and other special occasions, such as Book Week; adaptations of classic stories and fables; historical plays; plays about black history and heroes; puppet plays; folk and fairy tales; creative dramatics; and plays for conservation, ecology or human rights programs."

PLAYWRIGHTS PREVIEW PRODUCTIONS, Lenox Hill Station, P.O. Box 1019, New York NY 10021-0036. Fax: (212)289-2168. Artistic Director: Frances Hill. Literary Manager: David Sheppard. Estab. 1983. Produces 2-3 plays/year. Professional productions off or off off-Broadway—throughout the year. General audience. Submit complete script. Reports in 4 months. If produced, option for 6 months. Pays royalty.
Needs: Both one-act and full-length; generally 1 set or styled playing dual. Good imaginative, creative writing. Cast limited to 3-7.
Tips: "We tend to reject 'living-room' plays. We look for imaginative settings. Be creative and interesting with intellectual content. All submissions should be bound. We are looking for plays with ethnic backgrounds."

‡POPE THEATRE COMPANY, 262 S. Ocean Blvd., Manalapan FL 33462. (407)585-3404. Producing Artistic Director: Louis Tyrrell. Estab. 1987. Produces 7 plays/year (5 during the regular season, 2 in the summer). "We are a fully professional (LOA) theater. We attract an audience comprised of both local residents and seasonal visitors. Many, but by no means all, of our subscribers are retirees." Agented submissions only. Reports in 6 months. Buys production rights only. Pays 6-10% royalty. "A reminder phone call is helpful if a playwright wants a script returned."
Needs: "We produce new American plays. We prefer to do Florida premieres of thought-provoking, socially-conscious, challenging plays. Our stage is relatively small, which prevents us from producing works with a large cast."

PORTLAND REPERTORY THEATER, 815 NW 12th, Portland OR 97209. (503)224-2403. Producing Artistic Director: Geoffrey Sherman. Literary Manager: Kit Koenig. Estab. 1980. Produces 9 plays/year. "Small, professional, not-for-profit, regional theater. Two stages: Mainstage—230 seat, proscenium with long-time subscriber base (age 30-70s); Stage II—160 seat thrust, new, for new plays/experimental works and a staged reading series." Query, synopsis, first 10-15 pages, character breakdown, set description and SASE. Agented submissions. Reports in 2-6 months. Pays percentage of gross.

Needs: Comedies, thriller, drama, small musicals; with smaller casts, no more than 2 sets to run approximately 2 hours. Cast not to exceed 8; no more than 2 sets.
Tips: "No puppet shows, mime, melodrama or children's shows."

PRIMARY STAGES COMPANY, INC., 584 Ninth Ave., New York NY 10036. (212)333-7471. Artistic Director: Casey Childs. Estab. 1983. Produces 4 plays, 3 workshops, over 100 readings/year. All plays are produced professionally off-Broadway at the 45th Street Theatre, 354 West 45th St. Query with synopsis. Reports in 3 months. "If Primary Stages produces the play, we ask for the right to move it for up to six months after the closing performance." Writers paid "same as the actors."
Needs: "We are looking for highly theatrical works that were written exclusively with the stage in mind. We do not want TV scripts or strictly realistic plays."
Tips: No "living room plays, disease-of-the-week plays, back-porch plays, father/son work-it-all-out-plays, etc."

QUAIGH THEATRE, 205 W. 89th St., New York NY 10024-1868. (212)787-0862. Artistic Director: Will Lieberson. Estab. 1973. Produces 4 major productions/year. Off off-Broadway. Query with synopsis. Reports in 1 month on queries; 6 months on scripts. Rights differ on each script. Pays variable royalty.
Tips: "No plays on familiar subjects done in a familiar way. Plays need action as well as words. Plays are not meant for public reading. If they work as readings they really are rotten plays."

THE QUARTZ THEATRE, 392 Taylor, Ashland OR 97520-3058. (503)482-8119. Artistic Director: Dr. Robert Spira. Estab. 1973. Produces several video films/year. Send 3 pages of dialogue and personal bio. Reports in 2 weeks. Pays 5% royalty after expenses.
Needs: "Any length, any subject, with or without music. We seek playwrights with a flair for language and theatrical imagination."
Tips: "We look at anything. We do not do second productions unless substantial rewriting is involved. Our theater is a stepping stone to further production. Our playwrights are usually well-read in comparative religion, philosophy, psychology, and have a comprehensive grasp of human problems. We seek the 'self-indulgent' playwright who pleases him/herself first of all."

‡RIVERSIDE THEATRE, INC., P.O. Box 3788, Vero Beach FL 32964. (407)231-5860. Artistic Director: Allen D. Cornell. Estab. 1985. Produces 6 plays/year. Professional Equity company. Audience is primarily affluent, older, retirees. Query with synopsis. Reports in 2-4 months. Pays commission for readings, royalty if fully staged.
Needs: For new play series, seeking works on timely issues, "alternative" theater; dramas or comedies of substance. No fluff or musicals. Prefer smallish cast—2-8 actors.
Tips: "No children's theater; no previously produced plays; no fluffy comedy or drama; no musicals—unless they are socially significant. Always send SASE—we will not respond otherwise."

THE ROAD COMPANY, P.O. Box 5278 EKS, Johnson City TN 37603-5278. (615)926-7726. Literary Manager: Christine Murdock. Estab. 1975. Produces 3 plays/year. "Our professional productions are intended for a general adult audience." Query with synopsis. Reports in 4 months. Pays royalty. "When we do new plays we generally try to have the playwright in residence during rehearsal for 3-4 weeks for about $1,000 plus room and board."
Needs: "We like plays that experiment with form, that challenge, inform and entertain. We are a small ensemble based company. We look for smaller cast shows of 4-6."
Tips: "We are always looking for 2-character (male/female) plays. We are interested in plays set in the South. We are most interested in new work that deals with new forms. We write our own plays using improvisational techniques which we then tour throughout the Southeast. When funding permits, we include one of our own new plays in our home season."

‡RUBBERTREE PRODUCTIONS, #511, 11301 W. Olympic Blvd., Los Angeles CA 90064. (213)939-6747. Estab. 1992. Produces 1 play/year. Equity-waiver/Los Angeles smaller (99 seat) theaters—audience: twenty something crowd. Query letter only—no phone calls. Reports in 2 weeks. Pay varies according to arrangement with writers.
Needs: Full length only—prefer plays targeted to "Generation X" audience.

‡SECOND STAGE THEATRE, P.O. Box 1807, Ansonia Station, New York NY 10023. (212)966-2465. Artistic Director: Carole Rothman. Estab. 1979. Produces 4 plays/year. Off-Broadway professional, 108 seat McGinn/Cazale Theatre; AEA; subscription audience. Query with synopsis, résumé and 5 pages sample dialogue to (Mr.) Erin Sanders Literary Manager/Dramaturg. Reports in 1 month. Buys variable rights. Pay varies. No unsolicited scripts.
Needs: New and previously produced American plays; "heightened" realism; sociopolitical issues; plays by women and minority writers.

‡SHENANDOAH PLAYWRIGHTS RETREAT, Rt. 5, Box 167F, Staunton VA 24401. (703)248-1868. Program Director: Robert Graham Small. Estab. 1976. Produces in workshop 11 plays/year. Submit complete script. Obtains no rights. Writers are provided fellowships, room and board to Shenandoah.
Tips: "We are looking for good material, not derivative; from writers who enjoy exploration with dedicated theater professionals. Kitchen-sink dramas and sitcoms are self-limiting. Live theater must be theatrical! Consider global issues. Look beyond your personal life-experience and explore connections that will lift your characters/conflicts to a more universal plane."

‡SILVERHAWK L.L.C., P.O. Box 1640, Escondido CA 92033. Publishes 25-30 plays/year. Professional, community and college theaters. Submit complete script that can be written on. Reports in 2 months. Buys all rights. Pays 50% production royalty and 10% of script sales.
Needs: "We will look at all plays, but would particularly like to see one-act plays of literary and artistic merit that are suitable for one-act competitions. Also we'd like groups of three one acts that can use the same stage set, and groups of one-acts with a common theme, including seasonal. We have a youth and children's editor looking for children's plays of real merit. We will also consider unusual works and literary works that some publishers would consider to be not sufficiently commercial."
Tips: "Please don't send us children's plays that assume children are real morons. The same for amateur plays. Please be sure your story line is original. Mark children's plays Attn: Mary Jo Leap."

AUDREY SKIRBALL-KENIS THEATRE, Suite 304, 9478 W. Olympic Blvd., Beverly Hills CA 90212. (310)284-8965. Literary Manager: Mead Hunter. Estab. 1989. Produces 18-22 stage readings and 3-4 workshop productions/year. "We utilize three theater facilities in the Los Angeles area with professional director and casts. Our rehearsal readings and workshop productions are offered year-round. Our audience is the general public and theater professionals." Query with synopsis. Reports in 3-4 months. Obtains no rights. Pays $100 for stage readings; $500 for workshop productions.
Needs: "We need full-length original plays that have not yet had full productions which would benefit from a rehearsal reading as a means of further developing the play."
Tips: "We are a nonprofit organization dedicated to new plays and playwrights. We do not produce plays for commercial runs, nor do we request any future commitment from the playwright should their play find a production by virtue of our reading or workshop programs."

SOUTH COAST REPERTORY, P.O. Box 2197, Costa Mesa CA 92628-1197. (714)957-2602. Fax: (714)545-0391. Dramaturg: Jerry Patch. Literary Manager: John Glore. Estab. 1964. Produces 6 plays/year on mainstage, 5 on second stage. Professional nonprofit theater; a member of LORT and TCG. "We operate in our own facility which houses a 507-seat mainstage theater and a 161-seat second stage theater. We have a combined subscription audience of 21,000." Query with synopsis; scripts considered if submitted by agent. Reports in 4 months. Acquires negotiable rights. Pays negotiable royalty.
Needs: "We produce full-lengths. We prefer well-written plays that address contemporary concerns and are dramaturgically innovative. A play whose cast is larger than 15-20 will need to be extremely compelling and its cast size must be justifiable."
Tips: "We don't look for a writer to write for us—he or she should write for him or herself. We look for honesty and a fresh voice. We're not likely to be interested in writers who are mindful of any trends. Originality and craftsmanship are the most important qualities we look for."

SOUTHERN APPALACHIAN REPERTORY THEATRE (SART), Mars Hill College, P.O. Box 620, Mars Hill NC 28754-0620. (704)689-1384. Artistic Director: James W. Thomas. Asst. Managing Director: Gaynelle Caldwell. Estab. 1975. Produces 5 plays/year. "Since 1975 the Southern Appalachian Repertory Theatre has produced 866 performances of 94 plays and played to over 116,000 patrons in the 152-seat Owen Theatre on the Mars Hill College campus. The theater's goals are quality, adventurous programming and integrity, both in artistic form and in the treatment of various aspects of the human condition. SART is a professional summer theater company whose audiences range from students to senior citizens." Reports in 6-12 months. Also conducts an annual Southern Appalachian Playwrights' Conference in which 5 playwrights are invited for informal readings of their new scripts. Deadline for submission is October 1 and conference is held the last weekend in January. If script is selected for production during the summer season, an honorarium is paid to the playwright in the amount of $500. Please enclose SASE for return of script.
Needs: "Since 1975, one of SART's goals has been to produce at least one original play each summer season. To date, 31 original scripts have been produced. Plays by southern Appalachian playwrights or about southern Appalachia are preferred, but by no means exclusively. Complete new scripts welcomed."

STAGE ONE: The Louisville Children's Theatre, 425 W. Market St., Louisville KY 40202-3300. (502)589-5946. Fax: (502)589-5779. Producing Director: Moses Goldberg. Estab. 1946. Produces 6-7 plays/year. 20% freelance written; 15-20% unagented submissions (excluding work of playwright-in-residence). Plays performed by an Equity company for young audiences ages 4-18; usually does different plays for different age groups within that range. Submit complete script. Reports in 4 months. Pays negotiable royalty or $25-50/performance.

Needs: "Good plays for young audiences of all types: adventure, fantasy, realism, serious problem plays about growing up or family entertainment. Cast: ideally, ten or less. Honest, visual potentiality, worthwhile story and characters are necessary. An awareness of children and their schooling is a plus. No campy material or anything condescending to children. No musicals unless they are fairly limited in orchestration."

STAGE WEST, P.O. Box 2587, Fort Worth TX 76113. (817)924-9454. Artistic Director: Jerry Russell. Estab. 1979. Produces 8 plays/year. "We stage professional productions at our own theater for a mixed general audience." Query with synopsis. Reports in 3-6 months. Rights are negotiable. Pays 7% royalty.
Needs: "We want full-length plays that are accessible to a mainstream audience but possess traits that are highly theatrical. Cast size of ten or less and single or unit set are desired."

CHARLES STILWILL, Managing Artistic Director, Community Playhouse, P.O. Box 433, Waterloo IA 50704-0433. (319)235-0367. Estab. 1917. Plays performed by Waterloo Community Playhouse with a volunteer cast. Produces 11 plays (6 adult, 5 children's); 1-2 musicals and 9-10 nonmusicals/year; 1-3 originals. 17% freelance written; most unagented submissions. Works with 1-3 unpublished/unproduced writers annually. "We are one of few community theaters with a commitment to new scripts. We do at least one and have done as many as four a year. We have 4,300 season members. Average attendance is 3,000. We do a wide variety of plays. Our public isn't going to accept nudity, too much sex, too much strong language. We don't have enough Black actors to do all-Black shows. Theater has done plays with as few as 2 characters, and as many as 98. On the main stage, we usually pay between $400 and $500. We also produce children's theater. Submit complete script. Please, no loose pages. Reports negatively within 1 year, but acceptance sometimes takes longer because we try to fit a wanted script into the balanced season. We sometimes hold a script longer than a year if we like it but cannot immediately find the right slot for it. We just did the world premiere of The Ninth Step which was written in 1989 and last year we did the midwest premiere of Grace Under Pressure which was written in 1984. January 1995 we will do the World Premiere of First Child."
Needs: "For our Children's Theater and our Adult Biannual Holiday (Christmas) show, we are looking for good adaptations of name children's stories or very good shows that don't necessarily have a name. We produce children's theater with both adult and child actors."

TACOMA ACTORS GUILD, 6th Floor, 901 Broadway, Tacoma WA 98402-4404. (206)272-3107. Fax: (206)272-3358. Artistic Director: Bruce K. Sevy. Estab. 1978. Produces 6-7 plays/year. Plays perfomed at Theatre On The Square. Audience consists of playgoers in the south Puget Sound region. Query with synopsis. Reports in 2-4 months on queries; 1 year on scripts. Rights negotiable. Pays negotiable royalty or makes outright purchase of $500 minimum.
Needs: "Full length. Single or simple set. Modest cast (two-seven). Comedy, drama, musical. Our budgets are modest."
Tips: "No extreme language, violence, nudity, sexual situations. We don't do a lot of new work so opportunities are limited."

TADA!, 120 W. 28th St., New York NY 10001. (212)627-1732. Artistic Director: Janine Nina Trevens. Estab. 1984. Produces 2-4 plays/year. "TADA! produces original musicals and plays performed by children at our 95-seat theater. Productions are for family audiences." Submit complete script and tape, if musical. Reports in 6 months. Pays 5% royalty or commission fee (varies).
Needs: "Generally pieces run from 45-70 minutes. Must be enjoyed by children and adults and performed by a cast of children ages 6-17."
Tips: "No redone fairy tales or pieces where children are expected to play adults. Be careful not to condescend when writing for children's theater."

THE TEN-MINUTE MUSICALS PROJECT, P.O. Box 461194, West Hollywood CA 90046. (213)656-8751. Producer: Michael Koppy. Estab. 1987. Produces 1-10 plays/year. "Plays performed in Equity regional theaters in the US and Canada." Submit complete script, lead sheets and cassette. Deadline August 31; notification by December 15 annually. Buys performance rights. Pays $250 royalty advance upon selection, against equal share of performance royalties when produced. Submission guidelines for #10 SASE.
Needs: "We are looking for complete short stage musicals playing between 7-14 minutes. Limit cast to ten (five women, five men). No fairy tales or works based on contemporary news events."
• See the Insider Report interview with Michael Koppy in the 1995 Songwriter's Market.

THEATER ARTISTS OF MARIN, P.O. Box 150473, San Rafael CA 94915. (415)454-2380. Artistic Director: Charles Brousse. Estab. 1980. Produces 3 plays/year. Professional showcase productions for a general adult audience. Submit complete script. Reports in 6 months. Assists in marketing to other theaters and offers script development assistance.
Needs: "All types of scripts: comedy, drama, farce. Prefers contemporary setting, with some relevance to current issues in American society. Will also consider 'small musicals,' reviews or plays with music." No children's shows, domestic sitcoms, one-man shows or commercial thrillers.

THE THEATER OF NECESSITY, 11702 Webercrest, Houston TX 77048. (713)733-6042. Artistic Director: Philbert Plumb. Estab. 1981. Produces 4 plays/year. Plays are produced in a small professional theater. Submit complete script. Reports in 1 year. Buys performance rights. Pays standard royalties based on size of house for small productions or individual contracts for large productions (average $500/run). "We usually keep script on file unless we are certain we will never use it." Send SASE for script and #10 SASE for response.
Needs: "Any play in a recognizable genre must be superlative in form and intensity. Experimental plays are given an easier read. We move to larger venue if the play warrants the expense."

THEATRE & COMPANY, 20 Queen St. N., Kitchener, Ontario N2H 2G8 Canada. Artistic Director: Stuart Scadron-Wattles. Literary Manager: Wes Wikkerink. Estab. 1988. Produces 4 plays/year. Semi-professional productions for a general audience. Query with synopsis and SAE with IRCs. Reports in 3 months. Pays $50-100/performance.
Needs: "One-act or full-length; comedy or drama; musical or straight; written from or compatible with a biblical world view." No cast above 10; prefers unit staging. Looking for small cast (less than 5) ensemble comedies.
Tips: Looks for "non-religious writing from a biblical world view for an audience which loves the theater. Avoid current trends toward shorter scenes. Playwrights should be aware that they are writing for the stage—not television. We encourage audience interaction, using an acting ensemble trained in improvisation."

THEATRE DE LA JEUNE LUNE, 105 N. First St., Minneapolis MN 55401-1411. (612)332-3968. Artistic Directors: Barbra Berlovitz Desbois, Vincent Garcieux, Robert Rosen, Dominique Serrand. Estab. 1979. Produces 2-3 plays/year. Professional nonprofit company producing September-May for general audience. Query with synopsis. Reports in 3 months. Pays royalty or per performance. No unsolicited scripts, please.
Needs: "All subject matter considered, although plays with universal themes are desired; plays that concern people of today. We are constantly looking for plays with large casts. Generally not interested in plays with 1-4 characters. No psychological drama or plays that are written alone in a room without the input of outside vitality and life."
Tips: "We are an acting company that takes plays and makes them ours; this could mean cutting a script or not heeding a writer's stage directions. We are committed to the performance in front of the audience as the goal of all the contributing factors; therefore, the actors' voice is extremely important."

THEATRE VIRGINIA, 2800 Grove Ave., Richmond VA 23221-2466. Artistic Director: George Black. Estab. 1955. Produces 5-8, publishes 0-1 new play/year. Query with synopsis and 15 page sample. Accepts agented submissions. Solicitations in 1 month for initial query, 3-8 months for script. Rights negotiated. Payment negotiated.
Needs: No one-acts; no children's theater.

THEATRE WEST, 3333 Cahuenga W., Los Angeles CA 90068-1365. Contact: Jan Harris. Estab. 1962. Produces 6 plays/year. "99-seat waiver productions in our theater. Audiences are primarily young urban professionals." Submit script, résumé and letter requesting membership. Reports in 2 months. Buys 5% of writer's share of sale to another media. Pays royalty "based on gross box office—equal to all other participants."
Needs: Uses minimalistic scenery.
Tips: "TW is a dues-paying membership company. Only members can submit plays for production. So you must seek membership prior to action for a production."

THEATREWORKS, University of Colorado, P.O. Box 7150, Colorado Springs CO 80933-7150. (719)593-3232. Fax: (719)593-3582. Producing Director: Ronnie Storey. Estab. 1975. Produces 4 full-length plays/year and 2 new one-acts. "New full-length plays produced on an irregular basis. Casts are semi-professional and plays are produced at the university." Query with synopsis. No unsolicited scripts. One-act plays are accepted as Playwrights' Forum competition entries. Submit complete script. Deadline: December 1; winners announced March 1. Two one-act competition winners receive full production, cash awards and travel allowances. Acquires exclusive regional option for duration of production. Full rights revert to author upon closing. Pays $200 prize plus travel and accommodations.
Needs: Full-lengths and one-acts—no restrictions on subject. "Cast size should not exceed 20; stage area is small with limited wing and fly space. Theatreworks is interested in the exploration of new and inventive theatrical work. Points are scored by imaginative use of visual image and bold approach to subject." No melodrama or children's plays.

For information on setting your freelance fees, see How Much Should I Charge?

Tips: "Too often, new plays seem far too derivative of television and film writing. We think theater is a medium which an author must specifically attack. The standard three-act form would appear to be obsolete. Economy, brevity and innovation are favorably received."

THEATREWORKS/USA, 890 Broadway, New York NY 10003. (212)677-5959. Artistic Director: Jay Harnick. Literary Manager: Barbara Pasternack. Produces 3 new musical plays/season. Produces professional musicals and plays that primarily tour (TYA contract) but also play at an off-Broadway theater for a young audience. Query with synopsis or sample song. Reports in 8 months. Buys all rights. Pays 6% royalty. Offers $1,500 advance against future royalties for new, commissioned plays.
Needs: Musicals and plays with music for children. Historical/biographical themes (ages 8-15), classic literature, fairy tales, and issue-oriented themes and material suitable for young people ages 5-12. Five person cast, minimal lighting. "We like well-crafted shows with good dramatic structure—a protagonist who wants something specific, an antagonist, a problem to be solved—character development, tension, climax, etc. No Saturday Afternoon Special-type shows, shows with nothing to say or 'kiddie' theater shows or fractured fairy tales. We do not address high school audiences."
Tips: "Writing for kids is just like writing for adults—only better (clearer, cleaner). Kids will not sit still for unnecessary exposition and overblown prose. Long monologues, soliloquies and 'I Am' songs and ballads should be avoided. Television, movies and video make the world of entertainment highly competitive. We've noticed lately how well popular children's titles, contemporary and in public domain, sell. We are very interested in acquiring adaptations of this type of material."

‡STEVE TYLER, 6915 Fantain Ave., Los Angeles CA 90028. Estab. 1991. Produces 4 plays/year. "Mostly 99 AEA seat plan theater—with hopes to move to a larger venue." Query with synopsis. Reports in months. Royalty varies.
Needs: Full-length plays that are political, topical, controversial and/or a great comedy. Prefers smaller casts (less than 8).

‡UNICORN THEATRE, 3820 Main St., Kansas City MO 64111. (816)531-PLAY. Producing Artistic Director: Cynthia Levin. Produces 6-8 plays/year. "We are a professional Equity Theatre. Typically, we produce plays dealing with contemporary issues." Query with synopsis and sample dialogue. Will not consider unsolicited scripts. Reports in 2 months.
Needs: Prefers contemporary (post-1950) scripts. Does not accept musicals, one-acts, or historical plays. When a script is requested, include a brief synopsis, a bio, a character breakdown, SASE if script is to be returned, a self-addressed, stamped post card for acknowledgement of receipt is desired. A royalty/prize of $1,000 will be awarded the playwright of any play selected through this process, The National Playwright Award. This script receives production as part of the Unicorn's regular season.

THE UNUSUAL CABARET, 14½ Mt. Desert St., Bar Harbor ME 04609. (207)288-3306. (Phone only June through mid-October). Owner: Christopher Mitchell. Estab. 1990. "Our audience tends to be youthful (25-50) and educated. They are tourists from all over the world, as well as dedicated, local regulars." Produces 3 plays/year. Reports on submissions in 1 month. "We produce two musical scripts and one non-musical script every season. Scripts must be 45-75 minutes in length and require no more than eight actors. Our space is intimate, with minimal technical capacity. We always strive for the unusual in format and subject matter, without sacrificing accessibility." Submit completed script (with tape, if applicable). Pays 10-12% royalty.
Tips: "As a true cabaret in the tradition of the Chat Noir and Cabaret Voltaire, we attempt to narrow or even eliminate the distance between spectator and performer, so pervasive in elitist or high art. We look for non-naturalistic scripts which are simultaneously challenging and playful. We encourage writers to be involved in the actual production process."

‡VIGILANTE THEATRE CO., P.O. Box 507, Bozeman MT 59771-0507. (406)586-3897. Artistic Director: John M. Hosking. Estab. 1982. Produces 3-4 plays/year. Plays by professional touring company that does productions by or about people and themes of the Northwest. "Past productions were concerned with homeless people, agriculture, literature by Northwest writers, one-company towns and spouse abuse in rural areas." Submit complete ms. Reports in 6 months. Pays $10-50/performance.
Needs: Produces full-length plays and some one-acts. "Staging suitable for a small touring company and cast limited to four actors (two men, two women). Double casting actors for more play characters is also an option."
Tips: "No musicals requiring orchestras and a chorus line. Although we prefer a script of some thematic substance, the company is very adept at comedy and would prefer the topic to include humor."

VIRGINIA STAGE COMPANY, P.O. Box 3770, Norfolk VA 23514-3770. (804)627-6988. Fax: (804)628-5958. Literary Manager: Jefferson H. Lindquist. Estab. 1979. VSC is a LORT C-1 theatre serving southeastern Virginia audiences. Performing spaces are mainstage (700-seat) theatre with proscenium stage and a 99-seat second stage. Produces 4-6 plays/year. Accepts and encourages unsolicited scripts—especially from playwrights residing in Virginia. Submission time: January-April. Responds in 6 months. Scripts returned to author or agent only if postage is included.

Needs: Full-length plays, and musicals with tapes only.

WALNUT STREET THEATRE, 9th and Walnut Streets, Philadelphia PA 19107. (215)574-3550. Executive Director: Bernard Havard. Literary Manager: Alexa Kelly. Estab. 1809. Produces 5 mainstage and 4 studio plays/year. "Our plays are performed in our own space. WST has 3 theaters—a proscenium (mainstage), 1,052 seats; 2 studios, 79-99 seats. We have a subscription audience, second largest in the nation." Query with synopsis and 10 pages. Reports in 5 months. Rights negotiated per project. Pays royalty (negotiated per project) or outright purchase.
Needs: "Full-length dramas and comedies, musicals, translations, adaptations and revues. The studio plays must be small cast, simple sets."
Tips: "We will consider anything. Bear in mind that on the mainstage we look for plays with mass appeal, Broadway-style. The studio spaces are our off-Broadway. No children's plays. Our mainstage audience goes for work that is entertaining and light. Our studio season is when we look for plays that have bite and are more provocative."

WEST COAST ENSEMBLE, P.O. Box 38728, Los Angeles CA 90038. (213)871-8673. Artistic Director: Les Hanson. Estab. 1982. Produces 6 plays/year. Plays performed in 1 of 2 theaters in Hollywood. Submit complete script. Reports in 6-9 months. Obtains exclusive rights in southern California to present the play for the period specified. All ownership and rights remain with the playwright. Pays $25-45/performance. Writers guidelines for #10 SASE.
Needs: Prefers a cast of 6-12.
Tips: "Submit the script in acceptable dramatic script format."

WESTBETH THEATRE CENTER, INC., 151 Bank St., New York NY 10014-2049. (212)691-2272. Fax: (212)924-7185. Producing Director: Arnold Engelman. Literary Manager: Steven Bloom. Estab. 1977. Produces 10 readings and 6 productions/year. Professional off-Broadway theater. Submit complete ms with SASE. Responds in 4 months. Obtains rights to produce as showcase with option to enter into full option agreement.
Needs: "Contemporary full-length plays. Production values (i.e., set, costumes, etc.) should be kept to a minimum." No period pieces. Limit 10 actors; doubling explained.

THE WHITE-WILLIS THEATRE, (formerly The Ann White Theatre), 5266 Gate Lake Rd., Fort Lauderdale FL 33319. (305)772-4371. Artistic Director: Ann White. Estab. 1984. Produces 6 plays/year. "Alternative theater, professional productions for mature audiences. Plays performed in various settings: libraries, theaters, colleges and universities, hotels and dinner theaters." Conducts annual playwrights' competition and festival. Submit scripts June 1-August 1 for productions in spring. SASE for guidelines. Winning playwright receives $500 and production by The White-Willis Theatre.
Tips: "We are always interested in plays that focus on contemporary issues."

‡THE WILMA THEATER, 2030 Sansom St., Philadelphia PA 19103-4417. (215)963-0249. Artistic Directors: Ms. Blanka Zizka, Mr. Jiri Zizka. Estab. 1973. Produces 4 plays/year. Leading regional theater; professional Equity productions (A.E.A. Letter of Agreement) in city of Philadelphia. Some co-productions with other regional and New York theaters. The Wilma has a subscription audience of 4,000 and a reputation as the "Philadelphia equivalent of off-Broadway." Query with synopsis. Pays royalty.
Needs: "Innovative, artistic theater; full-length productions of a variety of genres and topics. Special interest in works from the international repertoire, new plays, plays with music, and plays with passionate, universal sensibility. Stage is small, requires unit or relatively simple sets; cast sizes of 12 are difficult."
Tips: "Please be patient in waiting for a response; please be sure to enclose an SAS postcard with synopsis submission; send an up to 10-page dialogue sample with synopsis."

THE WOMEN'S PROJECT AND PRODUCTIONS, 7 W. 63rd St., New York NY 10023-7102. (212)873-3040. Artistic Director: Julia Miles. Estab. 1978. Produces 3 plays/year. Professional Off-Broadway productions. Query with synopsis and 10 sample pages of dialogue. Reports in 1 month on queries.
Needs: "We are looking for full-length plays, written by women."

WOOLLY MAMMOTH THEATRE COMPANY, Dept. WM, 1401 Church St. NW, Washington DC 20005-1903. (202)393-3939. Artistic Director: Howard Shalwitz. Literary Manager: Jim Byrnes. Produces 5 plays/year. 50% freelance written. Produces professional productions for the general public in Washington, DC. 2-3 scripts/year unagented submissions. Works with 1-2 unpublished/unproduced writers annually. Accepts unsolicited scripts. Reports in 3 months on scripts; very interesting scripts often take much longer. Buys first- and second- class production rights. Pays 5% royalty.

- Writer John Rolfe Gardner received a Lila Wallace-Reader's Digest Fund Award to present a series of programs of dramatized short fiction with the Wooly Mammoth Theater.

Needs: "We look only for plays that are highly unusual in some way. Also interested in multicultural projects. Apart from an innovative approach, there is no formula. One-acts are not used." Cast limit of 8.

Screenwriting

Practically everyone you meet in Los Angeles, from your airport cabbie on, is writing a script. It might be a feature film, movie of the week, TV series or documentary, but the sheer amount of competition can seem overwhelming. Some will never make a sale, while others make a decent living on sales and options without ever having any of their work produced. But there are those writers who make a living doing what they love and see their names roll by on the credits. How do they get there? How do you get there?

First, work on your writing. You'll improve with each script, so there is no way of getting around the need to write and write some more. It's a good idea to read as many scripts as you can get your hands on. Check your local bookstores and libraries. Script City (Suite 1500, 8033 Sunset Blvd., Hollywood CA 90046, (800)676-2522) carries thousands of movie and TV scripts, classics to current releases, as well as books, audio/video seminars and software in their $2 catalog. Book City (Dept. 101, 308 N. San Fernando Blvd., Burbank CA 91502, (800)4-CINEMA) has film and TV scripts in all genres and a large selection of movie books in their $2.50 catalog.

There are lots of books that will give you the "rules" of format and structure for writing for TV or film. Samuel French (7623 Sunset Blvd., Hollywood CA 90046 (213)876-0570) carries a number of how-to books and reference materials on these subjects. The correct format marks your script as a professional submission. Most successful scriptwriters will tell you to learn the correct structure, internalize those rules—and then throw them away and write intuitively.

Writing for TV

To break into TV you must have spec scripts—work written for free that serves as a calling card and gets you in the door. A spec script showcases your writing abilities and gets your name in front of influential people. Whether a network has invited you in to pitch some ideas, or a movie producer has contacted you to write a first draft for a feature film, the quality of writing in your spec script got their attention and that may get you the job.

It's a good idea to have several spec scripts, perhaps one each for three of the top five shows in the format you prefer to work in, whether it's sitcom (half-hour comedies), episodic (one hour series) or movie of the week (two hour dramatic movies). Perhaps you want to showcase the breadth of your writing ability; some writers have a portfolio of a few eight o'clock type shows (i.e., Mad About You, Home Improvement), a few nine-o'clock shows (i.e., Murphy Brown, Seinfeld) and one or two episodics (i.e., Northern Exposure, Law and Order, NYPD Blue). These are all "hot" shows for writers and can demonstrate your abilities to create believable dialogue for characters already familiar to your intended readers. For TV and cable movies you should have completed original scripts (not sequels to existing movies) and you might also have a few for episodic TV shows.

In choosing the shows you write spec scripts for you must remember one thing: don't write a script for a show you want to work on. If you want to work on Northern Exposure, you'll send a Law and Order script and vice versa. It may seem contradictory, but it is standard practice. Writers and producers can feel very proprietary about their show and their stories. They may not be objective enough to fairly evaluate your writing. In submitting another similar type of show you'll avoid that problem while demonstrating comparable skills.

In writing your TV script you must get inside the show and understand the characters' internal motivations. You must immerse yourself in how the characters speak, think and interact. Don't introduce new characters in a spec script for an existing show—write believable dialogue for the characters as they are portrayed. Be sure to choose a show that you like—you'll be better able to demonstrate your writing ability through characters you respond to.

You must also understand the external factors. How the show is filmed bears on how you write. Most sitcoms are shot on videotape with three cameras, on a sound stage with a studio audience. Episodics are often shot on film with one camera and include on-location shots. Mad About You has a flat, evenly-lit look and takes place in the Buckman's apartment, the restaurant and Paul's studio. Law and Order has a gritty realism with varying lighting and a variety of settings from Stone's office to a bodega on East 135th.

Another important external influence in writing for TV is the timing of commercials in conjunction with the act structure. There are lots of sources detailing the suggested content and length of acts, but generally a sitcom has a teaser (short opening scene), two acts and a tag (short closing scene), and an episodic has a teaser, four acts and a tag. Each act closes with a turning point. Watching TV analytically and keeping a log of events will reveal some elements of basic structure. Successful Scriptwriting, by Wolff & Cox, offers detailed discussions of various types of shows.

Writing for the movies

With feature films you may feel at once more liberated and more bound by structure. An original movie script contains characters you have created, with storylines you design, allowing you more freedom than you have in TV. However, your writing must still convey believable dialogue and realistic characters, with a plausible plot and high-quality writing carried through the roughly 120 pages. The characters must have a problem that involves the audience. When you go to a movie you don't want to spend time watching the second worst night of a character's life. You're looking for the big issue that crystallizes a character, that portrays a journey with important consequences.

At the same time you are creating, you should also be constructing. Be aware of the basic three act structure for feature films. Scenes can be of varying lengths, but are usually no longer than three to three and a half pages. Some writers list scenes that must occur, then flesh them out from beginning to end, writing with the structure of events in mind. The beginning and climactic scenes are the easiest; it's how they get there from here that's difficult.

Many novice screenwriters tend to write too many visual cues and camera directions into their scripts. Your goal should be to write something readable, like a "compressed novella." Write succinct resonant scenes and leave the camera technique to the director and producer. In action/adventure movies, however, there needs to be a balance since the script demands more visual direction.

It seems to be easier for TV writers to cross over to movies. Cable movies bridge the two, and are generally less derivative and more willing to take chances with a higher quality show designed to attract an audience not interested in network offerings. Cable is also less susceptible to advertiser pullout, which means it can tackle more controversial topics.

Feature films and TV are very different and writers occupy different positions. TV is a medium for writers and producers; directors work for them. Many TV writers are also producers. In feature films the writers and producers work for the director and often have little or no say about what happens to the work once the script has been sold. For TV the writer pitches the idea; for feature films generally the producer pitches the idea and then finds a writer.

Marketing your scripts

If you intend to make writing your profession you must act professionally. Accepted submission practices should become second nature.

- The initial pitch is made through a query letter, which is no longer than one page with a one paragraph synopsis and brief summary of your credits if they are relevant to the subject of your script.
- Never send a complete manuscript until it is requested.
- Almost every script sent to a producer, studio or agent must be accompanied by a release form. Ask for that company's form when you receive an invitation to submit the whole script. Mark your envelope "release form enclosed" to prevent it being returned unread.
- Always include a self-addressed stamped envelope if you want your work returned; a disposable copy may be accompanied by a self-addressed stamped postcard for reply.
- Allow four to six weeks from receipt of your manuscript before writing a follow-up letter.

When your script is requested, be sure it's written in the appropriate format. Unusual binding, fancy covers or illustrations mark an amateur. Three brass brads with a plain or black cover indicate a pro.

There are a limited number of ideas in the world, so it's inevitable that similar ideas occur to more than one person. Hollywood is a buyers' market and a release form states that pretty clearly. An idea is not copyrightable, so be careful about sharing premises. The written expression of that idea, however, can be protected and it's a good idea to do so. The Writers Guild of America can register scripts for television and theatrical motion pictures, series formats, storylines and step outlines. You need not be a member of the WGA to use this service. Copyrighting your work with the Copyright Office of the Library of Congress also protects your work from infringement. Contact either agency for more information and an application form.

If you are a writer, you should write—all the time. When you're not writing, read. There are numerous books on the art, craft and business of screenwriting. See the Publications of Interest at the end of Writer's Market for a few or check the catalogs of companies previously mentioned. The different trade papers of the industry such as Daily Variety and Hollywood Reporter can keep you in touch with the day to day doings and upcoming events. Specialty newsletters such as Hollywood Scriptwriter, Creative Screenwriting and New York Scriptwriter offer tips from successful scriptwriters and agents. The Hollywood Creative Directory is an extensive list of production companies, studios and networks that also lists companies and talent with studio deals.

Computer services, such as America Online, have various bulletin boards and chat hours for scriptwriters that provide contact with other writers and a chance to share information and encouragement.

It may take years of work before you come up with a script someone is willing to take a chance on. Those years need to be spent learning your craft and understanding the business. Polishing scripts, writing new material, keeping current with the industry and networking constantly will keep you busy. When you do get that call you'll be confident in your abilities and know that your hard work is beginning to pay off.

Publications of Interest at the end of Writer's Market for a few or check the catalogs of companies previously mentioned. The different trade papers of the industry such as Daily Variety and Hollywood Reporter can keep you in touch with the day to day doings and upcoming events. Specialty newsletters such as Hollywood Scriptwriter, Creative Screenwriting and New York Scriptwriter offer tips from successful scriptwriters and agents. The Hollywood Creative Directory is an extensive list of production companies, studios and networks that also lists companies and talent with studio deals.

Computer services, such as America Online, have various bulletin boards and chat hours for scriptwriters that provide contact with other writers and a chance to share information and encouragement.

It may take years of work before you come up with a script someone is willing to take a chance on. Those years need to be spent learning your craft and understanding the business. Polishing scripts, writing new material, keeping current with the industry and networking constantly will keep you busy. When you do get that call you'll be confident in your abilities and know that your hard work is beginning to pay off.

For information on more screenwriting markets, see Scriptwriting Markets/ Changes '94-'95 at the end of the Screenwriting section.

‡□ALL AMERICAN COMMUNICATIONS, #224, 5301 Beethoven St., Los Angeles CA 90066. (310)301-1721. Contact: Dan Watanabe. Estab. 1974. Produces Baywatch, Acapulco Heat and Sirens. Looking for television programs—syndicated, network, cable original. Works with 10 writers/year. Buys all rights. Reports in 1 month. Query with synopsis. Pay varies depending on project.

Needs: Looking for one-hour dramatic TV series proposals or movies of the week.

ALLIED ARTISTS, INC., Suite 377, 859 N. Hollywood Way, Burbank CA 91505. (818)594-4089. Vice President, Development: John Nichols. Estab. 1990. Produces material for broadcast and cable television, home video and theater. Buys 3-5 scripts/year. Works with 10-20 writers/year. Buys first rights or all rights. Accepts previously produced material. Reports in 2 months on queries; 3 months on scripts. Submit synopsis/outline. Pays in accordance with Writers Guild standards (amount and method negotiable).
Needs: Films (16, 35mm), videotapes. Social issue TV special (30-60 minutes); special interest home video topics; instruction and entertainment; positive values feature screenplays.

"Looking for film material with strong roles for mature women (ages 40-55 etc.). Also roles for young women and potential movie musicals, message movies." Buys 3 scripts/year. Works with 5 writers/year. Buys all rights. No previously produced material. Reports in 2-3 months. Catalog for #10 SASE. Submit synopsis, complete script and résumé. Pays in accordance with Writers Guild standards or partnership.
Needs: Multimedia kits. "Doing more partnerships with writers as opposed to just Writers Guild minimum. Concentration on original vehicles for the mature actress to fill the gap that's missing from mainstream cinema."
Tips: "We are seeking inspirational true/life stories such as women overcoming obstacles, human growth, movie musicals."
• Kn'K is looking particularly for female-driven vehicles for mature actresses, 45-55.

‡DAVID LANCASTER PRODUCTIONS, 3356 Bennett Dr, Los Angeles CA 90068-1704. Story Editor: Scott Fort. Estab. 1985. Feature films audience. Buys 8-10 scripts/year. Works with 18-25 writers/year. Needs: Action oriented screenplays, dramas with an edge.
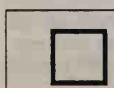
Tips: "We will accept nothing without a release on outside of envelope. Please do not call us."

‡RON LEVINSON PRODUCTIONS, #312, 1545 26th St., Santa Monica CA 90404. (310)449-3290. TV and film material. Buys first and all rights. Submissions through agents or with release.

LIGHTVIEW ENTERTAINMENT, Suite 571, 11901 Santa Monica Blvd., Los Angeles CA 90025. Producer: Laura McCorkindale. Estab. 1991. Buys 20 scripts/year. Buys all rights. Options include purchase price which incorporates all rights. Send 1-2 page detailed synopsis with SASE to the attention of Vivian Poutakoglou. "We will respond via mail within 2 months to let you know if we want to see your screenplay. If we request your screenplay after reading synopsis, please allow 3 months for a second response." Purchase price negotiable.
Needs: Mostly feature film screenplays and books (only if they would adapt well to film). Occasionally will look at teleplays intended as Movies of theWeek. Feature film screenplays range from smaller budget independent films to big budget studio films. All genres.
Tips: "Take time writing your synopsis and be detailed! Synopsis should be well written as your screenplay. Be sure it is at least one page—but not more than two! Although we are looking for all types of screenplays, we are especially drawn to inspirational stories that enlighten and entertain. We do not accept unsolicited phone calls, so please correspond only through the mail."



Open box preceding a listing indicates a cable TV market.

MARS PRODUCTIONS CORPORATION, 10215 Riverside Dr., Toluca Lake CA 91602. (818)980-8011. Executive Assistant: Julia Fakhouri. Estab. 1969. Produces family and action films. Buys 3 scripts/year. Works with 5 writers/year. Buys all rights, options. No previously produced material. Reports in 3 months. Query with synopsis/outline. Makes outright purchase "depending on the project."
Needs: Film (35mm).

□MEDIACOM DEVELOPMENT CORP., P.O. Box 6331, Burbank CA 91510-6331. (818)594-4089. Director/Program Development: Felix Girard. Estab. 1978. 80% freelance written. Buys 8-12 scripts annually from unpublished/unproduced writers. 50% of scripts produced are unagented submissions. Query with samples. Reports in 1 month. Buys all rights or first rights.
Needs: Produces films, multimedia kits, tapes and cassettes, slides and videotape with programmed instructional print materials, broadcast and cable television programs. Publishes software ("programmed instruction training courses"). Negotiates payment depending on project. Looking for new ideas for CD-ROM titles.
Tips: "Send short samples of work. Especially interested in flexibility to meet clients' demands, creativity in treatment of precise subject matter. We are looking for good, fresh projects (both special and series) for cable and pay television markets. A trend in the audiovisual field that freelance writers should be aware of is the move toward more interactive video disc/computer CRT delivery of training materials for corporate markets."

THE MERRYWOOD STUDIO, #75, 137 E. 38th St., New York NY 10016-2650. Creative Director: Raul daSilva. Estab. 1984. Produces animated motion pictures for entertainment audiences. "We are planning to severely limit but not close out freelance input. Will be taking roughly 5-7%. However, we might be seeking a few experienced top writers for new children's animation business (age 10 and above/crossover to adult)."
Needs: Proprietary material only. Human potential themes woven into highly entertaining drama, high adventure, comedy. This is a new market for animation with only precedent in the illustrated novels published in France and Japan. Cannot handle unsolicited mail/scripts and will not return mail. Open to agented submissions of credit sheets, concepts and synopses only. Profit sharing depending upon value of concept and writer's following. Will pay at least Writers Guild levels or better, plus expenses.
Tips: "This is not a market for beginning writers. Established, professional work with highly unusual and original themes is sought. If you love writing, it will show and we will recognize it and reward it in every way you can imagine. We are not a 'factory' and work on a very high level of excellence."

‡MILWAUKEE FILMWORKS, #610, 9595 Wilshire Blvd., Beverly Hills CA 90212. Contact: Douglas. Estab. 1991. Film and television audience. Buys 2 scripts/year. Works with 6 writers/year. Buys screenplays-option. Accepts previously produced material. Will return submissions on a case to case basis. Reports in 1 month. Query with complete script. Pay varies in accordance with Writers Guild standards.
Needs: Films (35mm).

‡MNC FILMS, P.O. Box 16195, Beverly Hills CA 90209-2195. Contact: Mark Cohen. Estab. 1991. Feature film audience. Buys 2 scripts/year. Works with 3 writers/year. Buys all rights or purchases option on screenplay. Accepts previously produced material. Reports in 2 months. Query with synopsis. Pays in accordance with Writers Guild standards (work for hire) or variable fee for option of material.
Needs: Film (35mm). Feature length films. "I'm looking for story-driven films with well-developed characters. Screenplays or books easily adaptable for lower budget (few locations, stunts, special effects)."
Tips: "In the past I have received many submissions from writers who obviously did not pay attention to the type of material that I am looking for. I personally believe that stories with more of an emphasis on individuals and relationships are more interesting and many times more successful than stories driven by other elements."

MONAREX HOLLYWOOD CORPORATION, 9421½ W. Pico Blvd., Los Angeles CA 90035. (310)552-1069. Fax: (310)552-1724. President: Chris D. Nebe. Estab. 1978. Works with 10 writers/year. Buys all rights. Reports in 1 month on queries; 2 months on submissions. Query with synopsis. Buys minimal option with agreement; if script is sold will pay at least WGA minimum.
Needs: Films (35mm), videotapes. Full-length scripts for TV movies and features. Prefer dramas, romantic comedies and science fiction.

NEW & UNIQUE VIDEOS, 2336 Sumac Dr., San Diego CA 92105. (619)282-6126. Creative Director: Candace Love. Estab. 1982. General TV and videotape audiences. Buys 10-15 scripts/year. Buys first rights, all rights. No previously produced material. Reports in 1-2 months. Catalog for #10 SASE. Query with synopsis. Makes outright purchase, negotiable.
Needs: Videotapes.
Tips: "We are seeking unique slants on interesting topics in 60-90 minute special-interest videotape format. Imagination and passion, not to mention humor are pluses. Titles produced include "Massage for Relaxation"; "Ultimate Mountain Biking" and "Full Cycle: World Odyssey." "No threatical titles. Please study the genre and get an understanding of what 'special interest' means." Trends: "We are moving toward moving pictures (i.e. video, computers, CD-ROM, etc.) in a big way as book sales diminish. If writers can adapt to the changes, their work will always be in demand."

NEW LINE PRODUCTIONS, Suite 200, 116 N. Robertson Blvd., Los Angeles CA 90048. Fax: (310)854-1824. Story Editor: Brian Morewitz. "Agented submissions only. Query letter, including synopsis, must be sent first. No unsolicited submissions, even from agents." Reports in 1 month.

‡NO MAS ENTERTAINMENT, (formerly AAFTA Entertainment), Suite 211, 1222 N. Olive Dr., Los Angeles CA 90069. (213)650-7191. President: J. Jay Cohen. Estab. 1987. Produces material for 18-62 year old audience. Buys 1 script/year. Works with 2 writers/year. Buys first rights, all rights. Accepts previously produced material. Reports in 1-2 months on queries; 2-3 months on scripts. Query with synopsis and complete script. Pay varies, but minimum in accordance with Writers Guild standards.
Needs: Films (16, 35mm), videotapes. Erotic thrillers, action adventures, dramas and comedies—completed scripts for film and TV movies of the week, no longer than 110 pages, preferably. "Any slant, any subject!"
Tips: "Submit script-sized SASE with all submissions. Also, please don't submit scripts that are loose with no brads or aren't held together by a folder of some sort. Difficult to handle by reader and quite frankly, it's a lousy presentation."

‡OCEAN PARK PICTURES, 220 Main St., Venice CA 90291. (310)450-1220. Executive Producer: Tim Goldberg. Estab. 1989. All audiences. Buys 5 scripts/year. Works with 10 writers/year. Buys first or all rights. Accepts previously produced material. Reports in 1 month on queries; 2 months on scripts. Query with synopsis, complete script and résumé. Pay varies.
Needs: Film (35mm).

‡ODYSSEY INTERNATIONAL, P.O. Box 230902, Encinitas CA 92023. Contact: Gary Schmad. Estab. 1983. General, educational, mature/adult audience. Buys 2-3 scripts/year. Works with 2-3 writers/year. Buys all rights. No previously produced material. Reports in 2 months on queries. Catalog for #10 SASE. Query with synopsis. Pays 2-8% royalty or will consider outright purchase.
Needs: Films (16, 35mm), videotapes. Sitcom—"Flannigan's Last Resort"—Cheers in a topless bar (22½-28½ minutes); Feature—"R" exotic adventure (90-115 mintues); Video—Playboy style with Shakespearean ploys (58 minutes); Travelog—"On the Road"—off-beat travel series (22½ minutes).
Tips: "Our venue is sexy, but tasteful. No sleaze, please."

PACE FILMS, INC., PHC, 411 E. 53rd St., New York NY 10022. (212)755-5486. President: R. Vanderbes. Estab. 1965. Produces material for a general theatrical audience. Buys all rights. Reports in 2 months.
Needs: Theatrical motion pictures. Produces and distributes 35mm motion pictures for theatrical, TV and videocassettes. Query with synopsis/outline and writing background/credits. Submit complete script, outline and SASE. Pays in accordance with Writers Guild standards.

PARALLEL PICTURES, P.O. Box 985B, Hollywood CA 90078. New Projects Executive: Rick Tyler. Estab. 1988. "For a general audience, ages 16-45; depends on project. We produce for domestic as well as overseas audiences." Works with 3 writers/year. Buys all rights. No previously published material. Reports in 2 months on queries; 6 months on scripts.

Needs: Films (35mm). "We are looking for feature-length screenplays—action/adventure, romantic comedy. We accept all genres—very openminded. We love rare and new ideas." Submit a short synopsis of script or project with a release form. Makes outright purchase.
Tips: "Take risks. I see too many replicas and poor development. If I don't see a plan of action or direction by the first 30 pages, something is wrong. Plots make the movie. That doesn't mean having many plots. You can keep it simple. Also, 80 pages is not feature length. Please bind all material. We won't look at a script made up of loose papers. Don't call us. We will call you."

☐ TOM PARKER MOTION PICTURES, #285, 3941 S. Bristol, Santa Anna CA 92704. (714)545-2887. Fax: (714)545-9775. President: Tom Parker. Produces and distributes feature-length motion pictures worldwide for theatrical, home video, pay and free TV. Also produces short subject "special interest films (30, 45, 60 minutes). Works with 5-10 scripts/year. Previously produced and distributed "Amazing Love Secret" (R), "Amorous Adventures of Ricky D." (R), and "The Sturgis Story" (R). Reports in 3-6 months. "Follow the instructions herein and do not phone for info or to inquire about your script."
Needs: "Complete script only for low budget (under $1 million) "R" or "PG" rated action/thriller, action/adventure, comedy, adult romance (R), sex comedy (R), family action/adventure to be filmed in 35mm film for the theatrical and home video market (do not send TV movie scripts, series, teleplays, stage plays). Very limited dialogue. Scripts should be action-oriented and fully described. Screen stories or scripts OK, but no camera angles please. No heavy drama, documentaries, social commentaries, dope stories, weird or horror. Violence or sex OK, but must be well motivated with strong story line." Submit synopsis and description of characters with finished scripts. Makes outright purchase: $5,000-25,000. Will consider participation, co-production.
Tips: "Absolutely will not return scripts or report on rejected scripts unless accompanied by SASE."

‡PLOTPOINT INC., Suite 301, 723 Westmount Dr., Los Angeles CA 90069. Contact: Rick Gitelson. Estab. 1987. Feature film and television audience. Buys 3 scripts/year. Works with 6-10 writers/year. Buys all rights. Accepts previously produced material. Reports in 1 month. Query with synopsis. Pay varies.

THE PUPPETOON STUDIOS, P.O. Box 2019, Beverly Hills CA 90213. Producer/Director: Arnold Leibovit. Estab. 1987. "Broad audience." Works with 5 writers/year. Buys all rights. Reports in 1 month on queries; 2 months on scripts. Query with synopsis. Submit complete script. A Submission Release must be included with all queries. Produced and directed "The Puppetoon Movie." SASE required for return of all materials—otherwise they will not be returned." Pays in accordance with Writers Guild standards. No novels, plays, poems, treatments; no submissions on computer disk.
Needs: Films (35mm). "We are seeking animation properties including presentation drawings and character designs. The more detailed drawings with animation scripts the better."

‡RAINMAKER PRODUCTIONS, 433 K St., Davis CA 95616. Producer/Publisher: Anastasia Ashman. Estab. 1992. Intelligent well rounded urban audience. Buys 1 ms/year. Works with 5 writers/year. Buys options, adaptations, screenplay rights, depends on the material's prospects. No previously produced material. Reports in 1 month. Query with synopsis of unpublished novels suitable for adaptation or publication. Pay varies. Options or makes outright purchase.
Needs: "Looking for fiction and nonfiction: clever suspense; women's back-to-nature issues; ecology and preservation; alternative health and fitness; feature length novels, progressive, positive; new family rearing techniques—post-self help."
Tips: "Give small companies a chance if you're a first-time writer; although their network may be small, the attention and understanding a new writer gets is far superior. A lot less heartache, more communication and opportunity to participate."

‡ROCKET PICTURES, #300, 9560 Wilshire Blvd., Beverly Hills CA 90212. (310)550-3300. Director of Development: Rod Park. Audience encompasses all ages, emphasis on teenage themes. Needs: "We look for all types of material, including strong women's stories, suspense thrillers, action-adventure—scripts or treatments." True stories must include documentation.
Tips: "Write realistic stories with strong characters with whom the viewer can identify. Be original."

‡SHORELINE PICTURES, #1774, 1901 Avenue of the Stars, Los Angeles CA 90067. (310)551-2060. Director of Development: Peter Soby, Jr. Estab. 1993. Mass audiences. Buys 8 scripts/year. Works with 8 writers/year. Buys all rights. Reports immediately on queries; 1 week on submissions. Query. Pays in accordance with Writers Guild standards.
Needs: Films (35, 70mm). Looking for "character-driven films that are very commercial. No exploitation or horror. Comedies and dramas, yes. Want completed screenplays only. We are especially keen to find a comedy. Note, there is an audience for adult films as reflected in films like The Piano, The Player, Crying Game, Joy Luck Club, etc. Principal of our company co-produced Glengarry Glen Ross."

‡SILHOUETTE PICTURES, 12420 Albers St., North Hollywood CA 91607. Contact: Laszlo Bene or Rizelle Mendoza. Estab. 1992. Buys 3 scripts/year. Works with 6 writers/year. Buys all rights. No previously produced material. Reports in 1 month on queries. Query with synopsis/outline. Pays in accordance with Writers Guild standards.
Needs: Films (35mm). Full-length theatrical features—low budget (up to 3M). Genres: action adventure, thriller, character-driven drama.
Tips: "Focus on stories of personal convictions. Don't be afraid of controversial subject matters."

Pays in accordance with Writers Guild Standards.
Needs: Films (16, 35mm), videotapes.
Tips: "Follow established formats for treatments. SASE for return."

‡SOUTHWEST PICTURES, P.O. Box 64428, Los Angeles CA 90064. (213)876-1163. Contact: Christopher Daniel or Andrew Crofoot. Estab. 1993. Audience is mass market (theatrical outlet). Buys 3 scripts/year. Works with 15 writers/year. Buys first rights. No previously produced material. Reports in 2 months. Catalog for #10 SASE. Send complete script. Pays in accordance with Writers Guild standards.
Needs: Films (35mm).

‡□STONEROAD PRODUCTIONS, INC., #909, 11288 Ventura Blvd., Studio City CA 91604. Contact: Story Department. Estab. 1992. Produces feature films for theaters, cable TV and home video. PG, R, and G-rated films. Buys/options 15-25 scripts/year. Works with 10 writers/year. Buys all rights; if published material, subsidiary rights. Accepts previously produced material. Reports in 1 month on queries; 2 months on submissions. Query with synopsis. Pay varies greatly: option, outright purchase, wide range.
Needs: Films (35mm). All genres. Looking for good material from writers who have taken the time to learn the unique and difficult craft of scriptwriting.
Tips: "Interesting query letters intrigue us—and tell us something about the writer. Query letter should include a short 'Log Line' or 'Pitch' encapsulating 'what this story is about and the genre' in just a few sentences. We look for strong stories and strong characters. We make movies that we would like to see. Producers are known for encouraging new (e.g. unproduced) screenwriters and giving real consideration to their scripts."

TALKING RINGS ENTERTAINMENT, P.O. Box 2019, Beverly Hills CA 90213-2019. President and Artistic Director: Arnold Leibovit. Estab. 1988. "We produce material for motion pictures and television." Buys 2

scripts/year. Works with 5 writers/year. Buys first rights or all rights. Reports on submissions in 2 months. Only send complete scripts. No treatments, novels, poems or plays, no submissions on computer disk. Query with synopsis. A Submission Release must be included with all queries. Produced and directed "The Fantasy Film Worlds of George Pal," "The Puppetoon Movie." Currently producing "The Time Machine Returns" and a remake of "The Seven Faces of Dr. Lao." SASE required for return of all materials. Pays in accordance with Writers Guild Standards.
Needs: Films (35mm), videotapes.

‡TAPESTRY FILMS, 9328 Civic Center Dr., Beverly Hills CA 90210. (310)275-1191. Vice President, Creative Development: Tara V. Zanecki. Estab. 1982. Audience is movie-goers and home video. Buys 4-5 scripts and/or ideas/year. Works with 5-10 writers/year. Buys all rights and a variety of deals and arrangements. Reports in 1-2 weeks on queries; 1-2 months on submissions. Query with synopsis and résumé. Makes outright purchase $10,000-200,000, in accordance with Writers Guild standards or based on film budget/collaboration deals/etc.
Needs: Films (35mm), videotapes. Looking for "treatments/full-length spec scripts. All genres except comedy and romance. Budgets either $1-5 million—or big studio pictures. Story driven (events/occurences) rather than character (actor)-driven material. Foreign locale preferred—LA and NYC too overdone!"

□TELEVISION PRODUCTION SERVICES CORP., Box 1233, Edison NJ 08818. (201)287-3626. Executive Director/Producer: R.S. Burks. Produces corporate and video music materials for major market distributor networks, etc. Buys 50-100 scripts/year. Buys all rights. Reports in 2 weeks.
Needs: "We do corporate and video music for record companies, ATT, HBO networks and commercials. We use treatments of story ideas from the groups' management. We also do commercials for over-the-air broadcast and cable. We are now doing internal inhouse video for display on disk or internally distributed channels, and need good script writers." Submit synopsis/outline or complete script and résumé; include SASE for response or materials will not be returned.
Tips: Looks for rewrite flexibility and availability. "We have the capability of transmission electronically over the phone modem to our printer or directly onto disk for storage. We commission or contract out all scripts."

‡□FRANCIS TERI, INDEPENDENT PRODUCTIONS, 807 E. 27th St., Brooklyn NY 11210. (718)258-4276. Contact: F. Teri. Estab. 1987. Produces material for foreign and domestic theatrical, video, cable, TV. Buys 1 script/year. Works with few writers/year. Buys all rights. Accepts previously produced material. Send complete script with synopsis. Makes outright purchase with royalty.
Needs: Films (35mm), videotapes, tapes and cassettes.

UNIFILMS, INC., 22931 Sycamore Creek Dr., Valencia CA 91354-2050. (805)297-2000. Vice President, Development: Jack Adams. Estab. 1984. Buys 0-5 scripts/year. Reports in 2 weeks on queries.
Needs: Feature films only. Looking for feature film screenplays, current format, 100-120 pages long; commercial but not stupid, dramatic but not "artsy," funny but not puerile. Query with synopsis and SASE. "If you don't include a SASE, we won't reply. We do not accept unsolicited scripts. Save your postage; if you send us a script we'll return it unopened."
Tips: "If you've taken classes, read books, attended seminars and writers' workshops all concerned with scriptwriting and read hundreds of produced studio screenplays prior to seeing the film and you're still convinced you've got a wonderful script, we might want to see it. But desire and enthusiasm are not enough; you have to have independent corroboration that your work is as good as you think it is. If you've got someone else in the entertainment industry to recommend your script, we might be more interested in seeing it. But if you waste our time with a project that's not yet ready to be seen, we're not going to react well. Your first draft is not usually the draft you're going to show to the industry. Get a professional opinion first, then rewrite before you submit to us. Very few people care about synopses, outlines or treatments for sales consideration. THE SCRIPT is the basic blueprint, and everyone in the country is working on a script. Ideas are a dime a dozen. If you can execute that idea well and get people excited about that idea, you've got something. But most writers are wanna-bes, who submit scripts that need a lot more work just to get to the 'promising' stage. Scripts are always rewritten. If you can't convince us you're a writer, we don't care. But if you can write and you've got a second wonderful script we might talk. But don't send a 'laundry list' of your scripts; pick the best one and pitch it to us. If it's not for us, then maybe come back with project number two. More than one project at a time confuses Hollywood; make it easy for us and you'll make it easy for yourself. And if you do it in a professional manner, you'll convince us sooner. Good luck, and keep writing. (Rewriting.)"

Needs: Scripts that will make TV drama.

‡VANGUARD PRODUCTIONS, 12111 Beatrice St., Culver City CA 90230. Contact: Terrence M. O'Keefe. Estab. 1985. Buys 1 script/year. Buys all rights or options rights. Accepts previously produced material.

Reports in 3 months on queries; 6 months on scripts. Query with synopsis and résumé. Pays in accordance with Writers Guild standards or negotiated option.
Needs: Films (35mm), videotapes.

‡VECCHIO ENTERTAINMENT, 3599 Beverly Glen Terrace, Sherman Oaks CA 91423. Director of Development: Eliot Winks. Estab. 1988. Buys 10 scripts/year. Works with 20 writers/year. Buys film and TV rights. Accepts previously produced plays. Reports in 1 month on queries; 2 months on scripts. Query with synopsis. Makes outright purchase in accordance with Writers Guild standards.
Needs: Feature films, MOWs. Looking for "We are looking for scripts that are commercial yet have a social issue edge to them."

VIDEO-VISIONS, #102, 10635 Wilshire Blvd., Los Angeles CA 90024-4530. Executive Producer: Christine Peres-Peña. Estab. 1986. "We produce material for children – educational as well as entertaining. I'm looking for a Spanish writer to write a Sesame Street/puppet-like show for Spanish TV with references to the Hispanic culture: its folklore, myths, music, art, architecture, food, roots etc. It must have comedic elements. It should teach morality, principles, virtues, science, math, history etc. I also need similar material in English." Buys 2-5 scripts/year. Buys all rights. Reports in 1 month on queries; 2 months on scripts. Catalog for 9×12 SAE.
Needs: Films (16, 35mm), videotapes. "We need children's programming for the Hispanic market and cartoons, educational programs (30 minutes) – fast action entertainment (1½ or 2 hours) and scripts that are dramatic experiences of women (and their relationships). Submit complete script. Makes outright purchase of $500-5,000 in accordance with Writers Guild standards.
Tips: "We are looking for original ideas that are entertaining, educational and meaningful with morals and principles."

□VISION FILMS, 4626 Lemona Ave., Sherman Oaks CA 91403. (818)784-1702. President: Stephen Rocha. Estab. 1989. "Worldwide audience." Buys 1 script/year. Works with 2-3 writers/year. Buys all rights. Reports in 2 months only with SASE. Submit synopsis/outline with résumé and information about where project has been previously pitched. Makes outright purchase to $5,000 with co-production opportunities.
Needs: Films (35mm), videotapes. Seeking 1) entertaining documentary 1 hour television program specials with worldwide appeal; 2) movies with Hispanic appeal; 3) movies with special effects (under 5 million dollar budget).
Tips: "We are currently producing 18-part series for The Discovery Channel entitled Movie Magic about special effects. Entering into season two."

‡ZACHARY ENTERTAINMENT, 1139 S. Crest Dr., Los Angeles CA 90035. Development Associate: Lois Gore. Estab. 1981. Audience is film goers of all ages, television viewers. Buys 8-10 scripts/year. Needs: Films.

‡ZETA ENTERTAINMENT LTD., 8315 Beverly Blvd., Los Angeles CA 90048. (213)653-4077. Director of Development: Kristen March. Estab. 1988. Buys 6 scripts/year. Works with over 12 writers/year. Buys all rights. No previously produced material. Reports in 1 month on queries; 2 months on scripts. Query with synopsis. Pays in accordance with Writers Guild standards.
Needs: Films (35mm)

‡THE ZVEJNIEKS GROUP, INC., 187 Cocohatchee St., Naples FL 33963. Contact: Ingrida Sylvia. Estab. 1983. "Emphasis is placed on quality of original written work for major motion picture production. Good writing creates its own audience." Limited to 15 projects in development at any given time. Rights negotiated on an individual basis. Accepts previously produced material. Reports in 1-2 months. Submit 1-page synopsis of story and characters. Pay negotiated on individual basis.
Needs: "As a producer of major motion pictures, our primary goal is to entertain audiences with quality movies. We are always looking for fresh, interesting, well-written stories with good character development. The script should elicit some sort of emotion from the reader/audience."
Tips: "According to Chairman Eric S. Zvejnieks, a serious problem facing the industry is a lack of genuine original creative material which would allow for greater diversity in films. Writing talent is often overlooked, an unfortunate reality partially attributable to the system within which writers work. The underlying philosophy of the company is that every great movie starts with a great story, a simple yet often forgotten concept."

Syndicates

Newspaper syndicates distribute columns, cartoons and other written material to newspapers around the country—and sometimes around the world. With newspaper circulation expected to drop over the next few years, competition for syndication slots is stiff. Coveted spots in sports, humor and political commentary are held by big-name columnists such as Peter Gammons, Dave Barry and Anna Quindlen. And multitudes of aspiring writers wait in the wings, hoping one of these heavy hitters will move on to something else and leave the spotlight open.

Although this may seem discouraging, there are in fact many areas in which less-known writers are syndicated. As consumer interests and lifestyles change, new doors are being opened for innovative writers who can cover fitness; recycling/environmental issues; money-saving tips; and how-to material such as woodworking, gardening and cooking.

Most syndicates distribute a variety of columns, cartoons and features. Although the larger ones are usually only interested in running ongoing material, smaller ones often accept short features and one-shots in addition to continuous columns. Specialized syndicates—those that deal with a single area such as business—often sell to magazines, trade journals and other business publications as well as to newspapers.

The winning combination

In presenting yourself and your work, note that most syndicated columnists start out writing for local newspapers. Many begin as staff writers, develop a following in a particular area, and are then picked up by a syndicate. Before approaching a syndicate, write for a paper in your area. Be sure to develop a good collection of clips that you feel is representative of your best writing.

New ideas are paramount to syndication. Sure, you'll want to study the popular columnists to see how their pieces are structured (most are short—from 500-750 words—and really pack a punch), but don't make the mistake of imitating a well-known columnist. Syndicates are looking for original material that is timely, saleable and original. Do not submit a column to a syndicate on a subject it already covers. The more unique the topic, the greater your chances of having it picked up. Most importantly, be sure to choose a topic that interests you and one you know well.

Approaching markets

Most syndicates prefer a query letter and about six sample columns or writing samples and a SASE. You may also want to include a client list and business card if available. If you have a particular area of expertise pertinent to your submission, mention this in your letter and back it up by sending related material. For highly specialized or technical matter, provide credentials to show you are qualified to handle the topic.

In essence, syndicates act as agents or brokers for the material they handle. Writing material is usually sold as a package. The syndicate will promote and market the work to newspapers (and sometimes to magazines) and keep careful records of sales. Writers usually receive 40-60% of gross receipts. Some syndicates may also pay a small salary or flat fee for one-shot items.

Syndicates usually acquire all rights to accepted material, although a few are now offering writers and artists the option of retaining ownership. In selling all rights, writers give up ownership and future use of their creations. Consequently, sale of all rights is not the best deal for writers, and has been the reason many choose to work with syndicates that buy less restrictive rights. Before signing a contract with a syndicate, you may want to go over the terms with an attorney or with an agent who has a background in law. The best contracts will usually offer the writer a percentage of gross receipts (as opposed to net receipts) and will not bind the writer for longer than five years.

The self-syndication option

Many writers choose to self-syndicate. This route allows you to retain all rights, and gives you the freedom of a business owner. But as a self-syndicated writer, you must also act as your own manager, marketing team and sales force. You must develop mailing lists, and a pricing, billing and collections structure.

Payment is usually negotiated on a case-by-case basis. Small newspapers may offer only $10-20 per column, but larger papers may pay much more (for more information on pay rates, see How Much Should I Charge? on page 42.). The number of papers you deal with is only limited by your marketing budget and your tenacity.

If you self-syndicate, be aware that some newspapers are not copyrighted, so you should copyright your own material. It's less expensive to copyright columns as a collection than individually. For more information on copyright procedures, see Copyrighting Your Writing in the Business of Writing section.

Additional information on newspaper markets can be found in The Gale Directory of Publications (available in most libraries). The Editor & Publisher Syndicate Directory (11 W. 19th St., New York NY 10011) has a list of syndicates, contact names and features; the weekly magazine, Editor & Publisher, also has news articles about syndicates and can provide you with information about changes and events in the industry.

For information on syndicates not included in Writer's Market, see Syndicates/Changes '94-'95 at the end of this section.

‡ADVENTURE FEATURE SYNDICATE, 329 Harvery Dr., Glendale CA 91206. (818)247-1721. Editor: Vicky D. Letcher. Estab. 1976. Reports in 1 month. Buys all rights, first North American serial rights and second serial (reprint) rights. Free cartoonist's guidelines.
Needs: Fiction (spies), fillers (adventure/travel), action/adventure comic strips and graphic novels. Submit complete ms.

ALLIED FEATURE SYNDICATE, P.O. Drawer 48, Joplin MO 64802-0048. (417)673-2860. Fax: (800)628-1705. Editor: Robert J. Blanset. Contact: Irene Blanset. Estab. 1944. 70% written on contract; 30% freelance on a one-time basis. Works with 36 writers/year. Works with 30 previously unpublished writers/year. Syndicates to newspapers (60%); magazines (30%); inhouse organs (10%). Submissions will be returned "only on request." Reports in 6 weeks. Buys all rights.
Needs: Buys news articles, cartoon strips, panels and features. Must be directly related to business, electronics, human resources, computers or quality and test design. All other non-related materials will be rejected and returned to sender if SASE is included. Query with clips of published work. Pays 50% author's percentage "after production costs" or 5¢/word. Currently syndicates "A Little Prayer," by Mary Alice Bennett (religious filler); "Murphy's Law of Electronics," by Nic Frising (cartoon panel); "Selling in the Year 2000," by Dick Meza (marketing column).
Tips: "Allied Feature Syndicate is one of very few agencies syndicating electronics manufacturing targeted materials and information."

AMERICA INTERNATIONAL SYNDICATE, 1324 N. Third St., St. Joseph MO 64561. (816)233-8190. Fax: (816)279-9315. Executive Director: Gerald A. Bennett. Associate Director (London office): Paul Eisler. Estab. 1979. 100% freelance written by cartoonists on contract. "We sell to newspapers, trade magazines, puzzle books and comic books." Reports in 6 weeks. Buys all rights.

Needs: Short fictional crime story "You Are The Detective" for magazines, books and comics; also comic strips of adventure, western or family type. Children's features and games also needed. Scientific or unusual features with art and written text needed. Send 6-8 samples with SASE. Pays 50% of gross sales. Currently syndication features: "Alfonso," "Silent Sam," "Tex Benson," "Buccaneers," "Figment," "Adventures in Nature" (comic strips). Panel features are "Stacey," "Girls," "The Edge," "Kids & Pets," and "Odds & Ends."
Tips: "Keep the art simple and uncluttered as possible. Know your subject and strive for humor. We have a need for uncaptioned cartoon panels and strips at present time."

AMPERSAND COMMUNICATIONS, 2311 S. Bayshore Dr., Miami FL 33133-4728. (305)285-2200. Editor: George Leposky. Estab. 1982. 100% written by writers on contract. "We syndicate only our own material at present, but we will consider working with others whose material is exceptionally good. Novices need not contact us." Syndicates to magazines and newspapers. Query for electronic submissions. Reports in up to 4 months. Buys all rights. Writer's guidelines $2 for SASE.
Needs: Newspaper columns, travel, business, science and health, regional cuisine, natural foods, environment; typically 500-750 words, rarely up to 1,500 words. Material from other writers must complement, not compete with, our own travel, business, environment, health and home improvement columns. Query with clips of published work and complete ms—samples of proposal columns. Pays 50% of net after production. "Note: For columns requiring photos, the writer must supply to us the required number of images and quantity of each image at his/her expense. We are not in the photo duplication business and will not provide this service." Currently syndicates Traveling the South, by George and Rosalie Leposky (travel); Business Insights, by Lincoln Avery (business); Food for Thought (cooking) by Rosalie Leposky; HealthScan, by George Leposky (health); EnviroScan, by George Leposky (environment); House and Home, by Lynne Avery (home improvement).
Tips: "Be an excruciatingly good writer; good alone isn't enough. Find a niche that doesn't seem to be covered. Do research to cover your topics in-depth, but in few words. The reader's attention span is shriveling, and so are ad lineage and column inches available for syndicated features."

ARKIN MAGAZINE SYNDICATE INC., Suite A8, 300 Bayview Dr., N. Miami Beach FL 33160-4747. Editor: Joseph Arkin. Estab. 1958. 20% freelance written by writers on contract; 70% freelance written on a one-time basis. "We regularly purchase articles from several freelancers for syndication in trade and professional magazines." Accepts previously published submissions, "if all rights haven't been sold." Reports in 3 weeks. Buys all North American magazine and newspaper rights.
Needs: Magazine articles (nonfiction, 750-2,200 words), directly relating to business problems common to several different types of businesses and photos (purchased with written material). "We are in dire need of the 'how-to' business article." Will not consider article series. Submit complete ms; "SASE required with all submissions." Pays 3-10¢/word; $5-10 for photos; "actually, line drawings are preferred instead of photos." Pays on acceptance.
Tips: "Study a representative group of trade magazines to learn style, needs and other facets of the field."

ARTHUR'S INTERNATIONAL, Suite 28-88, 101 S. Rainbow, Las Vegas NV 89128. (702)255-7866. Editor: Marvin C. Arthur. Syndicates to newspapers and magazines. Reports in 1 week. "SASE must be enclosed." Buys all rights.
Needs: Fillers, magazine columns, magazine features, newspaper columns, newspaper features and news items. "We specialize in timely nonfiction and historical stories, and columns, preferably the unusual. We utilize humor. Travel stories utilized in 'World Traveler.' " Buys one-shot features and article series. "Since the majority of what we utilize is column or short story length, it is better to submit the article so as to expedite consideration and reply. Do not send any lengthy manuscripts." Pays 50% of net sales, salary on some contracted work and flat rate on commissioned work. Currently syndicates "Marv," by Marvin C. Arthur (informative, humorous, commentary); "Humoresque," by Don Alexander (humorous); and "World Spotlight," by Don Kampel (commentary).
Tips: "We do not use cartoons but we are open for fine illustrators."

BUDDY BASCH FEATURE SYNDICATE, 771 West End Ave., New York NY 10025-5572. (212)666-2300. Editor/Publisher: Buddy Basch. Estab. 1965. 10% written on contract; 2% freelance written on a one-time basis. Buys 10 features/year. Works with 3-4 previously unpublished writers annually. Syndicates To print media: newspapers, magazines, giveaways, house organs, etc. Reports in 3 weeks. Buys first North American serial rights.
• Most stories are done inhouse.
Needs: Magazine features, newspaper features, and one-shot ideas that are really different. "Try to make them unusual, unique, real 'stoppers,' not the usual stuff." Will consider one-shots and article series on travel, entertainment, human interest—"the latter, a wide umbrella that makes people stop and read the piece. Different, unusual and unique are the key words, not what the writer thinks is, but which have been done nine million times before." Query. Pays 20-50% commission. Additional payment for photos $10-50.

Currently syndicates "It Takes a Woman," by Frances Scott (woman's feature), "Travel Whirl," "Scramble Steps" (puzzle) and others.
Tips: "Never mind what your mother, fiancé or friend thinks is good. If it has been done before and is old hat, it has no chance. Do some research and see if there are a dozen similar items in the press. Don't just try a very close 'switch' on them. You don't fool anyone with this. There are fewer and fewer newspapers, with more and more people vying for the available space. But there's always room for a really good, different feature or story. Trouble is few writers (amateurs especially) know a good piece, I'm sorry to say. Read Writer's Market, carefully, noting which syndicate might be interested in the type of feature you are submitting. That will save you time and money."

Needs: Magazine and newspaper columns; news items; magazine and newspaper features; radio broadcast material. Purchases single (one shot) features and articles series (current events oriented). Pays variable flat rate. Currently syndicates Bimonthly Report, by staff (roundup of minority-oriented news).

CHRONICLE FEATURES, Dept. WM, Suite 1011, 870 Market St., San Francisco CA 94102. (415)777-7212. General Manager: Stuart Dodds. Contact: Jean W. Arnold. Buys 3 features/year. Syndicates to daily newspapers in the US and Canada with representation overseas. Reports in 2 months.
Needs: Newspaper columns and features. "In choosing a column subject, the writer should be guided by the concerns and aspirations of today's newspaper reader. We look for originality of expression and, in special fields of interest, exceptional expertise." Preferred length: 500-700 words. Submit complete ms. Pays 50% revenue from syndication. Offers no additional payment for photos or artwork accompanying ms. Currently syndicates Latino Spectrum, by Roberto Rodriguez and Patrisia Gonazles (op-ed colun); Bizarro, by Dan Piraro (cartoon panel); Earthweek, by Steve Newman (planetary diary); Home Entertainment, by Harry Somerfield (audiovisual equipment advice and reviews); and Streetwise, by Herb Greenberg (up-to-the-minute business column).
Tips: "We are seeking features that will be ongoing enterprises, not single articles or news releases. Examples of a proposed feature are more welcome than a query letter describing it. Please conduct all correspondence by mail rather than by telephone."

‡CLEAR CREEK FEATURES, Box 3303, Grass Valley CA 95945. Editor: M. Drummond. Estab. 1988. 50% written on contract; 0% freelance written on a one-time basis. Buys 0 features/year. Works with 5 writers/year. Works with 2 previously unpublished writers/year. Syndicates to magazines and newspapers. Query for electronic submissions. Reports in 1 month. Buys first North American serial, all and second serial (reprint) rights. Writer's guidelines for #10 SASE. Submit complete ms or query with clips of published work.
Needs: Fiction, magazine and newspaper columns, fillers, magazine features. Pays 50% author's percentage. Currently syndicates Coping in the Country, by Mike Drummond (humor); The Voice of Experience, by various (humor/commentary).
Tips: "Identify a niche and dig in!"

‡THE COLUMBIA COMPANY, (formerly Columbia Features, Inc.), P.O. Box 1957, New Smyrna Beach FL 32169. (904)428-3024. Estab. 1994 (1953, CFI). 40% written on contract; 5% freelance written on a one-time basis. Buys 2 columns/features/year. Works with 4-5 writers/year. Syndicates to newspapers and radio. Query for electronic submissions. Reports in 6-8 weeks. Buys first North American serial rights. Free writer's guidelines. Query.
Needs: Newspaper columns and features, radio broadcast material and article series. Pays 60% author's percentage; $100 minimum guarantee; $150 flate rate; $500 monthly salary. Pays $50-150 for photos. Currently syndicates Trivia I.Q., by Robert Ferguson and submissions (newspaper); Sportsman's Digest, by Robert Ferguson, Hal Sharp (newspaper); Antique Wise, by freelance writers (newspaper).
Tips: "Writers should research newspapers and find absolutely nothing like their submission available through other syndicates (i.e., unique columns, not versions (better or worse) than other available columns and features)."

‡COMIC ART THERAPY, P.O. Box 7981, Corpus Christi TX 78415. (512)853-5406. Art Director: Pedro Moreno. Estab. 1975. 40% written on contract; 10% freelance written on a one-time basis. Buys 25 features/year. Works with 25 writers/year. Works with 10 new previously unpublished writers/year. Syndicates to magazines, newspapers and book stores. Submissions with SASE will not be returned. Reports in 1 month. Buys first North American serial rights, all rights or second serial (reprint) rights. Guidelines for $10. Submit $10 first (check or money order) for guidelines, then material.
Needs: Fillers; magazine and newspaper columns and features; news items; comic strips and panels, single features (500 words or less with illustration, comic strip or comic panel). Pays negotiable flat rate. Pays $25-100 for photos. Currently syndicates Oh! Rats, by Jerry Cardona (comic book); Don Pedrito Jaramillo, by Pedro Moreno (faith healing); How Great Thou Art, by James Rodriguez (song comic book).

CONTINENTAL FEATURES/CONTINENTAL NEWS SERVICE, Suite 265, 341 W. Broadway, San Diego CA 92101-3802. (619)492-8696. Editor: Gary P. Salamone. Estab. 1981. 100% written on contract; 30% freelance written on a one-time basis. "Writers who offer the kind and quality of writing we seek stand an equal chance regardless of experience." Syndicates to the print media. Reports in 1 month. Writer's guidelines for #10 SASE.
Needs: Magazine and newspaper features. "Feature material should fit the equivalent of one-quarter to one-half standard newspaper page, and Continental News considers an ultra-liberal or ultra-conservative slant inappropriate." Query. Pays 70% author's percentage. Currently syndicates "News and Comment," by Charles Hampton Savage (general news commentary/analysis); "Continental Viewpoint," by staff; "Portfolio," (cartoon/caricature art); "Travelers Checks," by Ann Hattes; "Middle East Cable," by Mike Maggio; and "InVideo," by Harley Lond; 24 features in all.
• This syndicate is now considering submissions for children's features.
Tips: "Continental News seeks country profiles/background articles that pertain to foreign countries. Writers who possess such specific knowledge/personal experience stand an excellent chance of acceptance, provided they can focus the political, economic and social issues. We welcome them to submit their proposals. We foresee the possibility of diversifying our feature package by representing writers and feature creators through a team-marketing network nationwide. We have plans to introduce 40 new text features alone."

COPLEY NEWS SERVICE, P.O. Box 190, San Diego CA 92112. (619)293-1818. Fax: (619)293-2322. Editorial Director: Nanette Wiser. 85% written by stringers on contract; 15% freelance written on a one-time basis. Offers 200 features/week. Sells to magazines, newspapers, radio, on-line television. Reports in 1-2 months. Buys all rights or second serial (reprint) rights (sometimes).
Needs: Fillers, magazine and newspaper columns and features. Looking for video, food, travel, opinion, new ideas. Subjects include interior design, outdoor recreation, fashion, antiques, real estate, pets, gardening. Buys one-shot and articles series. Query with clips of published work. Pays $50-100 flat rate or $400 salary/month.

CREATE-A-CRAFT, P.O. Box 330008, Ft. Worth TX 76163. (817)292-1855. Contact: Editor. Estab. 1967. 5% written by writers on contract; 50% freelance written. Buys 5 features/year. Works with 3 writers/year. Works with 3 previously unpublished writers/year. Syndicates to magazines and newspapers. Reports in 4 months. Submissions will not be returned. Buys all rights. Writer's guidelines $2.50 for #10 SASE. Prefers agented submissions only (submit complete ms).
Needs: Magazine and newspaper columns and features. "Looking for material on appraising, art, decorative arts, politics (how politics affect art only); 400-2,000 words. Comics must be in strip form only." Pays $6-10 flat hourly rate (depending on project). All work is work-for-hire. Currently syndicates Appraisals by Abramson (appraisal column); Those Characters from Cowtown (cartoon); Rojo (cartoon); Golden Gourmets (cartoon); Gallant Gators (cartoon). Author is always listed as Create-A-Craft (no byline given).
Tips: "Know the market you are writing for."

CREATIVE SYNDICATION SERVICES, P.O. Box 40, Eureka MO 63025-0040. (314)938-9116. Fax: (314)343-0966. Editor: Debra Holly. Estab. 1977. 10% written on contract; 50% freelance written on a one-time basis. Syndicates to magazines, newspapers and radio. Query for electronic submissions. Reports in 1 month. Buys all rights. Currently syndicates The Weekend Workshop, by Ed Baldwin; Woodcrafting, by Ed Baldwin; and Classified Clippers, a feature exclusive for the Classified Section of newspapers.
Tips: "We are looking for writers who do crafts, woodworking, needle-crafts and sewing."

CREATORS SYNDICATE, INC., Suite 700, 5777 W. Century Blvd., Los Angeles CA 90045. (310)337-7003. Vice President/General Manager: Anita Tobias. Estab. 1987. Syndicates to newspapers. Reports in 1-2 months. Buys negotiable rights. Writer's guidelines for #10 SASE.
Needs: Newspaper columns and features. Query with clips of published work or submit complete ms. Author's percentage: approximately 50%. Currently syndicates Ann Landers (advice), Harris Poll, Walter E. Williams, Mona Charen, Percy Ross and Thomas Sowell (columns), B.C. and Wizard of Id (comic strips) and Herblock (editorial cartoon).

CRICKET COMMUNICATIONS, INC., P.O. Box 527, Ardmore PA 19003-0527. (215)789-2480. Editor: J.D. Krickett. Estab. 1975. 10% written on contract; 10% freelance written on a one-time basis. DANY NEWS SERVICE, 22 Lesley Dr., Syosset NY 11791. Editor: David Nydick. Estab. 1966. Buys 10% from freelancers. Buys 30 features/year (from freelancers). Syndicates to newspapers. Reports in 1 month. Buys all rights. Submit complete ms.
Needs: Newspaper columns and features, how-to (help your child). Pays $50 minimum guarantee. "You, Your Child and School," "You, Your Child and Sports," and "You, Your Child and Entertainment," (how-to help your child).

EDITORIAL CONSULTANT SERVICE, P.O. Box 524, West Hempstead NY 11552-1206. (516)565-6332. Editorial Director: Arthur A. Ingoglia. Estab. 1964. 40% written on contract; 25% freelance written on a one-time basis. "We work with 75 writers in the US and Canada." Previously published writers only. Adds about 5 new columnists/year. Syndicates material to an average of 60 newspapers, magazines, automotive trade and consumer publications, and radio stations with circulation of 50,000-575,000. Buys all rights. Writer's guidelines for #10 SASE. Reports in 1-2 months.
Needs: Magazine and newspaper columns and features, news items, radio broadcast material. Prefers carefully documented material with automotive slant. Also considers automotive trade features. Will consider article series. No horoscope, child care, lovelorn or pet care. Query. Author's percentage varies; usually averages 50%. Additional payment for 8×10 b&w and color photos accepted with ms. Submit 2-3 columns. Currently syndicates Let's Talk About Your Car, by R. Hite.
Tips: "Emphasis is placed on articles and columns with an automotive slant. We prefer consumer-oriented features, how to save money on your car, what every woman should know about her car, how to get more miles per gallon, etc."

ENTERTAINMENT NEWS SYNDICATE, 155 East 55th St., New York NY 10022. (212)223-1821. Fax: (212)223-3737. Editor: Lee Canaan. Estab. 1970. 10% written on contract. Syndicates to newspapers and magazines. Reports in 1 month. Buys all rights. Free writer's guidelines.

HISPANIC LINK NEWS SERVICE, 1420 N St. NW, Washington DC 20005. (202)234-0280. Fax: (202)234-4090. Publisher: Charles A. Ericksen. Editor: Jonathan Higuera. Estab. 1980. 50% freelance written on contract; 50% freelance written on a one-time basis. Buys 156 columns and features/year. Works with 50 writers/year; 5 previously unpublished writers. Syndicates to 100 newspapers and magazines with circulations ranging from 5,000 to 300,000. Reports in up to 1 month. Buys second serial (reprint) or negotiable rights. For reprints, send photocopy of article. Pays 100% of the amount paid for an original article ($25 for guest columns). Free writer's guidelines.
Needs: Newspaper columns and features. One-shot features and article series. "We prefer 650-700 word op/ed analysis or new features geared to a general national audience, but focus on issue or subject of particular interest to Hispanic Americans. Some longer pieces accepted occasionally." Query or submit complete ms. Pays $25-100. Currently syndicates Hispanic Link, by various authors (opinion and/or feature columns).
Tips: "We would especially like to get topical material and vignettes relating to Hispanic presence and progress in the United States. Provide insights on Hispanic experience geared to a general audience. Of the columns we accept, 85 to 90% are authored by Hispanics; the Link presents Hispanic viewpoints and showcases Hispanic writing talent through its subscribing newspapers and magazines. Copy should be submitted in English. We syndicate in English and Spanish."

HOLLYWOOD INSIDE SYNDICATE, P.O. Box 49957, Los Angeles CA 90049-0957. (909)678-6237. Fax: (909)678-6237. Editor: John Austin. Estab. 1968. 10% written on contract; 40% freelance written on a one-time basis. Purchases entertainment-oriented mss for syndication to newspapers in San Francisco, Philadelphia, Detroit, Montreal, London, Sydney, Manila, South Africa, etc. Accepts previously published submissions, if published in the US and Canada only. Reports in 3 months.
Needs: News items (column items concerning entertainment—motion picture—personalities and jet setters for syndicated column; 750-800 words). Also considers series of 1,500-word articles; "suggest descriptive query first. We are also looking for off-beat travel pieces (with pictures) but not on areas covered extensively in the Sunday supplements; not luxury cruise liners but lower cost cruises. We also syndicate nonfiction book subjects—sex, travel, etc., to overseas markets. No fiction. Must have b&w photos with submissions if possible." Also require 1,500-word celebrity profiles on internationally recognized celebrities. We stress internationally." Query or submit complete ms. Currently syndicates Books of the Week column and "Celebri-Quotes," "Movie Trivia Quiz," "Hollywood Inside."
Tips: "Study the entertainment pages of Sunday (and daily) newspapers to see the type of specialized material we deal in. Perhaps we are different from other syndicates, but we deal with celebrities. No 'I' journalism such as 'when I spoke to Cloris Leachman.' Many freelancers submit material from the 'dinner theater' and summer stock circuit of 'gossip type' items from what they have observed about the 'stars' or featured players in these productions—how they act off stage, who they romance, etc. We use this material."

‡INTERNATIONAL PUZZLE FEATURES, 740 Van Rensselaer Ave., Niagara Falls NY 14305. Contact: Pat Battaglia. Estab. 1990. 0% written on contract; 5-10% freelance written on a one-time basis. Buys 10 features/year. Works with 0 writers/year. Works with all new previously unpublished writers. Syndicates to newspapers. Reports in 1 month. Writer's guidelines for #10 SASE. Submit complete ms.
Needs: Concisely written, entertaining word puzzles. Pays $5 flat rate/puzzle. Currently syndicates If You're So Smart . . ., by Pat Battaglia (word puzzles).

INTERPRESS OF LONDON AND NEW YORK, 400 Madison Ave., New York NY 10017-1909. (212)832-2839. Editor: Jeffrey Blyth. Estab. 1971. 50% freelance written on contract; 50% freelance written on a one-time basis. Works with 3-6 previously unpublished writers/year. Buys British and European rights mostly, but can handle world rights. Accepts previously published submissions "for overseas." Pays on publication or agreement of sale. Reports in 3 weeks.
Needs: "Unusual nonfiction stories and photos for British and European press. Picture stories, for example, on such 'Americana' as a 5-year-old evangelist; the 800-pound 'con-man'; the nude-male calendar; tallest girl in the world; interviews with pop celebrities such as Madonna, Michael Jackson, Bill Cosby, Tom Selleck, Cher, Priscilla Presley, Bette Midler, Eddie Murphy, Liza Minelli; also news of stars on top TV shows; cult subjects such as voodoo, college fads, anything amusing or offbeat. Extracts from books such as Earl Wilson's Show Business Laid Bare, inside-Hollywood type series ('Secrets of the Stuntmen'). Real life adventure dramas ('Three Months in an Open Boat,' 'The Air Crash Cannibals of the Andes'). No length limits—short or long, but not too long. Query or submit complete ms. Payment varies; depending on whether material is original, or world rights. Pays top rates, up to several thousand dollars, for exclusive material."

Photos: Purchased with or without features. Captions required. Standard size prints. Pay $50-100, but no limit on exclusive material.
Tips: "Be alert to the unusual story in your area—the sort that interests the American tabloids (and also the European press)."

INTERSTATE NEWS SERVICE, 237 S. Clark Ave., St. Louis MO 63135. (314)522-1300. Fax: (314)522-1999. Editor: Michael J. Olds. Estab. 1985. "Interstate acts as the local news bureau for newspapers that are too small to operate their own state capital bureau." Buys all rights and makes work-for-hire assignments. Call for information.
Needs: Independent news reporters on long-term contract to open new state capital bureaus. Must be experienced news reporters to write stories with hard news emphasis, concentrating on local delegations, tax money and local issues. Query with clips of published work. Reports in 6 months. Buys all rights. Query with clips of published work. Writer's guidelines for #10 SASE.
Needs: Magazine and newspaper columns and features, news items, fillers, radio broadcast material. Purchases single (one shot) features and articles series. "Looking for articles on health and fitness (nutrition, healthy recipes, sports medicine, exercise tips, running, tennis, golf, bowling, aerobics, cycling, swimming, cross-training, watersports, travel, medical advice)." Also offers to list author's business affiliation, address, and phone number in article.

Tips: "Be highly qualified in the area that you are writing about. If you are going to write a medical column, you must be a doctor, or at least affiliated with a nationally recognized medical organization."

NEW YORK TIMES SYNDICATION SALES CORP., Dept. WM, 122 E. 42nd St., New York NY 10068. (212)499-3300. Fax: (212)499-3382. Executive Editor: Gloria Brown Anderson. Syndicates numerous one-shot articles. Buys second serial (reprint) rights or all rights.
Needs: Magazine and newspaper features. "On syndicated articles, payment to author is varied. We consider only articles that have been previously published." Send tearsheets of article. Pays 50% of any sales. Photos are welcome with articles.
Tips: "Topics should cover universal markets and either be by a well-known writer or have an off-beat quality. Quizzes are welcomed if well researched."

NEWS FLASH INTERNATIONAL, INC., Division of the Observer Newspapers, 2262 Centre Ave., Bellmore NY 11710-3400. (516)679-9888. Editor: Jackson B. Pokress. Estab. 1960. 25% written on contract; 25% freelance written on a one-time basis. Supplies material to Observer newspapers and overseas publications. Works with 10-20 previously unpublished writers annually. "Contact editor prior to submission to allow for space if article is newsworthy." Pays on publication. Reports in 2 months.
Nonfiction: "We have been supplying a 'ready-for-camera' sports page (tabloid size) complete with column and current sports photos on a weekly basis to many newspapers on Long Island, as well as pictures and written material to publications in England and Canada. Payment for assignments is based on the article. Payments vary from $20 for a feature of 800 words. Our sports stories feature in-depth reporting as well as book reviews on this subject. We are always in the market for good photos, sharp and clear, action photos of boxing, wrestling, football, baseball and hockey. We cover all major league ball parks during the baseball and football seasons. We are accredited to the Mets, Yanks, Jets and Giants. During the winter we cover basketball and hockey and all sports events at the Nassau Coliseum."
Photos: Purchased on assignment; captions required. Uses "good quality 8×10 b&w glossy prints; good choice of angles and lenses." Pays $7.50 minimum for b&w photos.
Tips: "Submit articles which are fresh in their approach on a regular basis with good quality black and white glossy photos if possible; include samples of work. We prefer well-researched, documented stories with quotes where possible. We are interested in profiles and bios on woman athletes. There is a big interest in this in the foreign market. Women's boxing, volleyball and basketball are major interests."

NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSOCIATION, INC., Dept. WM, 200 Park Ave., New York NY 10166-0079. (212)692-3700. Director, Syndicate: Sidney Goldberg. Editorial Director: Diana Loevy. Managing Editor, Comic Art: Amy Lago. 100% written by writers on contract. "We provide a comprehensive package of features to mostly small- and medium-sized newspapers." Reports in 6 weeks. Buys all rights.
Needs: "Any column we purchase must fill a need in our feature lineup and must have appeal for a wide variety of people in all parts of the country. We are most interested in lively writing. We are also interested in features that are not merely copies of other features already on the market. The writer must know his or her subject. Any writer who has a feature that meets all of those requirements should send a few copies of the feature to us, along with his or her plans for the column and some background material on the writer." Current columnists include Hodding Carter, III, Chuck Stone, Dr. Peter Gott, Ben Wattenberg and William Rusher. Current comics include Born Loser, Frank & Ernest, Big Nate, Kit'n' Carlyle, Berry's World, Arlo and Janis, and Snafu.
Tips: "We get enormous numbers of proposals for first person columns—slice of life material with lots of anecdotes. While many of these columns are big successes in local newspapers, it's been our experience that they are extremely difficult to sell nationally. Most papers seem to prefer to buy this sort of column from a talented local writer."

ROYAL FEATURES, P.O. Box 58174, Houston TX 77258. (713)280-0777. Executive Director: Fay W. Henry. Estab. 1984. 80% written on contract; 10% freelance written on one-time basis. Syndicates to magazines and newspapers. Reports in 2 months. Buys all rights or first North American serial rights.
Needs: Magazine and newspaper columns and features. Buys one-shot features and article series. No previously published material. Query with or without published clips. Send SASE with unsolicited queries or materials. Pays 40-60% authors percentage.

SENIOR WIRE, Clear Mountain Communications, 2377 Elm St., Denver CO 80207. (303)355-3882. Fax: (303)355-2720. Editor: Allison St. Claire. Estab. 1988. 100% freelance written. Monthly news, information and feature syndication service to various senior publications, and companies interested in senior market. Circulation nationwide, varies per article depending on which articles are bought for publication. Pays 50% of fee for each use of ms (fees range from $5-30). Pays on publication. Buys first North American serial and simultaneous rights. Submit seasonal/holiday material 3 months in advance. Prefers mss; queries only with SASE. No payment for photos but they help increase sales. Reports in up to 3 months. Writer's guidelines

$1 with SASE. Query for electronic submissions. Please indicate on top of ms if available on 3.5" or 5.25" floppy disk or by modem.
Needs: Does not want "anything aimed at less than age 55-plus market; anything patronizing or condescending to seniors." Manuscripts requested include: seasonal features, especially those with a nostalgic angle (750-800 words); older celebrity profiles, photos required (900-1,100 words); travel tips (no more than 500-750 words); personal travel experiences as a mature traveler, photos a must (1,000 words); poems (100-500 words); or miscellaneous other material of universal interest to seniors. Accepts 12 mss in each category/year.
Tips: "All areas open to freelancers. Sometimes give assignments to proven, reliable freelancers whose work has sold well through the syndication. Want fresh approach to senior issues; overworked themes not appreciated. Solid informational and generic articles accepted. We will not promote any product or business unless it is the only one in existence. Must be applicable to senior lifestyle."

SINGER MEDIA CORPORATION, Seaview Business Park, Unit #106, 1030 Calle Cordillera, San Clemente CA 92673-6234. (714)498-7227. Fax: (714)498-2162. Editors: Helen J. Lee and Kurt Singer. Contact: Peter Carbone. Estab. 1940. 25% written on contract; 25% freelance written on a one-time basis. Syndicates to magazines, newspapers, cassettes, book publishers. Reports in 1 month. Rights negotiable, world rights preferred. Writer's guidelines for $2 and #10 SAE.
Needs: Puzzles, quizzes, interviews, entertainment and psychology features, cartoons, books for serialization and foreign reprints. Syndicates one-shot features and article series on celebrities. Query with clips of published work. Pays 50% author's percentage. Currently syndicates Solve a Crime, by B. Gordon (mystery puzzle) and Hollywood Gossip, by June Finletter (entertainment).
Tips: "Good interviews with celebrities, men/women relations, business and job-related features have a good chance with us. Aim at world distribution and therefore have a universal approach."

‡SPECIALTY FEATURES SYNDICATE, 17255 Redford Ave., Detroit MI 48219. Managing Editor: L. E. Crandall. Estab. 1952. Buys 40-50 features/year. Syndicates to magazines (occasionally) and newspapers (currently serving 480 newspapers). Reports in 2-3 months. Buys all rights. Query with brief outlines.
Needs: Magazine and newspaper features, single features, articles series. "We specialize in 'how-to' material with emphasis on health, food, nutrition, self-improvement and book condensations of subjects with wide appeal. Pays on acceptance and is negotiable.

‡THE SPORTS NETWORK, 701 Masons Mill, Huntingdon Valley PA 19006. (215)947-2400. Contact: Rosalind Tucker. Estab. 1980. 30% written on contract; 10-15% freelance written on a one-time basis. Buys 200-250 features/year. Works with 50-60 writers/year. Works with 7-10 new previously unpublished writers/year. Syndicates to magazines, newspapers, radio and "we are also an international wire service." Query for electronic submissions. Reports immediately. Buys all rights. Free writer's guidelines. Query with clips of published work.
Needs: Fillers, magazine and newspaper columns and features, news items, radio broadcast material, single features (timely sports pieces, 200-300 words—more if piece is exceptional). Pays variable. Currently syndicates Sports Marketing, by Howard Schlossberg (marketing sports plus opinions on topical matters); NHL Update, by Anthony Gargano (NHL); Olympic Update, by Steve Abbott (Olympics); College Football and Basketball Analysis, by Mark Narducci; Opinion and Commentary, by Jack Whitaker.
Tips: "The competition is fast and furious so luck is as much an ingredient as talent. Making inroads to one syndicate for even one feature is an amazing door opener. Focus on the needs of that syndicate or wire (as we are) and establish a proven track record with quality work that suits specific needs. Don't give up and don't abandon the day job. No one who reads submissions really 'knows' but we are different in that we are looking for very specific items and not that magical cartoon, feature or story. Just give us your best in sports and make certain that it is in tune with what is happening right now."

SYNDICATED FICTION PROJECT, P.O. Box 15650, Washington DC 20003. Director: Caroline Marshall. Estab. 1982. 100% freelance written on a one-time basis. Receives submissions in January only each year; replies by late May. Buys all rights for 3 years. Reports in 4 months.
Needs: Fiction (short stories of 2,500 words or fewer). Submit complete ms (January only). "Please send #10 SASE to Project for guidelines first." Pays flat rate of $500 for purchase of rights, $100/print publication thereafter, $100 if used in print or audio anthology.
Tips: "We're looking for stories of exceptional quality that have a 'high narrative profile' (principally because they work best on radio)."

SYNDICATED NEWS SERVICE, 232 Post Ave., Rochester NY 14619-1398. (716)328-2144. Fax: (716)328-7018. E-mail: SWS@rochgte.fidonet.org; also New York and Toronto bureaus. Editor/Publisher: Frank Judge. Estab. 1982. 50% written by writers on contract. Buys 10-20 features/year. Works with 5-10 previously unpublished writers/year. Syndicates to newspapers and magazines (weekly, daily and monthly). Reports in

6 months. Buys all rights. "Use Writer's Digest recommendations for submission format." Accepts submissions by disk, fax and e-mail.
Needs: Fiction, fillers, magazine and newspaper columns and features and news items. "Please send submissions in manuscript form with finished art if applicable." Does not purchase single (one-shot) features. Submit complete ms. Author's percentage 50% of gross sales. Currently syndicates Filmbriefs by Frank Judge (entertainment), Windows by Paul Murphy (computer), Mind & Body by Dr. Julian Whitaker (health), Fast Forward by Mike Cidoni (entertainment), Fractured Facts by John Locke (cartoons), Deliberate Tourist by Mary Whitney (travel).

Tips: "Do not submit handwritten material or bad copies. Send clean typewritten material."

UNITED FEATURE SYNDICATE, 200 Park Ave., New York NY 10166-0079. (212)692-3700. Syndicate Director: Sid Goldberg. Executive Editor: Diana Loevy. Director International Newspaper Operations: Edvard Kaplan. Managing Editor, Comic Art: Amy Lago. 100% contract writers. Supplies features to 1,700 US newspapers, plus Canadian and other international papers. Works with published writers. Query with 4-6 samples and SASE. Reports in 2 months.
Needs: Current columnists include Jack Anderson, Judith Martin, Donald Lambro, Martin Sloane. Comic strips include Peanuts, Nancy, Drabble, Marmaduke, Rose is Rose to Dilbert. Standard syndication contracts are offered for columns and comic strips.
Tips: "We buy the kind of writing similar to other major syndicates—varied material, well-known writers. The best way to break in to the syndicate market is for writers to latch on with a major newspaper and to develop a following. Also, cultivate new areas and try to anticipate trends."

UNIVERSAL PRESS SYNDICATE, Dept. WM, 4900 Main St., Kansas City MO 64112. (816)932-6600. Contact: Syndicate Editorial. Estab. 1970. Buys syndication rights. Reports normally in 1 month. Return postage required.
Nonfiction: Looking for features—columns for daily and weekly newspapers. Distributes one-shot articles (profiles, lifestyle pieces, etc). "Any material suitable for syndication in daily newspapers." Currently handling James J. Kilpatrick, Dear Abby, Erma Bombeck and others. Payment varies according to contract.

WASHINGTON POST WRITERS GROUP, 1150 15th St. NW, Washington DC 20071-9200. (202)334-6375. Editorial Director/General Manager: Alan Shearer. Estab. 1973. Currently syndicates 32 features (columns and cartoons). News syndicate that provides features for newspapers nationwide. Reports in 3 weeks. Buys all rights.
Needs: Newspaper columns (editorial, lifestyle, humor), and features (comic strips, political cartoons). Query with clips of published work and samples of proposed column. Currently syndicates George F. Will column (editorial), Ellen Goodman column (editorial), David Broder column (editorial), William Raspberry column (editorial) and June Bryant Quinn column (financial). Writers Group will not consider freelance single articles or stories.
Tips: "The Washington Post Writers Group will review editorial page and lifestyle page columns, as well as political cartoons and comic strips. Probably will not consider games, puzzles, or similar features. Send sample columns and cartoons or comic strips (photocopies—no original artwork, please) to the attention of Alan Shearer, editorial director. Enclose a SASE for the return and response."

WHITEGATE FEATURES SYNDICATE, 71 Faunce Dr., Providence RI 02906. (401)274-2149. Contact: Eve Green. Editor: Ed Isaac. Estab. 1987. Buys 100% of material from freelance writers. Greeting Cards & Gift Ideas

How many greeting cards showed up in your mailbox last year? If you are in line with the national average, you received 31 cards, seven of them for your birthday. That's according to figures published by The Greeting Card Association, a national trade organization representing the multi-billion dollar greeting card industry.

In fact, nearly 50% of all first class mail now consists of greeting cards. And, of course, card manufacturers rely on writers to supply them with enough skillfully crafted sentiments to meet the demand. The perfect greeting card verse is one that will appeal to a large audience, yet will make each buyer feel that the card was written exclusively for him or her.

Three greeting card companies continue to dominate this industry; together, American Greetings, Hallmark and Gibson Greetings supply about 80% of all cards sold. The other 20% are published by hundreds of companies who have found success mainly by not competing head to head with the big three but by choosing instead to pursue niche markets—regional and special-interest markets that the big three either cannot or do not supply.

A professional approach to markets

As markets become more focused, it's important to keep current on specific company needs. Familiarize yourself with the differences among lines of cards by visiting card racks. Ask retailers which lines are selling best. You may also find it helpful to read trade magazines such as Greetings and Party and Paper Retailer. These publications will keep you apprised of changes and events within the field, including seminars and trade shows.

Once you find a card line that appeals to you, write to the company and request its market list, catalog or submission guidelines (usually available for a SASE or a small fee). This information will help you determine whether or not your ideas are appropriate for that market.

Submission procedures vary among greeting card publishers, depending on the size and nature of the company. Keep in mind that many companies (especially the large ones) will not review your writing samples until you've signed and returned their disclosure contract or submission agreement, assuring them that your material is original and has not been submitted elsewhere.

Some editors prefer to see individual card ideas on 3×5 cards, while others prefer to receive a number of complete ideas on 8½×11 bond paper. Be sure to put your best pieces at the top of the stack. Most editors do not want to see artwork unless it is professional, but they do appreciate conceptual suggestions for design elements. If your verse depends on an illustration to make its point or if you have an idea for a unique card shape or foldout, include a dummy card with your writing samples.

The usual submission includes from 5 to 15 card ideas and an accompanying cover letter, plus mechanical dummy cards, if necessary. Some editors also like to receive a résumé, client list and business card. Some do not. Be sure to check the listings and the company's writer's guidelines for such specifications before submitting material.

Payment for greeting card verse varies, but most firms pay per card or per idea; a handful pay small royalties. Some companies prefer to test a card first and will pay a small fee for a test card idea. In some instances, a company may even purchase an idea and never use it.

Greeting card companies will also buy ideas for gift products and may plan to use card material for a number of subsequent items. Licensing—the sale of rights to a particular character for a variety of products from mugs to T-shirts—is a growing part of the greetings industry. Because of this, however, note that most card companies buy all rights. We now include in this section markets for licensed product lines such as mugs, bumper stickers, buttons, posters and the like.

Information of interest to writers wishing to know more about working with the greeting card industry is available from the Greeting Card Creative Network. Write to them at Suite 760, 1200 G Street NW, Suite 760, Washington, DC 20005.

Managing your submissions

Because you will be sending out many samples, you may want to label each sample. Establish a master card for each verse idea and record where and when each was sent and whether it was rejected or purchased. Keep all cards sent to one company in a batch and give each batch a number. Write this number on the back of your return SASE to help you match up your verses as they are returned.

For more information on greeting card companies not listed in Writer's Market, see Greeting Card & Gift Ideas/Changes '94-'95 at the end of this section.

‡ALLPORT EDITIONS INC., 532 NW 12th, Portland OR 97209. Contact: Michael Allport or Victoria Allport. Estab. 1982. 10% freelance written. Bought 25 ideas/samples last year. Submit seasonal/holiday material 6 months in advance. Reports in 3 months. Pays on publication. Writer's guidelines free. Market list available on mailing list basis.
Needs: Juvenile, conventional, inspirational, humorous. Submit no fewer than 8 ideas/batch.
Tips: Looking for "alternative cards, whimsical, humorous."

AMBERLEY GREETING CARD CO., 11510 Goldcoast Dr., Cincinnati OH 45249-1695. (513)489-2775. Editor: Ned Stern. Estab. 1966. 90% freelance written. Bought 200 freelance ideas/samples last year. Reports in 1 month. Material copyrighted. Buys all rights. Pays on acceptance. Writer's guidelines for #10 SASE. Market list regularly revised.
Needs: "Original, easy to understand, belly-laugh or outrageous humor. We sell to the 'masses, not the classes' so keep it simple and to the point. Humor accepted in all captions, including general birthday, family birthday, get well, anniversary, thank you, friendship, etc. No non-humorous material needed or considered this year. Pays $150/card idea."
• This company is now accepting seasonal humor.
Tips: "Send SASE for our writer's guidelines before submitting. Amberley publishes humorous specialty lines in addition to a complete conventional line that is accented with humor. Since humor is our specialty, we are highly selective. Be sure that a SASE with the correct US postage is included with your material. Otherwise it will not be returned."

AMERICAN GREETINGS, Dept. WM, One American Rd., Cleveland OH 44144. (216)252-7300. Creative Recruitment Dept: Lynne Shlonsky. No unsolicited material. "We like to receive a letter of inquiry describing education or experience, or a résumé first. We then request samples from those that interest us." Reports in 3 months. Buys all rights. Pays on acceptance. Guidelines for #10 SASE.
Tips: "Our target audience is the mass-market retail crowd, so we're open to conventional verse, contemporary prose, humorous verse and off-the-wall humor styles."

ARGUS COMMUNICATIONS, 200 E. Bethany, Allen TX 75002-3804. (214)390-6300. Fax: (214)727-2175. Editorial Coordinator: Lori Potter. 90% freelance written. Primarily interested in material for posters. Reports in 2 months. Buys all rights. Pays on acceptance. Submission guidelines available for #10 SASE.
Needs: Posters for teachers to place in their classrooms that are positive, motivational, inspirational, thought-provoking and success oriented. Also poster editorial that reflects basic values such as honesty, integrity, kindness, trust etc. Teamwork and conflict resolution are target subjects as well. Also posters for teenagers ages 13-18 humorously captioned with brief text reflecting current trends, lifestyles and attitudes. Humor and light sarcasm are the emphasis for this age group.

Other Product Lines: Greeting cards, postcards, calendars.
Tips: "Keep in mind that poster editorial is an at-a-glance message that is succinct and memorable. Our posters capture your attention with a creative mixture of humorous, dynamic and motivational editorial. We encourage you to be funny, to be inspirational, but also to be brief. Please indicate the market your submission is for on the outside of your envelope."

BLUE MOUNTAIN ARTS, INC., Dept. WM, P.O. Box 1007, Boulder CO 80306-1007. Contact: Editorial Staff. Estab. 1971. Buys 100+ items/year. Reports in 6-8 months. Pays on publication.
Needs: "We are interested in reviewing poetry and writings that would be appropriate for greeting cards, which means that they should reflect a message, feeling, or sentiment that one person would want to share with another. We'd like to receive sensitive, original submissions about love relationships, family members, friendships, philosophies, and any other aspect of life. Poems and writings for specific holidays (Christmas, Valentine's Day, etc.) and special occasions, such as graduation, birthdays, anniversary, and get well are also considered." Submit seasonal material at least 4 months in advance. Buys worldwide, exclusive rights, $200/poem; anthology rights $25.
Other Product Lines: Calendars, gift books, prints, mugs.
Tips: "We strongly suggest that you familiarize yourself with our products before submitting material, although we caution you not to study them too hard. We do not need more poems that sound like something we've already published. We're looking for poetry that expresses real emotions and feelings, so we suggest that you have someone specific in mind (a friend, relative, etc.) as you write. The majority of the poetry we publish does not rhyme. We do not wish to receive books, unless you are interested in having portions excerpted for greeting cards; nor do we wish to receive artwork or photography. We prefer that submissions be typewritten, one poem per page. Only a small portion of the freelance material we receive is selected each year, either for publication on a notecard or in a gift anthology, and the review process can also be lengthy, but please be assured that every manuscript is given serious consideration."

THE BRANCHES, INC., (formerly New Boundary Designs, Inc.), 1389 Park Rd., Chanhassen MN 55317. (612)474-0924. Fax: (612)474-9525. President: Chuck Schneider. Estab. 1979. 5% freelance written. Receives 100 submissions/year; bought 9 freelance ideas/samples last year. Submit seasonal/holiday material 1 year in advance. Reports in 3 months. Pays on publication.
Needs: Traditional, inspirational, juvenile, sensitivity. Prefers unrhymed verse.

‡BRIGHTON PUBLICATIONS, INC., P.O. Box 120706, St. Paul MN 55112-0706. (612)636-2220. Fax: (612)636-2220. President: Sharon Dlugosch. Estab. 1977. 100% freelance written. Receives minimal submissions each year; bought minimal ideas/samples last year. Reports in 3 months. Pays royalties. Free writer's guidelines/market list. Market list issued one time only.

BRILLIANT ENTERPRISES, 117 W. Valerio St., Santa Barbara CA 93101-2927. President: Ashleigh Brilliant. Estab. 1967. Buys all rights. Submit words and art in black on 3½×3½ horizontal, thin white paper in batches of no more than 15. Reports "usually in 2 weeks." Catalog and sample set for $2.
Needs: Postcards. Messages should be "of a highly original nature, emphasizing subtlety, simplicity, insight, wit, profundity, beauty and felicity of expression. Accompanying art should be in the nature of oblique commentary or decoration rather than direct illustration. Messages should be of universal appeal, capable of being appreciated by all types of people and of being easily translated into other languages. Because our line of cards is highly unconventional, it is essential that freelancers study it before submitting. No topical references or subjects limited to American culture or puns." Limit of 17 words/card. Pays $50 for "complete ready-to-print word and picture design."

THE CALLIGRAPHY COLLECTION INC., 2604 NW 74th Place, Gainesville FL 32606-1237. (904)375-8530. Fax: (904)374-9957. Editor: Katy Fischer. Reports in 6 months. Buys all rights. Pays on publication.
Other Product Lines: Gift books, greeting books, plaques.
Tips: "Sayings for friendship are difficult to get. Bestsellers are humorous, sentimental and inspirational ideas—such as for wedding and family and friends. Our audience is women 20 to 50 years of age. Write something they would like to give or receive as a lasting gift."

COMSTOCK CARDS, Suite 15, 600 S. Rock, Reno NV 89502-4115. Fax: (702)856-9406. Owner: Patti P.Wolf. Art Director: David Delacroix. Estab. 1986. 35% freelance written. Receives 200 submissions/year; bought 150 freelance ideas/samples last year. Submit seasonal/holiday material 1 year in advance. Reports in 5 weeks. Buys all rights. Pays on acceptance. Writer's guidelines/market list for SASE. Market list issued one time only.

Needs: Humorous, informal, invitations, "puns, put-downs, put-ons, outrageous humor aimed at a sophisticated, adult female audience. Also risqué cartoon cards. No conventional, soft line or sensitivity hearts and flowers, etc." Pays $50-75/card idea, negotiable.
Other Product Lines: Notepads, cartoon cards, invitations.
Tips: "Always keep holiday occasions in mind and personal me-to-you expressions that relate to today's occurrences. Ideas must be simple and concisely delivered. A combination of strong image and strong gag line make a successful greeting card. Consumers relate to themes of work, sex and friendship combined with current social, political and economic issues."

CONTEMPORARY DESIGNS, 213 Main St., Gilbert IA 50105. (515)232-5188. Fax: (515)232-3380. Editor: Sallie Abelson. Estab. 1977. 90% freelance written. Submit seasonal/holiday material 1 year in advance. Reports in 1-2 months. Buys all rights. Pays on acceptance.
Needs: Short positive humorous copy for memo pads, mugs, etc.
Other Product Lines: Quote and gift books, mugs, tote bags, aprons and pillow cases.

CONTENOVA GIFTS, 1239 Adanac St. Vancouver, British Columbia V6A 2C8 Canada. (604)253-4444. Fax: (604)253-4014. Creative Director: Russ Morris. Estab. 1965. 100% freelance written. Receives an estimated 15,000 submissions/year. Submit ideas on 3×5 cards or small mock-ups in batches of 10-15. Buys world rights. Pays on acceptance. Current needs list for SAE and IRC.
Needs: Humorous. Both risqué and non-risqué for mugs. "Short gags with good punch work best." Birthday, belated birthday, get well, anniversary, thank you, congratulations, miss you, new job, etc. Seasonal ideas needed for Christmas, Valentine's Day, Mother's Day, Father's Day. Pays $30.
Tips: "No longer using drinking themes. Put together your best ideas and submit them. One great idea sent is much better than 20 poor ideas filling an envelope. We are always searching for new writers who can produce quality work. You need not be previously published. Our audience is 18-65 – the full mug consumers. We do not use poetry."

CREATE-A-CRAFT, P.O. Box 330008, Fort Worth TX 76163-0008. (817)292-1855. Estab. 1967. 5% freelance written. Receives 300 submissions/year; bought 2 freelance ideas/samples last year. Submit seasonal/holiday material 1 year in advance. "No phone calls from freelancers accepted. We deal through agents only. Submissions not returned even if accompanied by SASE – not enough staff to take time to package up returns." Buys all rights. Sample greeting cards $2.50 for #10 SASE.
Needs: Announcements, conventional, humorous, juvenile, studio. "Payment depends upon the assignment, amount of work involved, and production costs involved in project."
Tips: No unsolicited material. "Send letter of inquiry describing education and experience, or résumé with one sample first. We will screen applicants and request samples from those who interest us."

CURRENT, INC., Box 2559, Colorado Springs CO 80901-2559. (719)594-4100. Creative Writing Manager: Nan Roloff Stine. Estab. 1950. 5-10% freelance written. Receives an estimated 1,500 submissions/year; bought 180 ideas/samples last year. Submit seasonal/holiday material 18 months in advance. Reports in 2 months. Buys all rights. Pays on acceptance. "Flat fee only; no royalty." Writer's guidelines for #10 SASE.
Needs: Humorous. All occasion and woman-to-woman cards; short 1-2 line puns for all occasions not too risque; short children's stories. Pays $50/sentiment.
Tips: "We are primarily looking for original humor of all forms, except risqué, off-color sentiments. 99% of our customers are women and 80% of them are married and have children under the age of 18. Writers need to keep in mind that this is the audience we are trying to reach. We pick up trends and create our own. We suggest that writers keep abreast of what's selling at retail. Don't send traditional short prose sentiments or off-color humor because we don't buy it. Read our direct mail catalog."

DESIGN DESIGN INC., P.O. Box 2266, Grand Rapids MI 49501-2266. Fax: (616)774-4020. President: Don Kallil. Estab. 1985. 100% freelance written. Receives 450 submissions/year. Submit seasonal/material at least 6 months in advance. Reports in 1 month. Buys all rights. Pays on acceptance. Writer's guidelines for SASE.

Needs: All types of conventional verses. Fresh, inventive humorous verses, especially family birthday cards. Would also like to see more conversational prose, especially in family titles such as Mother, Father, Sister, Husband, Wife, etc. Submit in batches of 10-15. Does not want tired, formulaic rhymes.
Tips: "Study the market! Go to your local card shops and analyze what you see. Ask the storekeepers which cards are selling. Then apply what you've learned to your own writing. The best cards (and we buy only the best) will have mass appeal and yet, in the consumer's eyes, will read as though they were created exclusively for her. A feminine touch is important, as 90% of all greeting cards are purchased by women."

C.M. PAULA COMPANY, 7773 School Rd., Cincinnati OH 45249. Contact: Editorial Supervisor. Estab. 1958. 10% freelance written. Receives 100 submissions/year. "We purchase both per idea or set fee per project." Reports in 4-6 weeks. Buys all rights. Pays on acceptance. Writer's guidelines issued only to previously published social-expression writers. Send SASE.
Product Lines: Plaques, key rings, magnets, stationery pads, coffee mugs, collectible plates, dimensional statues and awards.
Tips: "Our needs range from inspirational verse and prose to cute sayings and light humor (nothing risqué). A writer can get a quick idea of the variety of copy we use by looking over our store displays. Please note – we do not publish greeting cards."

PEACOCK PAPERS INC., 273 Summer St., Boston MA 02210-1500. Fax: (617)423-3717. Contact: Mia Miranda, New Product Manager. Estab. 1982. 85% freelance written. Needs: Humorous (must be restaurant related). Prefers unrhymed verse.
Tips: "Target market is restaurants. Humorous greeting, birthday, thank you, sells well. Pizza delivery, Chinese delivery, bagel, bakery, deli. Be sure not to offend ethnicity of card."

ROCKSHOTS, INC., 632 Broadway, New York NY 10012. (212)420-1400. Fax: (212)353-8756. Editor: Bob Vesce. Estab. 1979. "We buy 75 greeting card verse (or gag) lines annually." Submit seasonal/holiday material 1 year in advance. Reports in 2 months. Buys rights for greeting-card use. Writer's guidelines for SASE.
Needs: Humorous ("should be off-the-wall, as outrageous as possible, preferably for sophisticated buyer"); soft line; combination of sexy and humorous come-on type greeting ("sentimental is not our style"); and insult cards ("looking for cute insults"). No sentimental or conventional material. "Card gag can adopt a sentimental style, then take an ironic twist and end on an off-beat note." Submit no more than 10 card ideas/samples per batch. Send to attention: Submissions. Pays $50/gagline. Prefers gag lines on 8×11 paper with name, address, and phone and social security numbers in right corner, or individually on 3×5 cards.
Tips: "Think of a concept that would normally be too outrageous to use, give it a cute and clever wording to make it drop-dead funny and you will have commercialized a non-commercial message. It's always good to mix sex and humor. Our emphasis is definitely on the erotic. Hard-core eroticism is difficult for the general public to handle on greeting cards. The trend is toward 'light' sexy humor, even cute sexy humor. 'Cute' has always sold cards, and it's a good word to think of even with the most sophisticated, crazy ideas. 80% of our audience is female. Remember that your gag line will be illustrated by a photographer. So try to think visually. If no visual is needed, the gag line can stand alone, but we generally prefer some visual representation. It is a very good idea to preview our cards at your local store if this is possible to give you a feeling of our style."

SANGAMON, INC., P.O. Box 410, Taylorville IL 62568. (217)824-2261. Contact: Editorial Department. Estab. 1931. 90% freelance written. Reports in 3 months. Buys all rights. Pays on acceptance. Writer's guidelines or market list for SASE. Market list is regularly revised.
Needs: Conventional, humorous, inspirational, juvenile, sensitivity, studio. "We offer a balance of many styles. We'd like to see more conversational prose styles for the conventional lines." Submit 15 ideas maximum/batch.
Other Product Lines: Calendars, promotions.
Tips: "We only request submissions based on background and writing experience. We work 12-18 months ahead of a season and only accept material on assignment."

Other Product Lines: Posters ($150-1,000).
Tips: "Our posters are our main product in the US. Our target audience is mother-child, 0-8, teen market, 8-22 and adult."

‡MARCEL SCHURMAN CO., INC., 2500 N. Watney Way, Fairfield CA 94533. Editor: Meg Schutte. Estab. 1950. 20% freelance written. Receives 500 submissions/year; bought 50 freelance ideas/samples last year. Reports in 1 month. Pays on acceptance. Writer's guidelines for #10 SASE.
Needs: Conventional, light humor, informal, juvenile, sensitivity, conversational, seasonal and everyday categories. Prefers unrhymed verse, but on juvenile cards rhyme is OK. Submit 10-15 cards in single batch.
Tips: "Historically, our nostalgic and art museum cards sell best. However, we are moving toward more contemporary cards and humor. Target market: upscale, professional, well-educated; average age 40; more female."

SCOTT CARDS INC., P.O. Box 906, Newbury Park CA 91319. President: Larry Templeman. Estab. 1985. 95% freelance written. Bought 75 freelance ideas/samples last year. Now looking at seasonal/holiday cards. Reports in 5 months. Pays on acceptance. Writer's guidelines/brochure for #10 SAE with 2 first-class stamps. "Please do not send sample work to P.O. Box 906. Our guidelines will give specific information on how to submit your work for consideration."
Needs: Conventional, humorous, sensitivity.
Tips: "New ways to say 'I love you' always sell if they aren't corny or too obvious. Humor helps, especially if there is a twist. We are looking for non-traditional sentiments that are sensitive, timely and sophisticated. Our cards have a distinct flavor, so before submitting your work, write for our guidelines and sample brochure."

SILVER VISIONS, P.O. Box 415, Newton Highlands MA 02161. (617)244-9504. Editor: B. Kaufman. Estab. 1981. Submit seasonal/holiday material 9-12 months in advance. Reports in 6 months. Pays on publication. Guidelines for SASE.
Needs: Humorous, humorous Jewish, contemporary occasion for photography line. "Copy must work with a photograph; in other words, submit copy that can be illustrated photographically." Send 10-16 card ideas/batch.

SNAFU DESIGNS, Box 16643, St. Paul MN 55116. (612)646-6118. Editor: Scott F. Austin. Estab. 1985. Reports in 6 weeks. Buys all rights. Pays on acceptance. "Before we send you our guidelines, please send us something that is representative of your sense of humor (include a SASE). We will send you our guidelines if we feel your humor is consistent with ours."

Needs: Humorous, informal, birthday, friendship, thank you, anniversary, congratulations, get well, new baby. Prefers unrhymed verse. Submit no more than 10 ideas/batch. Pays $75/idea.
Tips: "We use clever ideas that are simple and concisely delivered and are aimed at a sophisticated adult audience. Off-the-wall humor that pokes fun at the human condition. Please do not submit anything cute."

SUNRISE PUBLICATIONS, INC., P.O. Box 4699, Bloomington IN 47402-4699. (812)336-9900. Contact: Editorial Coordinator. Estab. 1974. 100% freelance written. Receives an estimated 1,000 submissions/year; bought 50 freelance ideas/samples last year. Reports in 2 months. Buys worldwide exclusive license in all commercial formats. Pays on acceptance. Free writer's guidelines. Market list regularly revised.
Needs: Contemporary, conventional, humorous, informal, soft line. No "off-color humor or lengthy poetry." Prefers unrhymed verses/ideas. "Generally, we like short one- or two-line captions, sincere or clever. Our customers prefer this to lengthy rhymed verse. Longer copy is used but should be conversational. Submit ideas for birthday, get well, friendship, wedding, baby congrats, sympathy, thinking of you, anniversary, belated birthday, thank you, fun and love. We also have strong seasonal lines that use traditional, humorous and inspirational verses. These seasons include Christmas, Valentine's Day, Easter, Mother's Day, Father's Day, Graduation, Halloween and Thanksgiving." Payment varies.
Tips: "Think always of the sending situation and both the person buying the card and its intended recipient."

TLC GREETINGS, 615 McCall Rd., Manhattan KS 66502. (913)776-4041. Fax: (913)539-2107, ext. 232. Creative Director: Michele Johnson. Estab. 1987. 80% freelance written. Bought approximately 25 ideas/samples per month. Submit seasonal/holiday material 6 months in advance. Reports in 1 month. Buys rights to the purchased idea/sentiment. Pays on acceptance. Writer's guidelines/market list for any size SAE with 2 first-class stamps. Market list regularly revised; available to writer on mailing list basis.

- This company reports it is working with writers on an assignment basis instead of making individual purchases.

Needs: Studio, humorous, invitations, soft line. Prefers unrhymed verse. Submit 30 ideas/batch.
Other Product Lines: Mugs, note pads, posters, gift bags, greeting books. ("Our minimum is $35; maximum we negotiate.")
Tips: "Our target audience is women. What sells well for us are cards that are humorous. We do not use risqué, although we're beginning to use more cards that are a little biting (making fun of the recipient). Also expanding into the male audience, by looking at sports/leisure related activities. Interested also in college humor."

TRISAR, INC., 121 Old Springs Rd., Anaheim CA 92808. (714)282-2626. Editor: Randy Harris. Estab. 1979. 50% freelance written. Receives 1,000 submissions/year; bought 50 ideas/samples last year. Submit seasonal/holiday material 10 months in advance. Reports in 3 months. Buys all rights. Pays on acceptance. Writer guidelines for #10 SASE.
Needs: Humorous, studio, age-related feelings about turning 40, 50, 60; seasonal oriented themes including Love, Mom, Dad, Grad, Halloween, Christmas. Unrhymed verse and one-liners only. Submit ideas on 3×5 cards.
Other Product Lines: T-shirts, boxers, mugs, greeting cards, buttons. Also gift bags and paper party goods. Current pay scale available with guidelines.
Tips: "Best-selling lines capture current lifestyle, witty thoughts on growing older. We do not accept risqué statements. Up-beat statements that appeal to a broad range of people are best. Especially looking for humor about turning 50 and retirement. Fresh puns for graduation and holidays such as Halloween are important."

VAGABOND CREATIONS, INC., 2560 Lance Dr., Dayton OH 45409. (513)298-1124. Editor: George F. Stanley, Jr. 10% freelance written. Bought 10-15 ideas/samples last year. Submit seasonal/holiday material 6 months in advance. Reports in 1 week. Buys all rights. Ideas sometimes copyrighted. Pays on acceptance. Writer's guidelines for #10 SASE. Market list issued one time only.
Needs: Cute, humorous greeting cards (illustrations and copy) often with animated animals or objects in people-situations with short, subtle tie-in message on inside page only. No poetry. Pays $15-25/card idea.

VINTAGE IMAGES, P.O. Box 228, Lorton VA 22199. (703)550-1881. Editor: Brian Smolens. Estab. 1986. Not accepting freelance material at this time. Reports in 3 months. Buys all rights. Pays on publication. Writer's guidelines/market list for 9×12 SAE with 3 first-class stamps.
Needs: Humorous only. "We supply pictures—caption must be written to match." Also developing new architectural and travel series.
Other Product Lines: Postcards ($20), posters ($25-50).

WARNER PRESS, PUBLISHERS, P.O. Box 2499, 1200 E. Fifth St., Anderson IN 46018-9988. Product Editor: Robin Fogle. Estab. 1880. 50% freelance written. Reports in 2 months. Buys all rights. Pays on acceptance. Must send #10 SASE for guidelines before submitting.

• This company reports that they are watching their spending more closely, mainly purchasing material for immediate use only.
Needs: Religious themes; sensitive prose and inspirational verse for boxed cards, posters, calendars. Pays $20-35. Also accepts ideas for coloring and activity books.

WEST GRAPHICS, #7, 385 Oyster Point Blvd., South San Francisco CA 94080. (800)648-9378. Fax: (415)588-5552. Contact: Production Department. Estab. 1980. 60% freelance written. Receives 1,000 submissions/year; bought 200 freelance ideas/samples last year. Reports in 6 weeks. Buys greeting card rights. Pays 30 days after publication. Writer's guidelines/market list for #10 SASE.
Needs: "We are looking for outrageous contemporary humor that is on the cutting edge. Our most successful cards humorously capture the contradiction between innocence and that which surprises, shocks or insults." Prefers unrhymed verse. Submit 10-30 ideas/batch. Pays $100.
Other Product Lines: Notepads, gift bags.
Tips: "West Graphics is an alternative greeting card company committed to the production and distribution of quality products. West Graphics offers a diversity of humor from 'off the wall' to 'tastefully tasteless'. Our goal is to publish cards that challenge the limits of taste and keep people laughing. The majority of our audience is women in their 30s and 40s, ideas should be targeted to issues they care about: relationships, sex, aging, success, money, crime, etc."

CAROL WILSON FINE ARTS, INC., P.O. Box 17394, Portland OR 97217-1810. Fax: (503)287-2217. Editor: Gary Spector. Estab. 1983. 90% freelance written. Receives thousands of submissions/year; bought 100 freelance ideas/samples last year. Submit seasonal/holiday material 1 year in advance. Reports in 2 months. Buys negotiable rights. Pays on acceptance or publication depending on type of agreement. Writer's guidelines/market list for #10 SASE.
Needs: Humorous, unrhymed. Pays $50-100/card idea. "Royalties could be considered for a body of work."
Tips: "We are looking for laugh-out-loud, unusual and clever ideas for greeting cards. All occasions are needed but birthday cards are needed most of all. It's OK to be outrageous or risqué. Cards should be 'personal.' Ask yourself – is this a card that someone would buy for a specific person?"

Contests and Awards

The contests and awards listed in this section are arranged alphabetically by subject. Nonfiction writers can turn immediately to nonfiction awards listed alphabetically by the name of the contest or award. The same is true for fiction writers, poets, playwrights and screenwriters, journalists, children's writers and translators. You'll also find general book awards, miscellaneous awards, arts council and foundation fellowships, and multiple category contests.

New contests and awards are announced in various writer's publications nearly every day. However, many lose their funding or fold—and sponsoring magazines go out of business just as often. We have contacted the organizations whose contests and awards are listed here with the understanding that they are valid through 1995. If you are using this section in 1996 or later, keep in mind that much of the contest information listed here will not be current. Requirements such as entry fees change, as do deadlines, addresses and contact names.

To make sure you have all the information you need about a particular contest, always send a self-addressed, stamped, business-sized envelope (#10 SASE) to the contact person in the listing before entering a contest. The listings in this section are brief, and many contests have lengthy, specific rules and requirements that we could not include in our limited space. And many contests have specific entry forms that must accompany your submission. A response with rules and guidelines will not only provide specific instructions, it will also confirm that the award is still being offered.

When you receive a set of guidelines, you will see that some contests are not for some writers. The writer's age, previous publication, geographic location and the length of the work are common matters of eligibility. Read the requirements carefully to ensure you don't enter a contest for which you are not qualified. You should also be aware that every year, more and more contests, especially those sponsored by "little" literary magazines, are charging entry fees.

Contest and award competition is very strong. While a literary magazine may publish 10 short stories in an issue, only one will win the prize in a contest. Give yourself the best chance of winning by sending only your best work. There is always a percentage of manuscripts a contest judge or award director casts off immediately as unpolished, amateurish or wholly unsuitable for the competition.

To avoid first-round rejection, make certain that you and your work qualify in every way for the award. Some contests are more specific than others. There are many contests and awards for a "best poem," but some award only the best lyric poem, sonnet or haiku.

Winning a contest or award can launch a successful writing career. Take a professional approach by doing a little extra research. Find out who the previous winner of the award was by investing in a sample copy of the magazine in which the prize-winning article, poem or short story appeared. Attend the staged reading of an award-winning play. Your extra effort will be to your advantage in competing with writers who simply submit blindly.

If a contest or award requires nomination by your publisher, ask your publisher to nominate you. Many welcome the opportunity to promote a work (beyond their own, conventional means) they've published. Just be sure the publisher has plenty of time before the deadline to nominate your work.

Further information on funding for writers is available at most large public libraries. See the Annual Register of Grant Support (National Register Publishing Co., 3004 Glenview Rd., Wilmette IL 60091); Foundations and Grants to Individuals (Foundation Center, 79 Fifth Ave., New York NY 10003) and Grants and Awards Available to American Writers (PEN American Center, 568 Broadway, New York NY 10012). For more listings of contests and awards for fiction writers, see Novel & Short Story Writer's Market (Writer's Digest Books). Poet's Market (Writer's Digest Books) lists contests and awards available to poets. Children's Writer's & Illustrator's Market (Writer's Digest Books) has a section of contests and awards, as well. Two more good sources for literary contests are Poets & Writers (72 Spring St., New York NY 10012), and the Associated Writing Programs Newsletter (Old Dominion University, Norfolk VA 23529). Journalists should look into the annual Journalism Awards Issue of Editor & Publisher magazine (11 W. 19th St., New York NY 10011), published in the last week of December. Playwrights should be aware of the newsletter put out by The Dramatists Guild, (234 W. 44th St., New York NY 10036).

For more information on contests and awards not listed in Writer's Market, see Contests and Awards/Changes '94-'95 at the end of this section.

Organizations of Interest

As markets become more competitive, contacts are increasingly important for freelancers. Professional organizations on both local and national levels can be very helpful in this capacity. They often provide valuable opportunities for networking, information about new developments in the industry, and guidance in business or legal matters.

The majority of organizations listed here publish newsletters and other materials that can provide you with useful information for your writing career. Some even provide such opportunities as conferences and referral services.

Keep in mind that numerous local organizations and writers' clubs also exist, and can provide occasions for networking in your own area. You can usually find information about such groups in your local library or through an area college writing program.

Some of the following national organizations have branches or chapters in different cities across the country. Write to the organization for information about their membership requirements, individual chapters and programs for writers.

Glossary

Key to symbols and abbreviations is on page 54.

Advance. A sum of money a publisher pays a writer prior to the publication of a book. It is usually paid in installments, such as one-half on signing the contract; one-half on delivery of a complete and satisfactory manuscript. The advance is paid against the royalty money that will be earned by the book.

Advertorial. Advertising presented in such a way as to resemble editorial material. Information may be the same as that contained in an editorial feature, but it is paid for or supplied by an advertiser and the word "advertisement" appears at the top of the page.

All rights. See Rights and the Writer in the Minding the Details article.

Anthology. A collection of selected writings by various authors or a gathering of works by one author.

Assignment. Editor asks a writer to produce a specific article for an agreed-upon fee.

Auction. Publishers sometimes bid for the acquisition of a book manuscript that has excellent sales prospects. The bids are for the amount of the author's advance, advertising and promotional expenses, royalty percentage, etc. Auctions are conducted by agents.

B&W. Abbreviation for black and white photographs.

Backlist. A publisher's list of its books that were not published during the current season, but that are still in print.

Belles lettres. A term used to describe fine or literary writing—writing more to entertain than to inform or instruct.

Bimonthly. Every two months. See also semimonthly.

Bionote. A sentence or brief paragraph about the writer. Also called a "bio," it can appear at the bottom of the first or last page of a writer's article or short story or on a contributor's page.

Biweekly. Every two weeks.

Boilerplate. A standardized contract. When an editor says "our standard contract," he means the boilerplate with no changes. Writers should be aware that most authors and/or agents make many changes on the boilerplate.

Book packager. Draws all elements of a book together, from the initial concept to writing and marketing strategies, then sells the book package to a book publisher and/or movie producer. Also known as book producer or book developer.

Business size envelope. Also known as a #10 envelope, it is the standard size used in sending business correspondence.

Byline. Name of the author appearing with the published piece.

Category fiction. A term used to include all various labels attached to types of fiction. See also genre.

Chapbook. A small booklet, usually paperback, of poetry, ballads or tales.

Column inch. The amount of space contained in one inch of a typeset column.

Commercial novels. Novels designed to appeal to a broad audience. These are often broken down into categories such as western, mystery and romance. See also genre.

Commissioned work. See assignment.

Concept. A statement that summarizes a screenplay or teleplay—before the outline or treatment is written.

Contributor's copies. Copies of the issues of magazines sent to the author in which the author's work appears.

Cooperative publishing. See co-publishing.

Co-publishing. Arrangement where author and publisher share publication costs and profits of a book. Also known as cooperative publishing. See also subsidy publisher.

Copyright. A means to protect an author's work. See Copyright in the Minding the Details section.

Cover letter. A brief letter, accompanying a complete manuscript, especially useful if responding to an editor's request for a manuscript. A cover letter may also accompany a book proposal. A cover letter is not a query letter; see Targeting Your Ideas in the Getting Published section.

Derivative works. A work that has been translated, adapted, abridged, condensed, annotated or otherwise produced by altering a previously created work. Before producing a derivative work, it is necessary to secure the written permission of the copyright owner of the original piece.

Desktop publishing. A publishing system designed for a personal computer. The system is capable of typesetting, some illustration, layout, design and printing—so that the final piece can be distributed and/or sold.

Docudrama. A fictional film rendition of recent newsmaking events and people.

Dot-matrix. Printed type where individual characters are composed of a matrix or pattern of tiny dots. Near letter quality (see NLQ) dot-matrix submissions are generally acceptable to editors.

Electronic submission. A submission made by modem or on computer disk.

El-hi. Elementary to high school.

Epigram. A short, witty sometimes paradoxical saying.

Erotica. Fiction or art that is sexually oriented.

Fair use. A provision of the copyright law that says short passages from copyrighted material may be used without infringing on the owner's rights.

Fax (facsimile machine). A communication system used to transmit documents over telephone lines.

Feature. An article giving the reader information of human interest rather than news. Also used by magazines to indicate a lead article or distinctive department.

Filler. A short item used by an editor to "fill" out a newspaper column or magazine page. It could be a timeless news item, a joke, an anecdote, some light verse or short humor, puzzle, etc.

First North American serial rights. See Rights and the Writer in the Minding the Details article.

Formula story. Familiar theme treated in a predictable plot structure—such as boy meets girl, boy loses girl, boy gets girl.

Frontlist. A publisher's list of its books that are new to the current season.

Galleys. The first typeset version of a manuscript that has not yet been divided into pages.

Genre. Refers either to a general classification of writing, such as the novel or the poem, or to the categories within those classifications, such as the problem novel or the sonnet. Genre fiction describes commercial novels, such as mysteries, romances and science fiction. Also called category fiction.

Ghostwriter. A writer who puts into literary form an article, speech, story or book based on another person's ideas or knowledge.

Glossy. A black and white photograph with a shiny surface as opposed to one with a non-shiny matte finish.

Gothic novel. A fiction category or genre in which the central character is usually a beautiful young girl, the setting an old mansion or castle, and there is a handsome hero and a real menace, either natural or supernatural.

Graphic novel. An adaptation of a novel in graphic form, long comic strip or heavily illustrated story, of 40 pages or more, produced in paperback form.

Hard copy. The printed copy of a computer's output.

Hardware. All the mechanically-integrated components of a computer that are not software. Circuit boards, transistors and the machines that are the actual computer are the hardware.

Honorarium. Token payment—small amount of money, or a byline and copies of the publication.

Illustrations. May be photographs, old engravings, artwork. Usually paid for separately from the manuscript. See also package sale.

Imprint. Name applied to a publisher's specific line or lines of books (e.g., Anchor Books is an imprint of Doubleday).

Interactive fiction. Works of fiction in book or computer software format in which the reader determines the path the story will take. The reader chooses from several alternatives at the end of a "chapter," and thus determines the structure of the story. Interactive fiction features multiple plots and endings.

Invasion of privacy. Writing about persons (even though truthfully) without their consent.

Kill fee. Fee for a complete article that was assigned but which was subsequently cancelled.

Lead time. The time between the acquisition of a manuscript by an editor and its actual publication.

Letter-quality submission. Computer printout that looks typewritten.

Libel. A false accusation or any published statement or presentation that tends to expose another to public contempt, ridicule, etc. Defenses are truth; fair comment on a matter of public interest; and privileged communication—such as a report of legal proceedings or client's communication to a lawyer.

List royalty. A royalty payment based on a percentage of a book's retail (or "list") price. Compare net royalty.

LORT. An acronym for League of Resident Theatres. Letters from A to D follow LORT and designate the size of the theater.

Magalog. Mail order catalog with how-to articles pertaining to the items for sale..

Mainstream fiction. Fiction that transcends popular novel categories such as mystery, romance and science fiction. Using conventional methods, this kind of fiction tells stories about people and their conflicts with greater depth of characterization, background, etc., than the more narrowly focused genre novels.

Mass market. Nonspecialized books of wide appeal directed toward a large audience. Smaller and more cheaply produced than trade paperbacks, they are found in many non-bookstore outlets, such as drug stores, supermarkets, etc.

Microcomputer. A small computer system capable of performing various specific tasks with data it receives. Personal computers are microcomputers.

Midlist. Those titles on a publisher's list that are not expected to be big sellers, but are expected to have limited sales. Midlist books are mainstream, not literary, scholarly or genre, and are usually written by new or unknown writers.

Model release. A paper signed by the subject of a photograph (or the subject's guardian, if a juvenile) giving the photographer permission to use the photograph, editorially or for advertising purposes or for some specific purpose as stated.

Modem. A device used to transmit data from one computer to another via telephone lines.

Monograph. A detailed and documented scholarly study concerning a single subject.

Multiple submissions. Sending more than one poem, gag or greeting card idea at the same time. This term is often used synonymously with simultaneous submission.

Net royalty. A royalty payment based on the amount of money a book publisher receives on the sale of a book after booksellers' discounts, special sales discounts and returns. Compare list royalty.

Newsbreak. A brief, late-breaking news story added to the front page of a newspaper at press time or a magazine news item of importance to readers.

NLQ. Near letter-quality print required by some editors for computer printout submissions. See also dot-matrix.

Novelette. A short novel, or a long short story; 7,000 to 15,000 words approximately. Also known as a novella.

Novelization. A novel created from the script of a popular movie, usually called a movie "tie-in" and published in paperback.

Offprint. Copies of an author's article taken "out of issue" before a magazine is bound and given to the author in lieu of monetary payment. An offprint could be used by the writer as a published writing sample.

On spec. An editor expresses an interest in a proposed article idea and agrees to consider the finished piece for publication "on speculation." The editor is under no obligation to buy the finished manuscript.

One-shot feature. As applies to syndicates, single feature article for syndicate to sell; as contrasted with article series or regular columns syndicated.

One-time rights. See Rights and the Writer in the Minding the Details article.

Outline. A summary of a book's contents in five to 15 double-spaced pages; often in the form of chapter headings with a descriptive sentence or two under each one to show the scope of the book. A screenplay's or teleplay's outline is a scene-by-scene narrative description of the story (10-15 pages for a ½-hour teleplay; 15-25 pages for a 1-hour teleplay; 25-40 pages for a 90-minute teleplay; 40-60 pages for a 2-hour feature film or teleplay).

Package sale. The editor buys manuscript and photos as a "package" and pays for them with one check.

Page rate. Some magazines pay for material at a fixed rate per published page, rather than per word.

Parallel submission. A strategy of developing several articles from one unit of research for submission to similar magazines. This strategy differs from simultaneous or multiple submission, where the same article is marketed to several magazines at the same time.

Payment on acceptance. The editor sends you a check for your article, story or poem as soon as he decides to publish it.

Payment on publication. The editor doesn't send you a check for your material until it is published.

Pen name. The use of a name other than your legal name on articles, stories or books when you wish to remain anonymous. Simply notify your post office and bank that you are using the name so that you'll receive mail and/or checks in that name. Also called a pseudonym.

Photo feature. Feature in which the emphasis is on the photographs rather than on accompanying written material.

Plagiarism. Passing off as one's own the expression of ideas and words of another writer.

Potboiler. Refers to writing projects a freelance writer does to "keep the pot boiling" while working on major articles—quick projects to bring in money with little time or effort. These may be fillers such as anecdotes or how-to tips, but could be short articles or stories.

Proofreading. Close reading and correction of a manuscript's typographical errors.

Proscenium. The area of the stage in front of the curtain.

Prospectus. A preliminary written description of a book or article, usually one page in length.

Pseudonym. See pen name.

Public domain. Material that was either never copyrighted or whose copyright term has expired.

Query. A letter to an editor intended to raise interest in an article you propose to write.

Release. A statement that your idea is original, has never been sold to anyone else and that you are selling the negotiated rights to the idea upon payment.

Remainders. Copies of a book that are slow to sell and can be purchased from the publisher at a reduced price. Depending on the author's book contract, a reduced royalty or no royalty is paid on remainder books.

Reporting time. The time it takes for an editor to report to the author on his/her query or manuscript.

Reprint rights. See Rights and the Writer in the Minding the Details article.

Round-up article. Comments from, or interviews with, a number of celebrities or experts on a single theme.

Royalties, standard hardcover book. 10% of the retail price on the first 5,000 copies sold; 12½% on the next 5,000; 15% thereafter.

Royalties, standard mass paperback book. 4 to 8% of the retail price on the first 150,000 copies sold.

Royalties, standard trade paperback book. No less than 6% of list price on the first 20,000 copies; 7½% thereafter.

Scanning. A process through which letter-quality printed text (see NLQ) or artwork is read by a computer scanner and converted into workable data.

Screenplay. Script for a film intended to be shown in theaters.

Self-publishing. In this arrangement, the author keeps all income derived from the book, but he pays for its manufacturing, production and marketing.

Semimonthly. Twice per month.
Semiweekly. Twice per week.
Serial. Published periodically, such as a newspaper or magazine.
Sidebar. A feature presented as a companion to a straight news report (or main magazine article) giving sidelights on human-interest aspects or sometimes elucidating just one aspect of the story.
Similar submission. See parallel submission.
Simultaneous submissions. Sending the same article, story or poem to several publishers at the same time. Some publishers refuse to consider such submissions. No simultaneous submissions should be made without stating the fact in your letter.
Slant. The approach or style of a story or article that will appeal to readers of a specific magazine. For example, a magazine may always use stories with an upbeat ending.
Slice-of-life vignette. A short fiction piece intended to realistically depict an interesting moment of everyday living.
Slides. Usually called transparencies by editors looking for color photographs.
Slush pile. The stack of unsolicited or misdirected manuscripts received by an editor or book publisher.
Software. Computer programs and related manuals.
Speculation. The editor agrees to look at the author's manuscript with no assurance that it will be bought.
Style. The way in which something is written—for example, short, punchy sentences or flowing narrative.
Subsidiary rights. All those rights, other than book publishing rights included in a book contract—such as paperback, book club, movie rights, etc.
Subsidy publisher. A book publisher who charges the author for the cost to typeset and print his book, the jacket, etc. as opposed to a royalty publisher who pays the author. .
Synopsis. A brief summary of a story, novel or play. As part of a book proposal, it is a comprehensive summary condensed in a page or page and a half, single-spaced. See also outline.
Tabloid. Newspaper format publication on about half the size of the regular newspaper page, such as the National Enquirer.
Tagline. A caption for a photo or a comment added to a filler.
Tearsheet. Page from a magazine or newspaper containing your printed story, article, poem or ad.
Trade. Either a hardcover or paperback book; subject matter frequently concerns a special interest. Books are directed toward the layperson rather than the professional.
Transparencies. Positive color slides; not color prints.
Treatment. Synopsis of a television or film script (40-60 pages for a 2-hour feature film or teleplay).
Unsolicited manuscript. A story, article, poem or book that an editor did not specifically ask to see.
User friendly. Easy to handle and use. Refers to computer hardware and software designed with the user in mind.
Vanity publisher. See subsidy publisher.
Word processor. A computer program, used in lieu of a typewriter, that allows for easy, flexible manipulation and output of printed copy.
Work-for-hire. See Copyright in the Minding the Details article.
YA. Young adult books.

Book Publishers Subject Index

This index will help you find publishers that consider books on specific subjects—the subjects you choose to write about. Remember that a publisher may be listed here under a general subject category such as Art and Architecture, while the company publishes only art history or how-to books. Be sure to consult each company's detailed individual listing, its book catalog and several of its books before you send your query or proposal. The page number of the detailed listing is provided for your convenience.

Go One-On-One With a Published Author

Are you serious about learning to write better? Getting published? Getting paid for what you write? If you're dedicated to your writing, Writer's Digest School can put you on the fast track to writing success.

You'll Study With A Professional

Writer's Digest School offers you more than textbooks and assignments. As a student you'll correspond directly with a professional writer who is currently writing and selling the kind of material you want to write. You'll learn from a pro who knows from personal experience what it takes to get a manuscript written and published. A writer who can guide you as you work to achieve the same thing. A true mentor.

Work On Your Novel, Short Story, Nonfiction Book, Or Article

Writer's Digest School offers seven courses: The Novel Writing Workshop, the Nonfiction Book Workshop, Writing & Selling Short Stories, Writing & Selling Nonfiction Articles, the Science Fiction and Fantasy Workshops, the Mystery Writing Workshops and The Secrets of Selling Your Manuscripts. Each course is described on the reverse side.

There are seven Writer's Digest School courses to help you write better and sell more:

Novel Writing Workshop. A professional novelist helps you iron out your plot, develop your main characters, write the background for your novel, and complete the opening scene and a summary of your novel's complete story. You'll even identify potential publishers and write a query letter.

Nonfiction Book Workshop. You'll work with your mentor to create a book proposal that you can send directly to a publisher. You'll develop and refine your book idea, write a chapter-by-chapter outline of your subject, line up your sources of information, write sample chapters, and complete your query letter.

Writing & Selling Short Stories. Learn the basics of writing/selling short stories: plotting, characterization, dialogue, theme, conflict, and other elements of a marketable short story. Course includes writing assignments and one complete short story.

Writing & Selling Nonfiction Articles. Master the fundamentals of writing/selling nonfiction articles: finding article ideas, conducting interviews, writing effective query letters and attention-getting leads, targeting your articles to the right publication. Course includes writing assignments and one complete article manuscript (and its revision).

Science Fiction and Fantasy Workshops. Explore the exciting world of science fiction and fantasy with one of our professional science fiction writers as your guide. Besides improving your general writing skills, you'll learn the special techniques of creating worlds, science and magic, shaping time and place. Choose Short Story or Novel Writing.

Mystery Writing Workshops. With the personal attention, experience and advice from a professional, published mystery writer, you'll uncover the secrets of writing suspenseful, involving mysteries. In addition to learning the genre's special techniques like what to keep hidden from your reader, you'll continue to improve your general writing skills that will lay a critical foundation for your story. Choose Short Story or Novel Writing.

Secrets of Selling Your Manuscripts. Discover all the best-kept secrets for mailing out strategic, targeted manuscript submissions. Learn how to "slant" your writing so you can publish the same material over and over, which publishing houses are your best bet, and much more.

Canadian Postage by the Page

The following chart is for the convenience of Canadian writers sending domestic mail and American writers sending a SAE with International Reply Coupons (IRCs) or Canadian stamps for return of a manuscript from a Canadian publisher.

For complete postage assistance, use in conjunction with the U.S. Postage by the Page (see inside front cover). Remember that manuscripts returning from the U.S. to Canada will take a U.S. stamped envelope although the original manuscript was sent with Canadian postage. The reverse applies to return envelopes sent by American writers to Canada; they must be accompanied with IRCs or Canadian postage.

In a #10 envelope, you can have up to five pages for 43¢ (on manuscripts within Canada) or 50¢ (on manuscripts going to the U.S.). If you enclose a SASE, four pages is the limit. If you use 10×13 envelopes, send one page less than indicated on the chart.

IRC's are worth 43¢ Canadian postage and 50¢ U.S. postage but cost 95¢ to buy in the U.S. and $1.40 to buy in Canada. (Hint to U.S. writers: If you live near the border or have a friend in Canada, stock up on Canadian stamps. Not only are they more convenient than IRCs, they are cheaper.)

Canada Post designations for types of mail are:

Standard Letter Mail	Minimum size: 9cm × 14cm (3⁹⁄₁₆×5½″); Maximum size: 15cm × 24.5cm (5⅞×9⅝″); Maximum thickness: 5mm (³⁄₁₆″)
Oversize Letter Mail (Exceeds any measurement for Standard)	Maximum size: 27cm ×38cm (10⅞×15″); Maximum thickness: 2cm (¹³⁄₁₆″)
International Letter Mail	Minimum size: 9cm × 14cm (3⅝×5½″); Maximum size: Length + width + depth 90cm (36″); Greatest dimension must not exceed 60cm (24″)

Insurance: To U.S.—45¢ for each $100 coverage to the maximum coverage of $1,000. Within Canada—$1 for first $100 coverage; 45¢ for each additional $100 coverage to a maximum coverage of $1,000. International—65¢ for each $100 coverage to the maximum coverage allowed by country of destination. (Not accepted by all countries.)

Registered Mail: $3.05 plus postage (air or surface—Canadian destination). Legal proof of mailing provided. No indemnity coverage. International destination: $5.15 plus postage. Fee includes fixed indemnity of $40.

Security Registered Mail: Within Canada—$5.30 for the first $250 indemnity; 45¢ for each additional $100 to a maximum of $5,000. (Plus appropriate postage.)* To U.S.—$5.30 for the first $100 indemnity; 45¢ for each additional $100 to a maximum of $1,000. (Plus appropriate postage.)

* Acknowledgement of receipt (Canadian or U.S. destination) 88¢ at time of mailing or $1.55 after mailing (Canadian destination only).

For Canadian residents mailing parcels 1 kg. and over within Canada (domestic mail), rates vary according to destination. Ask your Post Master for the chart for your area.
Over 1 kg. rates vary by destination (country).

Small packets is a category designed to provide an alternative to Parcel Post for items weighing up to 2 kg. They may be sealed and security registered but cannot be insured (unless sent at parcel rates). An "Air Mail" sticker is required on all air mail small packets. All small packets must bear a green Customs label C1 (form no. 43-074-076). Parcels over 1 kg. to U.S. require customs label no. 43-074-013.

The trick is to stay current. Publishing is a volatile business. Companies' needs shift. Magazines move. So do editors. Look at the listing above for an idea of the changes a mere year can bring. It boils down to one thing: You need the current edition of this book.

Writer's Market is your guide to getting your work into the right editors' hands. You get 4,000 buyers of work by freelance writers. You get articles by and about industry insiders, interesting and informative sidebars, and plentiful tips from editors on everything from article queries to book proposals.

The 1995 edition includes 700 new market listings. And every listing that's back from last year has been verified for accuracy and updated as necessary, so you get the very latest information.

Writer's Market provides you with all the information you need to market your work effectively—including:

- interviews with authors, editors and other professionals in the field
- two updated sections that help you with the business side of writing—"Before Your First Sale" and "Minding the Details" cover the nuts and bolts
- "Current Trends in Publishing," an article on industry developments
- "How Much Should I Charge?"—a popular feature, updated for 1995, designed to guide you in setting your freelance fees
- comments from Writer's Market editors in certain listings; these offer advice and tips—additional information that the publisher may not have included

You work hard shaping your queries, polishing your manuscripts. Now make sure that you get them to the right people at the right places. Use the wealth of information at your fingertips in the 1995 Writer's Market. It's the way to target your market…to sell more of what you write.

"Purchasing Writer's Market turned out to be the best buy I have ever made…. After cross-referencing its various sections, I was able to organize my thinking and target my market….I signed with Simon & Schuster/Prentice Hall Business Products."
